

By Lynn University on Feb. 8, 2022

COVID-19 protocols: mask update

We appreciate the diligence of our students, faculty and staff to keep our university operating safely during the pandemic. We have been closely monitoring conditions and are pleased to report that the number of positive COVID-19 cases within the Lynn community is currently low. Cases in Palm Beach County have also declined significantly.

Effectively immediately, we have revised our health and safety standards as follows:

- Facial coverings are still required in classrooms regardless of vaccination status.
- Masks are encouraged, but not required, in all other indoor spaces.

All other health and safety precautions remain the same at this time, and we will continue to monitor the situation closely and make additional modifications if needed. Please continue to check lynn.edu/roadmap for the latest updates.