Year of Jubilee:
Threshold to the Future

Celebrating the thirtieth year since the founding of the College of Boca Raton, 1991-1992 is indeed a milestone for the College community. It is also a fitting time to take the next big step into the future — a future for which the College has carefully prepared through several years of intensive planning, an unwavering commitment to teaching and sound academic programs, and above all, a vision of what we are striving to become: a university of scholars, students, and supporters intent on becoming all that we can be.

Thus, it was with considerable delight and pride that I announced on September 26, 1991, our transition from the College of Boca Raton to LYNN UNIVERSITY signifying our evolution from a smaller, regional institution to a larger, more diversified organization with a broader national and international focus. We are enormously proud of our legacy of the last thirty years, first as Marymount and then the College of Boca Raton and, in particular, our many alumni who have distinguished themselves and their alma mater in so many noteworthy ways. We are confident that they, their parents, and our many friends share in our excitement and our mission to be a fine university — one that will build in significant ways upon the excellent tradition that was begun three decades ago.

In the finest tradition of American higher education, our Trustees have chosen to name our school for a family whose support and contributions to the school and the community have been extraordinary. The Lynn Family has been integral to our progress from the earliest days, as well as instrumental in shaping what has come to be known as one of the finest municipalities in the nation. Indeed, we are deeply grateful for the past and continuous support of the Lynn Family and are proud to signify our institution’s emergence into the 21st Century by affixing the name LYNN UNIVERSITY to an educational institution that has truly come of age.

C ommemorating the thirtieth year of the founding of the University and the twentieth anniversary of the successful presidency of Dr. Donald E. Ross, our “Year of the Jubilee” celebrates past accomplishments and holds the promise of a future that is bright with opportunity. During this special time in which to lay the groundwork for the future, the Jubilee Committee—with Eugene and Christine Lynn as Honorary Co-Chairs — will serve as Ambassadors to help make this transition.

As we approach a new millennium, Lynn University is prepared to address several important priorities that have grown out of a strategic planning process that has occurred over the last two years. These include the following:

- strengthened academic programs and resources,
- expanded financial aid to support our students,
- development of campus facilities, and
- resources for current and future needs.

Watch for our “PROPOSAL FOR THE FUTURE.” We invite you to join with our Jubilee Committee by participating in the many celebrations that will be taking place throughout this banner year.

University to Build New Gymnasium

longtime supporters Count and Countess Adolph de Hoernle have a reputation for helping to make things happen, and that is exactly what occurred on October 29 at a special reception to honor the de Hoernles for their recent gift of $350,000 to renovate an existing 30-year old dormitory. Lynn University President, Donald E. Ross, and the de Hoernles unveiled the plan for a state-of-the-art gymnasium that is scheduled for completion later next year as a result of a magnanimous gift of $2.5 million from this philanthropic couple.

The 35,000 square-foot gymnasium will have a basketball court with seating for 2,500, racquet and handball courts, offices, a conference room and exercise rooms. Groundbreaking is scheduled for January, 1992.

The de Hoernles are active in many civic and charitable organizations in Palm Beach County and the metropolitan New York area. They are founding members of the New York City Opera and financed the de Hoernle Pavilion at Broxville Hospital. They also contributed $500,000 to refurbish the Boca Raton train station, now a museum, and have given to the Boca Raton Community Hospital and Hospice of Boca Raton.

Lynn University Plans for New Program in Adirondacks

Approved by the New York State Department of Education, The Old Forge College Center of Lynn University will begin operation in the Fall of 1992 or earlier if conditions warrant. Old Forge is located approximately fifty miles from Utica and one-hundred miles from Syracuse on a thirty-five acre campus site donated by Trustee A. Richard Cohen and family. Local students who have completed Associate degree programs in Hotel, Restaurant, and Tourism Management, as well as students from the main Boca Raton campus can matriculate for a semester or a full year at Old Forge and gain special expertise in their field of interest.

Participation in what has become known as “The Old Forge Experience,” focuses on hands-on training in resorts and tourism facilities natural to the Northeast. Students may take a portion of their course work at the main campus in Boca Raton. Students from the main campus must complete at least their freshman year of study prior to participation in the Old Forge program. Transfer students who have completed related Associate degree programs at other institutions may enter the program at The Old Forge College Center and complete the balance of the degree program at the main campus. Programs of study at Old Forge include: hospitality industry, hospitality sanitation and safety, hospitality cost controls, law in the hospitality industry, hospitality accounting, systems and operations, marketing and engineering and internships at hotels, inns, and restaurants.

Vice President for Academic Affairs Appointed

President Ross has announced the appointment of Dr. Jennifer Braaten as Vice President for Academic Affairs effective October 1, 1991. Dr. Braaten has been associated with the institution since 1978 in various academic capacities, most recently as Academic Dean. In 1986 and again in 1989, Dr. Braaten was voted the “Outstanding Teacher of the Year” by the students.

Engaged in a comprehensive strategic planning process over the past ten years, the University is in the process of expanding upper division and graduate programs to keep pace with the expected needs of the 21st Century. President Ross noted, “During the past several months, I have been interviewing and reviewing the credentials of several candidates for the position of Vice President of Academic Affairs and have concluded that Dr. Braaten is both the best qualified and the most appropriate choice for our institution. We are delighted with her appointment.”
Assaf Academic Center Undergoes Major Renovations

Thanks to a generous commitment from Ronald and Kathleen Assaf and Sensormatic Electronics Corporation, the hub of the University's academic enterprise will undergo much-needed renovation. The Assaf Academic Center will be completely refurbished, including classrooms and laboratories. This project promises to be a keystone in the University's future development plans. The Assafs have been very supportive of the University for many years and are very active in the Boca Raton community, serving on Boards of many community agencies and chairing charity benefits. They were the recipients of the University's Boca Raton Award in 1985. Ron has served on the University's Board of Overseers for many years and is a newly elected Trustee.

Kathleen and Ronald Assaf
At a crowded press conference, President Donald E. Ross announced on September 26, 1991, a decision by the Board of Trustees to change the name of the College of Boca Raton to Lynn University. Signifying the school's transition from a smaller, regional institution to a larger and more comprehensive one with an expanded emphasis on upper division and graduate programs, President Ross noted that "naming the new university after the Lynn Family, whose contributions to the school and the community are enormous, is very much in the tradition of higher education and appropriate at this propitious time in our history."

With the start of the 1991-1992 academic year — "A Year of Jubilee" signifying the thirtieth anniversary of the founding of our school — a 58,000 square foot state-of-the-art Lynn Residence Center featuring seventy-two well-appointed rooms and a fitness center that saw five hundred students a day the first week, was officially opened. Reserved for upperclassmen, the Lynn Residence Center is but the latest in a series of commitments made by the Lynn Family to our institution.
UNIVERSITY...
Emergence Into The 21st Century!

A Perspective From One Who Has Watched Us Grow...

From the beginning, twenty years ago, it was obvious that Eugene Lynn was not just another donor to the College. We knew that he believed in private education, but the best news was that he liked the people who ran the College and worked there. Occasionally a couple of us would stop at the Bull & Bear Cafe for breakfast on our way to work. Often, there would be Eugene Lynn with a friendly greeting. He'd know who we were and what we did at the College. That meant a lot to all of us.

For my colleagues and me, who were raising families, those were troubled times. Marymount College was having difficulty and had announced its closing. We knew we were facing an uphill climb just to get back on even ground. But there was Gene Lynn, with advice and support, showing us that he not only believed in private education, but that we were an important part of the community. It has been a continuous source of security and comfort, throughout the many ensuing years, to know that the College has Gene Lynn as a friend.

To me, personally, the name Lynn University has a ring of truth about it. It seems most appropriate. In the years ahead I know we will look back with fondness and pride to the days when we were the College of Boca Raton—gathering our resources, sharpening our skills, preparing to launch ourselves into the 21st Century as Lynn University.
Sunny Florida skies greeted the almost two hundred guests for the dedication of the Lynn Residence Center on Sunday, October 20, 1991. Special guests, faculty, administration, alumni, and staff were on hand for the ribbon-cutting ceremony followed by a brunch on the patio of the residence center. The beautiful residence hall donated by Eugene and Christine Lynn, houses one-hundred forty-four upper classmen in seventy-two rooms equipped with private baths and hookups for telephones and cable TV. A state-of-the-art center has facilities for aerobics as well as exercise and fitness equipment. The Lounge and Study areas round out the modern three-story building which opened in September.

Bernie and Berte Cohen have toured hundreds of nations, visited every continent, many more than once. Eager to share their travel adventures, the Cohens have lectured for the past forty years at colleges and universities. Bernie delivers the lectures and Berte, an award winning photographer, provides the slides. Not just a travelogue, the series emphasizes people — their heritage and culture. Bernie's lectures include lively discussion with the audience. His sense of humor along with his inclusion of anecdotes provides entertainment along with education. While residents of Pennsylvania, the Cohens authored a weekly travel column, "Innocents Abroad," which was syndicated in a number of East Coast newspapers for fifteen years. In addition, the Cohens' travel experiences were further enhanced when Bernie served for many years as the U.S. State Department of Pennsylvania representative for the Sister City Organization.

The Bernie Cohen 1992 Lecture Series scheduled for January 14, 21, 28 and February 4, 11, and 18 will include the following:

Thailand — Fascinating land of orchids, smiling faces, and high technology. Meet the Askas and Yaos in their primitive hillside settlements.

Russia — Pre-and post-Perestroika after a fourth visit this Fall.

Singapore and Malaysia — An idyllic place, Singapore has the reputation of being the "fine-est" city/country in the world — and unforgettable Kuala Lampur and Penang in Malaysia.

India — Exciting history, magnificent beauty and uncomparable poverty — a Kashmiri wedding and dinner with a Maharajah.

South Africa — A beautiful, vibrant land in turmoil.

Galapagos and the Antarctic — serene and breathtakingly beautiful.

In addition to the Travel Lecture Series, Bernie and Berte have teamed up to present a far-ranging exhibit of Bernie's watercolors. Berte supplies Bernie with compositional ideas from her slides from which he expresses his artistic conceptions. The University is pleased to present this exhibit from February 3-14, 1992, and especially appreciative of the fact that thanks to the generosity of the Cohens, all proceeds from the sale of the custom-framed original works of art will go directly to the Lynn University Scholarship Fund.
