Nominate Your Students’ Best Papers for our New Student Research Award!

BY AMY FILIATREAU, LIBRARY DIRECTOR
AFiliatreau@lynn.edu

Let’s honor the best in student research at Lynn! Did you have a student turn in a stellar research project or paper last semester? Please nominate these student projects for our first annual Student Research Award! We will have a committee of faculty and staff review and discuss the papers/projects and decide on one undergraduate and one graduate student winner.

Each winner will receive a $200 prize and a plaque. Winners will be announced and celebrated at our Published Faculty Reception on April 12.

Nominations are due by March 15. To nominate a student, please use our nomination form (see insert) or send a complete copy of the paper, the student’s full name, and a brief summary (max 250 words) of why you think the student’s work is deserving of the award, to AFiliatreau@lynn.edu.

Nominate as many students as you like, and encourage your students to nominate themselves as well! ~
Send Us Your Publications

BY LEECY BARNETT, REFERENCE & INSTRUCTION LIBRARIAN
LBarnett@lynn.edu

Once again, Lynn University Library needs your help. We are compiling a list of faculty publications from the past year (February 2015-January 2016) to be recognized at the Published Faculty Reception on Tuesday, April 12 (4:30-6:00 pm). Once again, the reception will be held in the beautiful Wold Salon. Even if you did not get published this year, please mark the date on your calendar so you can come celebrate along with your colleagues who will be recognized for their publications.

To be eligible for inclusion, you must have authored any of the following: books, articles, reviews, papers, presentations, or musical scores and/or recordings. Additionally, they must have been peer reviewed or published by scholarly entities.

If you have published any material in the past year, please email Leecy Barnett (LBarnett@lynn.edu) with the title of the work and publication information. If you have a copy of the publication which you could give to the library, that would be greatly appreciated. Please contact Leecy with the requested information as soon as possible.

We will also be giving special recognition to Lynn faculty who have published iBooks in the past year (February 2015-January 2016). –

Some of last year’s award recipients included:

The Triplets Separated at Birth (left to right): Dr. Mark Pickering, Dr. Christopher Rice, Dr. Jonathan Sperry

Best Presentations About Beer:

Dr. Erika Grodzki
Dr. Sophia Stone

It’s All About the Chimps - Dr. Andrew Halloran

Deadline for submission to be recognized as a Published Faculty is March 22.
TLC for Musical Scores

BY TSUKASA CHERKAOUI, MUSIC LIBRARIAN
TCherkaoui@lynn.edu

The Music Library has over 6,000 musical scores, consisting mainly of instrumental works like violin sonatas, piano trios, bassoon duets, brass quintets, and cello concertos. They are the strength of our music collection at Lynn.

Unlike books, most of the sheet music comes with several parts—what librarians call a "multi-part item." For example, the sheet music of a violin sonata consists of a piano score and a violin part. When an item like this becomes part of the library's collection, it needs extra attention to be circulated.

Most of our multi-part musical scores are hand-sewn into binders, which increases their durability. Additionally, we prevent rust stains by removing staples during the process. Both of these efforts are aimed at increasing the shelf life of the items. These are just two of the ten steps that each musical score undergoes from the time of reception until it is placed on the shelf. Each step is essential in order to maximize the university's investment, to accurately catalog them, to give an organized look, and for them to be shared by the university community.

When I see our music students and faculty use the bound scores at concerts, I feel rewarded. After all, our musical scores are not decorations in the library. They are there to be used. Scores are available, just like any book in the library, for loan to students, faculty, or staff that play instruments.

Art Auction to Fund Library Renovation

Auction to be held on February 18

BY LISA GOTTLIEB, ARCHIVIST & ART CATALOGER
LGottlieb@lynn.edu

For many years, the Eugene M. and Christine E. Lynn Library had the privilege of hosting a large and eclectic collection of art and artifacts donated by our gracious patrons. From the early 1990s onward, the library housed an assortment of African art and artifacts, paintings, photographs, prints, ethnographic textiles, sculptures, and stoneware. Although the works were removed last semester, they will continue to provide a lasting benefit to the Library as the proceeds of their sale goes to fund a much anticipated renovation.

The collection will be auctioned through:
A.B. Levy's
211 Worth Avenue
Palm Beach, Florida 33480

Employees and students are welcome to bid on the collection. The February 18th auction will feature works of African & Oceanic Art, Antiques and Photography. Visit ablevys.com/upcomingauctions.html for more information.
Can’t Find What You Need? Interlibrary Loan (ILL) It!

BY JARED WELLMAN, DIGITAL RESOURCES LIBRARIAN
JWellman@lynn.edu

Now that we have so many great discovery tools in the Lynn Library, a cursory search can unearth books and articles that may have taken months to uncover in the past. Armed with citations, a patron need only sign into their ILL account and send the request(s) through. Find what you want, scroll to the bottom, and click “Request Item”. Fill in the required information, so we know who to give the item to when it arrives.

ILL Borrow and Lending Filled

Thanks to the ease of discovery and natural inquisitiveness of Lynn Library users, our borrowing has gone through the roof in the past year. Please don’t hesitate to ask us to get you something you need. –

SPRING LIBRARY HOURS
MON - THU | 7:30am - Midnight
FRI | 7:30am - 6pm
SAT | 11am - 6pm
SUN | Noon - Midnight
Points of View Reference Center
A great database to better understand controversial issues from both sides!

BY ALISON LEONARD, ONLINE LEARNING & REFERENCE LIBRARIAN
ALEonard@lynn.edu

The Lynn Library now subscribes to a new database: Points of View Reference Center (PVRC). It presents multiple sides of a topic to help students better understand controversial issues and write persuasive papers, not to mention helping their analytical thinking skills.

The interface of PVRC is super user-friendly. It contains more than 370 topics, each with an overview, a point (argument), and a counterpoint (opposing argument). Each are just about one-page in length (your students will love that), and every topic links to articles in newspapers, magazines, e-books, and academic journals. And of course, there’s a citation link.

It’s worth mentioning that PVRC is part of the EBSCO family of databases. That means PRVC will link to articles in Academic Search Complete, which describes itself as “the definitive database for multidisciplinary research.”

Here are the highlights of PVRC:
1. Browse by Category: great for students who are looking for topic ideas!
2. Overview essay, one-page
3. Point (argument), one-page
4. Counterpoint (opposing argument), one-page
5. Link to articles on the same topic
6. Citation link

Questions? Classroom session to demonstrate searching?
Contact Alison Leonard at ALeonard@lynn.edu, or x7071 -

Learn a new language with us.
On lynn.edu/library -> Click on DATABASES then search for MANGO LANGUAGES
Wanted: Professors to Stump the Students for Faculty vs. Students Trivia Night

BY SABINE DANTUS, OUTREACH LIBRARIAN
SDantus@lynn.edu

Are you that friend that always has the answers to life's random facts? Have you ever been told that Jeopardy! is awaiting your application? If so, Faculty vs. Students Trivia Night is for you.

Lynn Library's Faculty vs. Student Trivia Night is a trivia contest where teams of faculty compete against teams of students. In each trivia night, there will be several rounds with different teams, and each round has a different topic or challenge. For example, teams will be tasked with identifying songs from sound clips, or answering different types of questions from various subjects like drama, English, math, history, or science.

This new program seeks to support the Lynn Library's mission to foster learning in a collaborative environment between students, faculty, and librarians in a dynamic and fun setting.

If you are interested in creating a faculty team or being part of one for trivia night, please contact me at SDantus@lynn.edu by February 16, and be sure to encourage your students to create teams as well! ~

We Have Textbooks

BY JARED WELLMAN, DIGITAL RESOURCES LIBRARIAN
JWellman@lynn.edu

The Lynn Library has been purchasing at least one print copy of every required textbook used in our classrooms. We began this initiative at the beginning of the fall semester, and have continued it during this term. Making sure we have all of the textbooks is complicated. We have to generate the list of required books in time to review them against our current holdings, submit the order, then receive and process the order. We also attempt to put valuable metadata on each book to make it easier for students and us to find:

- A professor's name
- Course codes and numbers
- Course titles

So far this year, we have circulated our textbooks over 1,300 times. This accounts for nearly 25% of our physical library usage. Please help us continue this great service for our students. Make sure your required texts are there by searching under the textbook icon on the library homepage for your books. If you can't find your book, let us know and we will get it! If the book is there, then please let your students know. ~

Don't forget to remind your students to check their papers and writing projects through our subscription to Grammarly@EDU an automated online grammar tutor and revision tool for academic writing success.

On lynn.edu/library Click on DATABASES then search for Grammarly

Only Lynn students, faculty and staff with a lynn.edu or email.lynn.edu can create an account.

Access Code: c8S2wFEGZxcDq78c
THE EVOLUTION OF INTELLECTUAL FREEDOM

What your research supposedly looks like:

What your research actually looks like:

Figure 1. Experimental Diagram

Figure 2. Experimental Mess
Events and Programs

All library sponsored events are free and open to invited guests, students and faculty/staff at Lynn University. For most events, we do ask that you RSVP. If you have any questions or comments, please call Sabine Oantus at ext. 7708.

Digital Learning Day - iPad Pro
Wednesday, February 17
Lynn Library Lobby
11:00 am - 1:00 pm
Explore the common and not so common features of your brand new iPad Pro! There will be library swag giveaways!

Black History Month Open Mic Night
Wednesday, February 24
Elmore Dining Commons
6:00 pm
Join the Library, Office of Diversity, and SAB for a Black History open mic night, open to all types of performers.

Coming up in March...
• Faculty vs. Students Trivia Night
• Grown-up Gaming
• Film: American Revolutionary: The Evolution of Grace Lee Boggs
• InfoShop @ the Library: Theme - Writing
• Freedom of Information Day

Extra Credit Alert: Faculty, consider encouraging your students to attend these programs by providing extra credit.

LIBRARY MONTHLY

Call 561-237-7254
E-mail library@lynn.edu
Text 561-299-3043
Visit lynn.edu/library

Visit our blog
lynnlibrary1.wordpress.com
Lynn Library’s 2016 Student Research Award Nomination Form

Let’s honor the best in student research at Lynn! Did you have a student turn in a stellar research project or paper last semester? Please nominate these papers for our first annual Student Research Award! We will have a committee of faculty and staff review and discuss the papers/projects and decide on one undergraduate and one graduate student winner. Each winner will receive a $200 prize and a plaque. Winners will be announced and celebrated at our April 12th Published Faculty Reception. Nominations are due by March 15.

1. Nominator’s First and Last Name: ________________________________

2. Nominator’s Email: ____________________________________________

3. Student’s First & Last Name: __________________________________

4. Student’s Email: _____________________________________________

5. Student Status
   □ Current Undergrad   □ Current Graduate Student   □ Already Graduated   □ Unsure

6. Reason for Nomination. Describe why you think the student’s work is deserving of a research award.

   ____________________________________________________________
   ____________________________________________________________
   ____________________________________________________________
   ____________________________________________________________
   ____________________________________________________________
   ____________________________________________________________

7. Please attach student paper. We require a complete copy of the paper/project you are nominating. If you prefer, you can email a copy of the paper to Amy Filiatreau, afiliatreau@lynn.edu.