MARYMOUNT WELCOMES PARENTS

PARENT'S WEEKEND

The weekend of February 22-24 was Parent's Weekend at Marymount. The theme for this year's weekend was "Springtime in the Old South!"

Friday night began the activities with parents and students alike treated to a well-produced stage production of "Catcher in the Rye" under the direction of Mr. William Smith. On the same bill was "Life as Seen Through Dance," presented by the modern dance classes under the direction of Mrs. Marilyn Remus.

On Saturday morning parents underwent something that all students dread registration. They also met with members of the faculty and administration at an informal coffee. At noon a picnic lunch took place under sunny skies (there was a rumor that most of the parents were extending their vacation another two weeks). In the evening parents and faculty got together for a social hour up in the freshmen dormitory, President Ross, President of the Board of Trustees of the college had honored Dr. Wixted by then presented Dean Wixted with a plaque inscribed with words of honor and praise for Dr. Wixted's loyal, unswerving service to the institution.

HOW THE WEEKEND WENT

Parent's Weekend got off the ground Friday evening with a dance and drama production in two acts presented by the Drama and Dance departments. The first act was "Catcher in the Rye," a novel by J.D. Salinger. It was adapted and directed by Mr. William Smith of the Drama Department.

The drama production was a sad disappointment, instead of simply using the best dancers in the school, Ms. Remus employed the whole of both her classes. The mistakes made by the poorer dancers caused breaks in the routine of the better dancers and three off the timing of the whole company. The choreography was well done, but lost its effect when the assembled mass took the stage. Standards in the dance production were Jeff Moore, who performed and choreographed an outstanding solo in "The Call of Danger," and Anna Solokhny, whose dancing experience lists herself as a champion. "Catcher in the Rye" was a different story. Dr. Wixted gave to the part of Holden Caulfield. He brought life to Salinger's character by combining the right amounts of rage, naivete, and intelligence. He helped throughout his performance by the strong cast of supporting characters, including Brian O'Hanlon, as Maupin, Thomas, as Hunner, and Mariani as Horwitz the hapless hack driver, very much in keeping the action moving. Lee Bra- woman provided a very convincing performance as Phoebe, Sheila Albert, as Phoebe, Caulfield and Wend Friesen as Sunny, a grumpy hunk, made it show more human and more realistic.

Farewell Dr. Wixted

Dr. William Wixted

On Sunday evening, February 18, the Marymount College administration, faculty and staff, community and friends of Dr. William G. Wixted, honored him with a retirement dinner at the Fountains of Palm Beach. Also in attendance were members of his family and former associates from the academic and business communities.

Following a superb meal and cocktail hour the guests paid tribute to Dr. Wixted in an informal program with Sister Dymphna, Sr. Edith, of Marymount Manhattan College as the toastmaster. Sister Dymphna warmly referring to Dr. Wixted as "Bill", reviewed his many services to the order of the Religious of the Sacred Heart of Mary in assisting them in their work at Marymount Manhattan and Marymount, Boca Raton. She toasted him as a humanistically inspiring man who has given all his education to those who knew him as a friend.

Dr. Jules Belford, Chairman, Liberal Arts Division, Marymount, Boca Raton, a former student of Dr. Wixted, noted that this was the first time students were learned more from the personal philosophy of Dr. Wixted than from the ideas of the so-called "greats" in the discipline of Philosophy, Dr. Louis Campos, Chairman, Student Teaching and Internship, Florida Atlantic University, stressed his warm personal regards for Dr. Wixted and commended his service to the field of education over the years.

Finally, Dr. Donald E. Ross, President, Marymount, College, Boca Raton, announced that the Board of Trustees of the college had decided to honor Dr. Wixted by naming him as the first Dean Emeritus of the college since its establishment in 1963. Dr. Ross then presented Dean Wixted with a plaque inscribed with words of honor and praise for Dr. Wixted's loyal, unswerving service to the institution.

The evening was a happy, memorable occasion for Marymount's choice of "All for One, All for All Seasons". The following is a short biographical sketch of Dr. Wixted.

Dr. Wixted received his B.A. degree from St. Joseph's College and his M.A. and Ph.D. degrees from Fordham University. He was a student of the noted American educator and philosopher, John Dewey, and a friend of many notable figures in various disciplines a high education. He has held research grants at the University of Gall, and the in Germany. Also, he has contributed articles to the New Catholic Encyclopedia and has a member of the A.A.U.P. and the Catholic Teachers Guild. He is a Fourth Degree Knight of Columbus and a member of Order of Alhambra.

His three sons, Edward William Jr., and Thomas, work respectively in the fields of education, science and engineering. Dr. Wixted resides in Boca Raton, Florida, where he is well known to the educators and civic leaders of that community.

Letters

To The Editor

Dear Editor:

Ever since the beginning of the present semester the mail situation has been of grave concern.

As a result of not having a proper mail key, the mail must be distributed by professors or other employees. The present process is time-consuming and causes unnecessary delay.

I am not implying that people want mail, but that people fail to see the need for the mail. The mail situation needs to be handled in a more professional manner.

Dear Editor:

Being a Marymount student under 18 years of age, I am concerned over the Student Activities to be held in the Rathskellar.

Since minors are not allowed in the Rathskellar, will students under 18 be allowed to attend the activities there?

I am not implying that someone would want my mail, but that people fail to see the need for the mail. The mail situation needs to be handled in a more professional manner.

The question concerning whether the energy crisis is real or not is being discussed at great length across the country. Last week a poll was taken here to get a feeling of what the thoughts of people at Marymount are.

Raising the questions on the campus that there is a crisis of some kind, which is proven by the lack of gasoline in one's area, these questions were asked.

A. Do you feel that the energy crisis has been manufactured by the oil corporations?

Marymount agreed with the rest of the country on this questionnaire with 94 percent answering affirmatively. Only 24 percent answered definitely "no," while 12 percent said they had no opinion.

B. Do you favor reasonable gas rationing as opposed to waiting in long lines at gas stations?

92 percent answered "yes" to this question while 8 percent said "no." This differs sharply from the rest of the nation. Part of this could possibly be because the question is somewhat biased, but even with that taken into account, the difference is still significant.

C. Have you decreased the amount of gas, electricity and other forms of energy since the crisis began?

Most people at Marymount answered "yes" to this question. Only 16 percent answered "no," which is almost the same as many of the national polls.

All in all, opinions at Marymount do not differ a great deal, except for gas rationing, from the rest of the nation. The typical liberal conservative attitudes do not seem to hold up on this subject. Possibly when everyone is affected equally by a problem, attitudes tend to be the same.

CHRISTMAS BUMMER

Ah, well, here I am back at Marymount—what a drag! There's nothing like having to go to school during Christmas vacation. I wonder where I'm supposed to go? "Sister Kathleen!" (a sigh of relief at seeing at least one familiar face).

Unpacking in Patton Hall! (I thought this was the boy's dorm) and freezing over in the cafeteria for another one of those gourmet drinks—Jim! Jeff! Nelson! Nell!! There really are people here I know! But who are all the other people? A MINISTRY convention? A conference? Everyone is doing about it. I wonder where I'm all the other people? A MINISTRY convention??

"Where's your mouse?" is loose in my room!" Here taking required classes start, and are existing—! might have taken es, or that class about your elbow. Turn on the SHUTTLE BUS! Iida.

ARE YOU AWARE?

The Office of Counseling Services has announced a series of programs built around the concept of human awareness. The major program to be offered will feature Dr. John Bishop of the University of Delaware who will offer a one week program on helping relationships. The program will run from March is through the 2nd period and will last approximately 90 minutes to 2 hours per day. The workshop is currently being offered at Duke as a semester long course. The goal of the program will be to aid participants in developing the ability to relate to and help the people they come in contact with. The program is open to all students, faculty, and staff. Any interested in participating in the work shop should contact Mr. Fred as soon as possible due to a limit on the number of participants. One may participate in the group.

Dr. Bishop is a counselor psychologist at the University of Delaware. He is a co-faculty coordinator of the Counseling Program and is the Program Director of the Counseling Program and is also the coordinator of the Counseling Center's graduate program. Dr. Bishop received his doctorate from the University prior to a year as a research associate at the University. Following his year at Duke, Dr. Bishop moved on to the University of California where he worked on the graduate level for 4 years as a counseling psychologist. Last year assumed his present responsibilities.

During the workshop, Dr. Bishop will live on campus and will be available for smaller group meetings.

The counseling office will also be forming growth groups in the near future. These groups, headed by trained group leaders, are designed to aid students to develop their abilities to deal with other people. During the group sessions, members will at times offer personal experiences for discussion and will receive feedback from the other group members. Also, depending on the orientation of the group leader and the group, certain sensitivity and encounter group techniques may be employed. Again, any student interested in participating should contact Mr. Fred as soon as possible.

The Marymount rathskeller is now open for beer, food, and wine. The assortment of beer ranges from Miller's on tap, to Michelob in the bottle. There are large assortments of wines which range through Matouq, Pink Chablis, Sangrolo. Lieftramseck, to possibly B.D. 30:30. Sandwiches are provided by John Bucino with a fairly good selection of ham and cheese subs, tuna salad, bacon lettuce and tomato, roast beef, and meatball sandwich. The juke box presents a wide variety of songs which are changed once a week and games will be provided such as bowling and football. According to Joe Stefanacci, ("Hemo"), manager of Marymount rathskeller, the price of sandwiches may drop in the near future and beers may be served one night a week for twenty cents. Soon he hopes to have the outdoor porch open for use. The manager asks to, "please bring identification when you come," and to "please stop taking the glasses!"

Nixon's background knows talk during repeats itself, as it usually facing seemingly re~ing his landslide. Then there were ma~a~ed blemishes on his record he never run again. and made would·be supported.:'
ixon was having a great deal during leagues. Nixon was the the losses in 1960 for having a "secret fund" supported by a group of California millionaires. The rumors spread rapidly and it appeared that he would be dumped from the team and run out of all hope gone, Nixon denounced the so-called "checkers" speech and rejected enough support to help the Republican ticket. Nixon's "silent majority" was back to his side. Then there were the losses in 1960 for President and in 1968 for Governor of California Nixon was a man who never run again, and made him as president again. Nixon's Nixon, who was the leading force in 1968 and 1972. And now Nixon is facing Watergate. It seems that he's many to have a great deal during his career repeats itself, as it usually does, Nixon will not give up.

POLITICS 1974

And it is very doubtful that he will be impeached. The question will come up, but it is pretty obvious that that will be the extent of it. There are a few Congressmen who are too clever to come out positively for impeachment, but most prefer not to take a chance by voting to impeach the polls showing that the majority of the people do not want Nixon impeach- ing, though I believe he is guilty of some wrongdoing, most Congressmen will side with the polls using them as their excuse.

Congress will not im- peach Nixon and Nixon will not resign. He probably will not be remembered as an Andrew Johnson, but it is doubtful that he will be classified as one of America's great presi­ dents. Pat Winburn

THOUGHTS ON FREEDOM

Recently, I found myself at dinner with a group of Marymount students who spent a sizable portion of the evening complaining about the fact that they are being drafted and their shortcomings. I suggested that they take their courage, do something positive with it, and take advantage of the choral of reasons why they should be doing anything. Most of the excuses were irrelevant, unknown, unknown and could not be used, or be used, as any possible attempts to initiate change. I left that night somewhat frustrated by my inability to strike a responsive chord in their thinking, but still seemed to shirk the responsibility of his homeland and at least one for his country.

It is ironic that in a land where freedom is the word freedom is contravened the law with- out any visible attempts to stop it. The Jews in Egypt are raising our voices. The freedom of our country to reverse an unjust tax is the issue of impeachment. I also attended a lecture by the political scientist Pat Winburn from his masterpiece Experience, a book I had read and been very impressed by a few years earlier. Both Fromm's book and the movie concerned people and the search for freedom. What is striking, however, in both cases is not the desire for freedom: but, in both cases, the reality that most people would rather remain mired in mediocrity and unhappy or oppressive or familiar- ity than to move in search of a better existence. The Jews in Egypt are slaves, yet, many still seemed to shirk the challenge of the unknown desert and the potential freedom that it offered. Fromm makes a similar point in discussing the Germany of the 1930s. Men might talk of freedom, but, when faced with real freedom or the opportunity to be free, most will refuse.

It seems to take a very specific strain of courage to be a truly free man in our society today. We live in a society where almost every aspect of our life is dictated by some controlling group or individual. It might be on the national level where freedom and corruption and inefficiency exist. Or it might be on the local level where the word freedom is the issue of impeachment. I also attended a lecture by the political scientist Pat Winburn from his masterpiece Experience, a book I had read and been very impressed by a few years earlier. Both Fromm's book and the movie concerned people and the search for freedom. What is striking, however, in both cases is not the desire for freedom: but, in both cases, the reality that most people would rather remain mired in mediocrity and unhappy or oppressive or familiar- ity than to move in search of a better existence. Policy in 1974

Note that Nixon creates crises. It is ironic that in a land where freedom is the word freedom is...
Four Rock and Jazz concerts are scheduled for March 19th. On March 19th, P.A.U. is sponsoring it's Jazz and Wood electronic music concert. Jordan Lightfoot is appearing at the Miami Beach Auditorium on March 19th. Also on the 19th, Chicago will play at Studio 54. Frank Zappa will be in Miami on March 23rd at the Sport Auditorium.

The Grateful Dead chucks out another new album, SKELETONS FROM THE CLOSET. It's a record of their best. It consists of their previous material. THE WORKING MANS DEAD, ANXOLOGY, MEXICAN BEAUTY, AMERICAN BEAUTY and EUROPE. 72. It's an excellent album but, worth the bucks. However, he never really existed.) Directed and written (along with Marshall Brickman) by Allen, the plot moves so fast, one is occasionally unaware that the projectors themselves are whirling away at twice their normal speed for the big chase scenes. This tremendous energy and imagination more than insures the fact that Allen is the 70's answer to the Marx Brothers.

Now we move from the ridiculous to the sublime for a look at a film for a viewer who likes a slightly more dramatic film. Martin Scorsese's MEAN STREET is the sleeper of 1973. Directed and written by Martin and Robert DeNiro (Johnny Boy has spread debts all over the streets and Charlie has put up a voucher for him. When the creditors come back, the two find themselves backed up against a wall bounded by their own best friends. The film is chock-full of brilliant performances, the two best of which are Harvey Keitel (Charlie) and Robert DeNiro (Johnny Boy). The film itself has the remarkable polish of a Hollywood production but the seamy look of the streets.

If you don't own a Dead album, I recommend SKELETONS FROM THE CLOSET. It's all their best. However, if you own one in songs with a more realistic (and closer) portrayal of the band, you need look no farther than the credits of this movie.
WALK FOR MANKIND

About a week from now, hundreds of people, young and old, will be walking with their goal being making someone’s life a little healthier.

Last year over twenty thousand dollars was raised in Boca Raton alone for Project Concern, the organization which receives the funds. Project Concern gives medical attention to the under privileged in five major areas of the world. Two of these areas are in the United States, the Bisti Indian reservation in New Mexico and the Appalachian mountains, are two areas which receive almost no other medical attention.

This year’s walk will be Sunday, March 10 and begin at 9 a.m. at the Boca Raton High School football field. Each person walking collects sponsors who agree to pay a certain amount of money for each mile walked. The walk will again be a maximum of twenty miles, and take nearly the entire day.

Sponsor sheets may be picked up in the library.

TENNIS TEAM STARTS IN A SLUMP

Playing in a slump the tennis team lost 3 matches in the past 5 days. They first lost to highly rated Hollins 6-4. Their next loss was a heartbreaking 4-3 to the University of Florida. The score was tied into the last match and Marymount lost 5-4 in the tiebreaker.

Their most recent loss was to the University of Miami 7-2. The main problem with the team as expressed by several members seems to be a lack of depth. However, since it is still early in the season and they seem to have played their toughest opponents early, I would expect to see them win their share of matches and perhaps pick up their losses the second time around.

NIXON AND THE LAW

As the 1973-74 season comes to a close, the future for Marymount basketball looks promising. Hampered by problems all year, coach Ed Fred described the season as a learning experience, not only for himself but for the entire Marymount athletic program.

Coach Fred expressed the need for a more realistic program, one that would consist of improved scheduling and better recruiting. New additions for the second half of the season, were Tim Oaks, Don Skaggs, and Jeff Bagley.

Surely our President, of the American courts.
