Connecting the United Nations' Sustainable Development Goals (SDGs) and Global Learning

Anna L. Krift, Ph.D. and Antonella Regueiro, Ph.D.

Welcome

Introductions

Which UN SDGs are most important to you?

<https://www.menti.com/qx1dzzbpdx>

2000: MDGs by 2015

- 8 original goals
 - Top down approach
 - Goals were met, almost met or not by countries

2015: SDGs by 2030

17 goals to transform our world

- UN SDGs
 - Inclusive approach
 - In progress: all can take action
 - UN's call: urgent solutions for urgent times
 - Nations United

How well do you know the 17 SDGs?
Does your campus?

Poll: How many do you connect to personally?

Discussion:

How about your campus?

Any campus-wide initiatives?

SUSTAINABLE DEVELOPMENT GOALS

Take action!

Governmentally IGO NGO driven

- Governments have agreed upon agenda
 - Unlike the MDGs, collaboration across sectors and input sought from citizens (not top-down approach as before)
 - Political agendas and decision-making
 - goals until 2030

Individually driven

- Be the change!
 - Each of us, as global citizens, have power and capacity to drive change and overcome the world's challenges
 - Steps we can take

Connecting the UN SDGs and Global Learning

The Citizenship Project at Lynn

Design Thinking sparks project connections to UN SDGs

- Projects were designed in Lynn 101 classes through design thinking
 - Students took the lead; not faculty driven decision-making
 - CPOs identified for service opportunities (mutual partnerships)
 - Students connected projects to 13 out of 17 goals during the Citizenship Project
 - Projects took place in the classroom and in the community with our CPOs

Breakout Room Session

- Identify challenges and possible solutions to connect the UN SDGs and global learning on your campuses.
 - Could you implement connections in your core curriculum?
 - Would you target a specific group: first year or all students?

Discussion

- What challenges and possible solutions did you identify in your breakout groups?

Breakout Room Session

- Craft ways to create opportunities to connect the SDGs to your campus: individually and institutionally.
 - Questions to ask in your break-out session: How might we? How can we?
 - What would work at your institution?

Discussion

- What opportunities did you determine could be implemented at your institution?

Takeaways

from our session

takeaways

- UN SDGs can be incorporated into campus life
- The SDGs readily blend in curriculum and campus activities
- Colleges and Universities can make a concerted effort to implement tiny steps for big change
- Individuals can also make the effort to implement change
- Be a changemaker!
