Self Study Report

By JAMES B. ROBERTSON

From May 4 to May 7, the college will be evaluated by a visiting team from The Commission on Colleges of The Southern Association of Colleges and Schools. The chairperson of the team is President S. David Frazier, Ph.D. of Peace College, Raleigh, North Carolina.

President Council A. Anderson, Ph.D. of Averett College, Danville, Virginia and President James T. Rogers, Ph.D. of Berean College in Gainesville, Georgia are also on the visiting evaluation team.

Other members of the team are Sister Mary Ruth Coffman, Chairman, Department of English, Cullman College; Mr. Opye Jeane, Chairman, Natural Sciences and Math, John Tyler Community College; Mr. Kyle Mire, Instructor in Marketing, Hinds Junior College; Mr. Carlos R. Namny, Business Administrator, Jackson College; Mr. Roy Zeagler, Professor, Business Ad ministrator, Middle Georgia College.

Each member of the evaluating team has received a copy of theSelf Study Report, which is also available to students at the take-out desk in the Library.

Dr. Frazier toured the campus on April 21 and was impressed with the facility as well as with preparations for the self-study visit.

We are eagerly anticipating the visit of the Southern Association of Colleges and Schools which is necessary for re-affirmation of accreditation and recognized candidacy status as a four year institution.

Please read the institutional self-study report. It offers a comprehensive and probing account of the college's strengths and weaknesses, as well as its goals for the future.

With the cooperation of the student body, re-affirmation of accreditation and recognized candidacy status will be a reality in the fall of 1975.

Student Government's New President

On Friday, April 11, 1975, the College of Boca Raton sponsored a Talent Show. Eldridge MacEwan, "MC" for the night, reported humorously on the events of the evening.

Responsibility for the organization and completion of the show, were Tiger Mulligan, and Eldridge Johnson MacEwan, III.

The show was uniquely conveyed with a generously warm talent from each individual person.

The night began, with Eldridge and Tiger singing, "Home on the Range.

Below is a list of the events following:

1.2. Kin Faye: guitar, "My Father's Song." "Spanish Eyes."
15.15. Tiger singing and Eldridge doing his famous, "Song and Dance..."
19.19. Lee Braverman and Ira Rosenberg: "All washed up?"
20.20. Kim Faye: "Two Hirds." "A Spent State, UI!" 21.21. Tiger: "Wishing." 22.22. Alex on piano, Tiger on guitar, Neil Fine on bongo drums, "Ohio." 23.23. On behalf of Administration, Faculty, and Students, we would like to thank Terry and Eldridge and whoever else contributed, for all the hard work put in for a superb performance.

Summer Session

The Liberal Arts Associate graduate may desire to become a professional secretary in preparation for employment.

If things look down due to job scarcity, the College of Boca Raton is offering in September a two semester unique accelerated secretarial program that will meet the requirements set by The National Secretaries Association for Certified Professional Secretaries.

Interested associate degree liberal arts graduates should contact the college's Registrar for additional information.

In Remembrance Of A Friend

By DOROTHY CHAFIELD

To all of us who knew him, he was more than just a friend. On April 18, 1975, The College of Boca Raton dedicated "The Cameron Fox Memorial Rare Book Collection." This memorial was made possible through the contributions of friends and relatives. The Dedication Address was given by Rev. Martin Devereaux, and the unveiling and presentation to Mr. and Mrs. A.M. Fox, Jr. was made by President Ross. The ceremony was short and simple, yet quietly attended by many who wished to show their remembrance of a friend.
A Rare Opportunity

Appreciation

In this, my final editorial of the school year, I’d like to express my deepest thanks to my two co-editors Greg Mattaliano and Pat Winburn, who both will be leaving the paper. Thanks to these two individuals the paper will have been at its best. We have really done anything. Each time a statement was made, it was met by bursts of applause by people, who, in their mindless ecstasy, thought “we’re really telling these people what we think all along.”

What came across to me was a feeling that I and the others who have been involved in Student Government this past year have wasted our time and energy trying to do things for people and trying to help people with problems who could really care less for me. For this, I am a very depressing thought. This is the type of attitude that causes individuals like Carla Hommels to resign from office, which in turn is appreciated.

The student government is exactly what the term implies. Government made up of and made for students. The people who are elected hold certain offices and are expected to do things like review today’s student newspaper, published by the students. My office is run by the students and I hope all students will be proud of the efforts of their student government organization.

The SGA this year has come a long way from what it was last year — five keg parties and the selection of Marymount College rings. It has not gone as far as it should go or needs to go. We can take the type of attitude that prevails now, throw our hands up in the air and complain, or we can allow our energy to go further than hot air passing over our lips as a way of keeping people actively, help think of one, run for office, write up a list or a hundred other things that we say should be done every day.

For the future, I would have written and written and written more often than making the few people who read it P.A.O. at me. I wish you would prove me wrong and give the help he’s going to need to make next year’s student government organization something to be proud of.

Letters to the Editor

Dear Editor,

I am writing in regard to the damages that have been occurring both in the dorms and around campus. In one week alone after the students returned after Easter Vacation the amount of damages were astonishing, and are very costly. I can’t understand why some people can go around and destroy the hard work we all put into ourselves and others. In a recent weekend the hall was smashed by someone who must have been pretty drunk who just ruined it for everyone else, I would have given the person the fifteen events if he was hurting that bad.

Someone must know who is doing these things but yet these things go unnoticed. I wish that if anyone does see any damage being done that he will come forth to me or one of the SGA members to report it. I am sure most of the people who see these sick, immature people are. The maintenance department works very hard at this school, and they really do try to fix things around and repair things that have been destroyed for no reason at all except for kicks by a few drunk, rowdy people. I hope all students will make an effort to giving opportunity for all worthwhile contributions.

A good student when everybody clamors for more privileges and responsibility in financial affairs, you have digressed an initiative and maturity of judgement to social matters which I would hope will most characteristically other student organizations and activities on campus. Student-run activities when organized under the type of leadership you have displayed would soon find the same degree of support and respect that you have worked hard but successfully to obtain. Congratulations!

Dear Editor,

At the close of another year, I would like to thank you and your staff on publishing an excellent student newspaper. The time and effort of all the writers involved is obvious at first sight. The most important aspect of any editorial material, published were always handled in an open and just matter.

"Uncle Chuck" Wants You To Go Through These Doors!!

"Uncle Chuck" is your friendly librarian again with a few words of wisdom.

Next year you will be surprised to see quite a few changes for the students' benefit:

1. First and foremost, concerning the use of the glass doors, students will be permitted to walk in and out of them at any time and the faculty will be forced to walk around outside through the piles of sand.

The reason for this drastic change is for the benefit of making it easier for the students to get to the classroom building. If I, or my student workers, catch any faculty members using these doors I'm afraid I'll have to send you to the lower authorities.

2. Magazine will be put back on the floor for everyone's convenience inside as well as outside the library.

3. As far as noise in the library, I promise I will stay hidden in my office, sipping my coffee, and let the students have freedom to breathe as well as to speak. Also there will be smoking, eating and drinking (any kind of drinks!) permitted throughout the library.

4. Instead of my wardrobe consisting of old faded jeans and work shirts that I've owned for 10 years, I pledge to wear coordinated clothes of up-to-date stylish fashions.

I would like to thank the student library workers for their hard, slaving hours they most graciously put in, and most of all, putting up with my childish temper tantrums. Who will buy me a case of beer? Boy, could I use one after making these changes, see me in the "Hall" every night after work and I'll be waiting anxiously for my "case."

HIGH POINTS

1. The Marymount Mickey Mouse Fan Club has changed their name to the College of Bohemian Renegades.

2. The disappearance of the mailboxes.

3. The empty rack walking out of the cafeteria to take a dip in the pond.

4. Late night fire alarm practice every other night.

5. "Shall!" Big Jim Britt moves outside for further protection.

6. Big Brother Wally Van Der HVnden has decided to be the Dean of Students. If no one will bother him.

7. Tiny Tina Pezzimenti has demonstrated on stage that she is the most sensuous belly dancer at CBH.

8. Fonest "Really Big Show" MacEwan did an impression of his stud life on campus.

9. CBH now offers a four year vacation plan for the many intellectuals majoring in advanced sultan, and bar exploration.

10. The Basketball Team has decided to break up since there is so much individual talent and all the other schools are afraid of their power.

11. The SGA (Secret Gardening Association) has occasionally been sighted trying to accomplish the unaccomplishable.

12. Library Attendance has reached an all-time high this year. Studies show the Selfish Study Program is the root cause.

13. CBH is also attempting to acquire accreditation for their crash diet program offered exclusively at Hemo's muck-muck center.

Dear Blabby,

I think I'm going crazy. Recently I've been doing really idiotic things. For instance, yesterday I went outside and climbed a palm tree and sat on the top and threw coconuts down on people. I even tried to hit Sister Fidelis as she stopped to pick up a drosophila. They had to call the Fire Department to get me down. When they finally got me down I stepped on one Fireman's toe and socked another in the eye.

A few months ago while my roommate was sleeping, I took a vodka bottle and broke her leg with it. Every night at midnight I put on my long white gown and take a walk by people's windows and I act like a ghost. Blabby, please tell me that I am a normal human being. I couldn't really be crazy. Could I?

Cathy Maloney

Dear Calbo,

You are a sick individual. You need help. May I recommend Dr. Gorgorg? She is really excellent with cases like yours. Good luck and happy snapping.

Dear Blabby,

Your column has really helped me with all of my problems. My social life is so much better since I've started reading your column. I have met so many more people and have been going so many more places. I recently met this handsome hunk of a Chinese man who I will be marrying come June. Thank you so much, Blabby. How could I ever repay you?

The Towering Trinity

May 13, 1975 proved to be a fateful day on the CPR campus as a fine building, Trinity Hall, disappeared.

This was the day Mr. VanderHeyden decided to have his farewell party for the students at the top of the building. He scheduled it to begin at 8:30 and go 'til about 4 a.m. as people started to file up to the building, taking the elevator to the top, a stiff breeze came up, which reminded everyone about the hurricane watch that was set up for Florida.

Everyone important was there: Greg Prater, Kim Kay, Beau Stewart, Penny Kelly. At 10 just about 300 people were crammed into the apartment — all were having the best time of their lives. In the largest room was a band and the center of attraction was Joan Murrell humping with John Hungerford. Next to them were Norbert Rivera and Marta Azas who were really getting down. Mark and Zuzette Gravenhorst were over with a group of kids talking and humping with John Hungerford. Tony Glennon, Bill Cusick, Johnson, Tony Glennon, Bill Cusick, Maria Azua who were doing well in Spanish, and Andrea Groves. Ziba Ehteshami was the brightest one of the group when she realized that as the building was sinking they were getting closer to ground level. So, Murray Fuchs, Jerry Sorrey, Bill Volz and Mark Maimone broke windows and helped people to get out. Fran DiPre was covering in Spanish and Andrea Cassese was doing well in English.

After everyone was safely out they realized the ordeal was over, Joan and John were still humping their bums off.

Knowing Your P's And Q's

In the past three issues we wrote about the need for "planning your time" and "concentration on the two dynamic requirements for success in studying. In this issue we plan to deal with a new advanced theory for The College of Boca Raton students to follow. Since this theory is so dynamic, we have set up a quick easy method in which to learn it. We have taken the five successive letters of the alphabet starting with the letter P. All must strive to follow this closely in order to derive an excellent examination grade. Please follow: P - Do not preview the assignment before reading it. This will not only confuse the student, but also take up precious partying time.

Q - Do NOT Question what the assignment may include but rather quit while you are ahead.

R - This does not mean Read the assignment using eyes & brain as we printed in an earlier issue; it means Relax because your eyes and your brain are important factors in the art of parving.

S - Forget the old chitlist! "State to yourself & in your own words what you have read." S is for Speed, the faster you go over the assignment the more time you have for exciting adventures. Such as going to the Hall to meet the lovely Princess maybe to the Crown for a night cap.

T - T is for testing your memory of the assignment a few hours or a day later. Who could be bothered! To take off or for (crusade). REMEMBER "If you don't know it now you will never know it!!!"

The 3 P's As we mentioned above, the first step in the PQRST method of study is to Preserve Precious Partying time. In one issue we mentioned that previewing the material to be studied was necessary. Erase this from your memory. Previewing is a waste of the CBR student's valuable time. Plus not to mention what a drag it would be looking through various textbooks trying to find the Key sentences which wouldn't give the general idea of what the paragraph is about anymore. Performing the previewing step will not only confuse the CBR student, but also delay his action packed plans for the evening!!!

QUT The second step in the PQRST method is quit while you are ahead. The more you try to find the answers to good, intelligent questions as you study, the more uncertain your learning is likely to be. Learning to formulate questions will also hurt you in preparing for examinations. The CBR student will become nervous and irritable before the exam. This will destroy his social life.

RELAX Our third step in the PQRST method is to Relax. Partying is an active process and you must take an active part in that process. As a CBR student you must concentrate on the art of partying, your brain must be actively engaged. Relaxation is the key. Do not let yourself get upset over a difficult assignment. It is not worth it. Just scan over the material, then relax for the big night ahead of you.

SPREAD Our fourth step in our new method of study is Speed. By this we mean the faster the CBR student scans over the material, the more time he has to donate to his social life. The student will be able to get a couple of "Throw boys" and play a couple of games of pool etc., at the RAT. If the student is ready for some late night excitement, CROWN is the next step.

Take Off The final step in the PQRST technique of study is Take Off. This step is important. The commandment for the CBR student to follow before heading out for an adventurous evening is: If you don't know it now you will never know it.... Conclusion This is, in brief, the new dynamic PQRST technique of study. Every step has been proved an important link in a chain that leads to a happy and contented CBR student. Most people report that when they actually try this method it proves to be a simpler and easier way to endure campus life. So give it a Trial and have a drink on me.

Why I'm Voting for Ronald Reagan

By J.P. WELDON

First let me begin by squelching some rumors which have apparently been spread concerning my political beliefs. It has been stated by several individuals in my Comparative Political Systems class that I support a Communist, a Fascist, or even just a little pink. Conservatives, let me emphatically say this propaganda is designed for your own interest. I am definitely a Communist. Fascist. Pinko.

Why am I voting for Ronald Reagan in '76? You ask? The vacuum which has been left by the disappearance of Darwin, Marx, Zepppo, and Wagner can only be filled by one Ronald. Since Ronald McDonald has not won his McDerby into the ring, this leaves us with only one obvious choice.

Ronald Reagan holds many of the same views I have long cherished. First, I believe that a woman's place is in the home. Second, I believe that the only way to get America back on a more sane and stable course is by more conservative ends and by crushing the subversive elements in our society. Ronald Reagan has proven that he has the ability to lead. Just the other night in "Read of the Communist" he held off repeated attacks by the Indians until the cavalry was able to drive. If this isn't leadership then I don't know what is. Peculiarly to the present action I believe Ronald Reagan will be able to provide us could even take Viet Nam and Cambodia and help the Arabs take over Israel and the rest of the world. Yes, I believe that Ronald Reagan is the best man for the job. If not, he can at least gradually ride off into the sunset.

Everything You Need To Know About Stereos

So you say you want a stereo, huh? Well, hit the old yellow pages for some place within walking distance that gives you stamps and you'll be ready to begin your search.

Evaluating stereo can be tricky as the process must start before you even leave your room. First get high, very high. This is the only way you can be sure that the sounds you hear in the store will be the same ones you will hear for years to come, once you've found the store, look around till you spot a tape recorder. Remember that first impression are always the best so buy the first one you see. For purposes of comparison, you might try and imagine how high you are.

1) WOW — this is a technical term used to express the reaction that you hope all your friends will have to your new system.

2) RUMBLE — this is a low rumbling noise that some cheap or malfunctioning turntables emit through the speakers. Sometimes when a record is played it will have this problem built right into the record groove. One cut on a very famous album West Side Story, has been notorious for it's rumble.

3) TAPE HEAD — This is the part of the tape recorder which contacts the moving tape on the heads and controls the recording and playback of the tape. A devotee of tape machines who can be recognized by the presence of a recorder at his side while he eats, walks, sleeps, visits, sounds, goes to movies, and makes love.

4) XENOMIC — This is a combination of letters that sounds very technical and will probably be a true high fidelity term some day, although it isn't yet.

Now let's talk about the separate components. In any given price range, the best receiver can be found by counting the knobs and dials. According to the formula — e = h/k — a receiver should have one knob for every ten dollars cost. Hence, any good setup unit needs to have at least

The Girls on the tennis team would first like to thank The College of Boca Raton for being so generous in supporting them with little extras such as tennis balls, wind screens, stringing,and a tremendous amount of other luxuries. Also, the girls would like to thank Coach Quirk who was a perfect example of physical fitness due to his diet of eating everything in sight. Mr. Quirk was a strong believer that beer has a great nutritional value and was always good for a pitcher or two. The girls have high hopes that if the coach can't beat Jimmy Connors in a year, he may be able to at least be a half-bad for him. Before our no. 1 girl, proved that an alligator is a girl's best friend, not only does she wear them on her clothing, but she carries one with her at all times. She can always beer running around campus or eating peanut butter in the cafeteria. A knack for putting the coach in his place is one of her assets, although no one really knows what she is talking about. After a match, when the rest of the players are well on their way to getting completely washed, Usan is reading her Human Experience book for English. And Sabina is in the background singing "I Honestly Love You" along with Olivia,沙漠的沙丘. Her favorite foreign word -- "maancherek" we've yet to find out what it means. But the only girl on the team who is not an alcoholic, but we're still trying. Sabina is to slow on the court that the tennis ball falls asleep. The most vulgar English word she knows is "the Nix," something she constantly tells us to mind.

Connie, the blonde haired tennis star, always keep her spot on the court by her bright orange head band. Mr. Quirk finds her waist a lovely arm rest. Connie earned the title Ms. Fortunate by constantly getting her own grown tennis

Coach Quirk's Double Fault

The next three girls are dedicated customers at the "Raf," so dedicated that they were cut off from the bar one night.

Cruiter has a habit of filling her water glass with beer on an extra hot day, or any day for that matter. She has such grace on the court that when hopping for an over-head smash she not only smashes the ball but she smashes her wrist also. Mary is quite the conversationalist on the court, if only there was someone there for her to talk to.

Terry was voted best dressed on the court, she wears unique color combinations, a green sock and a yellow sock, along with a red skirt and a blue rimmed hat which set off her grey tennis shoes and her men's shorts. Terry has the utmost manners and consideration for others on the court, at least once a day she manages to blow Kiff down during their doubles tennis. So that they both end up on their families to lose the match. Kit and Terry are constantly figuring out some complicated strategy which somehow always seems to defeat them.

Kit, voted Ms. Concentration, is the only member who can focus out loud in the middle of a point, fail up and forget about returning the ball. However every match she insisted that every player eat her homemade "lait cement," something which they always declined. Kit, rather than running to a shot, will wiggle to it. Having so small we had to cut an inch off of her racket in order to get her. All of these attributes led to an impressive four wins, ten from Terry, ten from Mary.

An End At Last

By J.R. WELDON

The Vietnam debacle is finally over without a bloodbath and without communism having to be stopped at the Rocky Mts. Thankfully, in many ways it is the final end of American incoherence and, hopefully, American innocents abroad. Bernard Fall of Harvard has spent years trying to convince his nations that the Vietnamese learned the lessons of guerrilla warfare centuries ago during a thousand years of Chinese domination. Furthermore, the same peoples learned to work in small units that the Vietnamese finally, Western statesmen learned to work in small units that they could not merge into social-economic-ideological axioms. There is never the twain.

Above all, they could not merge into social-economic-ideological axioms. There is never the twain.

One of these peoples was the Vietnamese. As Easterners, they have a strong consciousness of destiny by doing a favor for a Vietnamese great human destiny, being the cruel, funny and charming as the invisible character we previously learned to love. However, the film falls short. Maybe it's the music. There doesn't seem to be the collection of terrific tunes that the first movie had. We must remember that the second movie didn't have a Broadway play forlornning it. In "Funny Lady", there seems to be a different Barbra, a more mature actress-comedienne. Barbra seems to have mellowed; a little more sure of her actions, more definite in her delivery. Omar Sharif is back as Nicky Arnstein. You'll notice the difference between the first and second film. It's mellowed a bit, too, about twenty pounds worth. The hardest character for me to like was James Caan. He doesn't fit in the comedic role. I suppose they're trying to upgrade Billy Rose's image, but from what I've read and seen, Jimmy didn't help it much. So I guess it's back to macho roles. The costuming and sets were one likeable aspect of "Funny Lady." It was amazing the way Barbra made the transition from late 20's to fashions of late 40's fashion.

Well, all I can say is — Barbra, you've got two more possible sequels to make. "Funny Woman," and "Funny Grandmother."

MURDER ON THE ORIENT EXPRESS

You want to see a superb who-done-it, as the case may be, how-many-dun-it? Go see "Murder on the Orient Express."

"Murder" is about exactly that with a little twist in it to keep it interesting. We have a side story concerning the kidnapping, ransom and death of a little child in the 1930's. Somehow years later the people in the case come together on a train going from Istanbul to France. You'll love how it's solved — the murder, that is.

Albert Funny proves to be a superb Hercule Poirot - Agatha Christie's famous character, a detective. Lauren Bacall is terrific as the widowed American wife. Ingrid Bergman is a God-fearing missionary. However, I don't think her performance rates the Oscar that she won. Michael York plays a Baron (God, he gets around). Sean Connery portrays a rich British major. Wendy Hiller is a deviously well-played cadaverous old lady and Tony Perkins plays a nervous secretary a la "Psycho."

The stereophonic score if you're lucky enough to be in a well-equipped theater is a motivating force in the tone of the plot. When combined with the kidnapping scenes it creates a really ghastly effect.

The filming of the movie is another great point. Some of the scenes are breathtaking and very beautiful, especially the side shots from the train.

This who-done-it will keep you on the edge of your seat and if you follow the clues you just might pick up the solution. Maybe.

Why No Play?

In an interview with Mr. Bill Smith about the cancellation of The Rat, the play scheduled for this spring, Mr. Smith made the following statement:

"I have been asked to give a statement in this paper, explaining why the spring theatre production was cancelled. It was not for lack of funds.

"Mr. Jerry Carville (the Executive Vice President) and I did meet to discuss the budget for the show. He showed a willingness to supply any amount of monies needed. (I mention this because I know that the first thought that came into many minds is that the school would not or could not supply proper funds.)

"For this particular production a new procedure of releasing the funds was followed. This in itself was a mistake — whose I do not know.

"Why I was asked to follow a procedure that led me from Mrs. Mazzarella and Belford to Sharon Noris in Wilmington to back to me to Mr. Jerry Carville back to me to Pat Carville to Walter VanderHeijden, I do not know. An administrator, I believe I was Dr. Mazzarella, told me recently that this was a mistake.

"The second problem was that the funds were released to me too late. Mainly there was not sufficient time to mount a set on which to do the production (the set for The Rat is quite complicated).

"I want to point out that responsibility in no way falls on John Bos, our set designer. He had for weeks wanted to begin building and had submitted a fine design for the show. This entailed many hours of thought and work.

"Ultimately the student services office did not release the funds in time. To the best of my knowledge this was a foul-up in communications. Student services should not have been involved in the first place. When they were, they failed to act.

Golf Team

BY BOB BOGLE

Our golf team has been trying to fulfill their goals for this season; they have been practicing on Saturdays. The Boca Raton Golf Club has been letting us use their facilities and will do so for the rest of the year. The team usually only practices in small groups of 4-6, because of other student social activities at school. This way the team can't practice all at once to see who places in the better spots.

The team consists of twelve members, and many of them will be leaving at the end of this year. Coach Phil Bruno says that each player is improving his game and scores each week.

Bennie Gordan

If you were at the Rat on Thursday or Saturday you would have loved Bennie Gordan's band "Days of Our Lives." This should be proud to have such a star in our midst.

And Mr. Gordan is that star.

He and his 32-inch nylon guitar broken into three units have recorded 26 singles and eight albums on such labels as R.C.A. and Capitol.

In his younger years Mr. Gordan and company, under the name "Soul Brothers" played at such affairs as Truman Capote's parties at the Plaza Hotel in New York.

Mr. Gordan described himself in this way: "I swear I have no bad habits. I drink and love pretty women and I go to church and don't lie."

Mr. Gordan was discovered while singing gospel in New York by King Curtis, the man who inspired him the most. He respects King White as a contemporary vocalist.

Mr. Gordan discovered Sir Monty Block III, a flashy character who I'm sure you've seen on either Johnny Carson or Mike Douglas. Three of Mr. Gordan's brothers, who are also musicians, are currently travelling with James Brown.

Gordan's latest release is an instrumental titled "Can't Stop"

Lady Sassandra, the stage name of the entertainer he loves with, has just released "Having My Baby."

The band you saw with Mr. Gordan consists of: Kelly, the drummer, who was discovered in New York and born in Africa; Donald "Muscle" Young; from Newark, on bass; Austin "Guitar" Jones on guitar, who has been with Gordan for 16 years and comes from Augusta, Georgia; tenor and band leader John Hoyt, from Bayouman Beach; and J.C. Sanders on rhythm, who is Bennie's nephew.

You couldn't have missed the new addition, The King of Limbo, Johnny Limbo, who put on a fantastic performance.

Bennie Gordan's band, in all three units, ranges in age from 13 to 20 and in all the years the hand has been together he has lost only one man, his organist, who died.

Next time you hear that Blakey band it is all up there and see what's cookin',
