The Mid-Manager’s Playbook

Dr. Anthony Altieri, Vice President of Student Affairs, Lynn University
Dr. Theresa Gallo, Associate Dean of Students, Lynn University

Monday, March 5, 2018
Marriott Downton, Salon G
Today’s Objectives:

- Cover tips and strategies to add to your “playbook”.
- Instill confidence in your leadership.
- Discuss various strategies for effectiveness.
Strategies for managing up, down, and around the University
Mid-managers are uniquely positioned as key strategic actors in their organization. Mid-managers translate strategy into action and results.
Transformational mid-management
Transformational Mid-managers

- Lead from within rather than the front
- Promote responsibility among followers by providing higher levels of empowerment in enterprises
- Being unconcerned with power
- Communicating often and clearly and monitoring the messages sent out
Transformational Mid-managers
- Working with people at all stages in implementing new programs and ideas
- Being committed to instilling a sense of “belongingness” in employees; and
- Achieving credibility through honesty, competence, and forward-looking and intelligent behavior.
Importance of Effective Leadership and Followership

- The art of leading while being led
Anticipation and Forward-Thinking
Jeff De Cagna’s Model of embracing strategy as learning
EXAMINE: What beliefs/ways of doing business are preventing your association from thriving in the years ahead?
EMPATHIZE: What short-term problems, intermediate-term needs and long-term outcomes must association stakeholders address to thrive in the years ahead?
EXPLORE: What distinctive solutions, services and support can your association co-create with its stakeholders to help them (the stakeholders) thrive in the years ahead?
EXCHANGE: What assets/resources can association stakeholders and their networks contribute to value creation?

And Finally, EXPERIMENTATION (De Cagna, 2017)
