Men's and women's basketball will not compete in Spring 2021

After careful consideration for the safety of the community, Lynn University's basketball teams will not participate in Sunshine State Conference competition during the 2021 spring semester. The NCAA COVID-19 Medical Advisory Group has assessed this sport to be high risk for transmission of COVID-19.

Lynn will continue to provide practice and strength training sessions for its basketball players.

The university will continue to evaluate conditions and determine by Feb. 15 whether baseball, softball and lacrosse will compete in the Spring semester.
