New Beginnings
by Bernadette O'Grady

Raton is pleased to welcome several new additions to the College of Boca Raton, one senses no pain, no loneliness, no tremendous dissatisfaction. The kids are pleasant, and the teachers are eager to help in anyway possible. How can this all be? With students from all over the United States (mostly heavily from New York, New Jersey and Florida), and from all over the world, why isn't there more confusion and upset?

One need only look as far as the faculty and the administration to find the answer to this one. With careful planning and consideration during the summer, it seems that they simplified many of the difficulties and worked to make our return to the old hunting ground considerably less painful. This is not to say that there have been no problems. Mr. David O'Neill, the housing director, admits that there was confusion at first about late passes but most of the confusion stemmed from ignorance, and once people found out that late passes were not that hard to get, the confusion has subsided. Of course there have been problems, but they are being smoothed out and no unforeseeable catastrophe has occurred.

Dean of Students, Ken Howie agrees with Mr. O'Neill and said he would like to see a "united campus," faculty, administration, student services, and students all working together for everyone's benefit. He also thinks of the Student Services as the "support system" of the campus. He would like to encourage the participation and input of new and returning students into Student Services. Take it from this reporter, the people at Student Services work hard to help every student, and if you do have a problem, feel free to come to them.

That same sentiment was echoed by the Academic Dean, Dean Matthews. He would like to tell everyone that if they are having a problem to visit their faculty advisor and work with them. That is what they are there for. During my visit with him he told me of the improvements that have been made in the various departments and of how the improvements will be an ongoing process so that the impression from this man that he has nothing but concern for the students of this college. He has nothing but high hopes for this year and a positive attitude. This same attitude is shared by the president of the College of Boca Raton, Dr. Donald Ross.

Dr. Ross is "elated" about how well this year looks so far. The students have a positive attitude as well as the faculty and the staff. In both their dress and overall reaction to others, the students on this campus are reflecting the general good will and bright outlook of their new environment.

New Faculty Faces
by Cathy Amann

This year, the College of Boca Raton is pleased to welcome several new additions to the faculty and staff. Several of these new faces are already becoming easily recognizable around campus, so here is a small biography of some of the new teachers, their interesting backgrounds, and their thoughts and impressions on teaching at CBR.

MR. NEIL RONCO

Mr. Ronco is a full-time professor in charge of the Business Administration Department, teaching 4 courses in 5 classes. Originally from Scottdale, Pennsylvania, he came to South Florida in 1978 and received his MBA (Con't on pg. 3)

Southern Association Visits Campus
by Catherine Amann

On Sunday, September 24th, an Advisory Committee from the Southern Association of Colleges and Schools arrived on the CBR campus. The Advisory Committees from the Southern Association visit college and school campuses throughout the United States to review the various areas and programs offered by each institution in order to determine whether those areas and programs meet with the Southern Association's standards for accreditation.

The team which studied the CBR campus consisted of two distinguished gentlemen: Dr. Cecil Groves, Chairman of the Advisory Committee, and President of Austin Community College in Austin, Texas, and Dr. Paul Talmadge, Dean of Anderson College in Anderson, South Carolina. The team was later joined by Dr. Bennett Hudson, Associate Executive Secretary of the Committee on Colleges of the Southern Association.

Since 1971, the college has annually received Southern Association visits of self-study, evaluation committees, or advisory teams, meeting each time with administrative groups and the various department heads of the college, and faculty, staff, and students. A report is then submitted in December at the annual meeting of the Southern Association, which will be held this year in Atlanta. Last year the committee concentrated on the Financial area, and the college has met all the requirements of the Southern Association. This year the team was here to evaluate the Academic program and support services of the college.

The team stayed on campus for three days, departing the afternoon of the 26th. During their stay, the men had lunch in the dining room and mingled with the students in their regular daily routine, in order to be fully aware of student activities.

The faculty and staff at CBR are confident that the college has met all the requirements of the Southern Association when they meet in December.
Yes To Casino Gambling

by Rick Alworth, Editor

Probably the biggest issue of the election this November will be whether or not casino gambling is passed here in South Florida.

The area to be affected is a 21-mile strip of beach from Miami Beach up Collins Avenue into Hallandale.

I feel that not only would the legalization of casino gambling help Miami but it would help the state of Florida as a whole.

Let's face the facts. Florida's main industry is tourism. Hotel owners need the northern tourist dollars to head south to survive. Let's look back to the Miami Beach of the '50s and early '60s. In those days, large hotels were mobbed all season long with tourists and dollars, but since the jet age has come into existence and low air fares and development have made the Caribbean more attractive, Miami has become less inviting. Miami Beach now resembles a deteriorating geriatric ghetto. Its inhabitants are aging, so are the hotels. Empty shells line Collins Avenue. Miami has become unattractive to tourists.

Miami Beach wants to rebuild the area but the only way to obtain the needed funds is to legalize casinos for the beach.

Since I am from New Jersey, I have seen how legalized casinos can benefit a city. Atlantic City's International is reporting a net profit of close to $16 million dollars in their first month of operation. The tax dollars earned from these casinos are used to help them start to rebuild Atlantic City and will also benefit the state. Casinos, if permitted in Miami, would boost tourism, create jobs, build the bed and breakfast area, return top name entertainers to the east and, most of all, bring more tax dollars to the city and the state.

The area has much to offer but a passage of the casino proposal would make South Florida just that much more pleasant to tourists. Therefore I support passage of "Amendment 9" in November.

A campus poll on the issue of casino gambling in South Florida were: "I creates plenty of jobs." - Ernie Shaiman "It will keep the taxes lower." - Al Qualman "The money will go to schools and different needs." - Paula Eckert "Miami Beach has gone downhill in the past five years. Casino gambling would help Miami Beach a major vacation area like Atlantic City." - Ben Vergas "It will stop illegal gambling." - Colin O'Neill "People are free to do what they want with their time and money." - Mary Pleban

"Undoubtedly, gambling would be a tremendous plus for the economy of South Florida. The tourist rate would rise notably. As far as increased crime rate, Las Vegas, the Bahamas, Monte Carlo have all seemed to survive." - Ron Peters

"Being from New Jersey I haven't heard of the crime rate rising. I think it's good entertainment for those with leisure time. If the dog and horse tracks are available for gambling, casinos should be, too." - Dolore D'Agostino

Equally varied were the reasons against casino gambling:

"Gambling always brings on organized crime. There are plenty of other natural resources in Florida that could be used to attract more tourists.

Resorting to gambling is unoriginal and the easy way out." - Laura Brantlin

"Gambling was just passed in Atlantic City, which is near my hometown, and in my opinion it was a wrong move." - Donna Meyer

"It would bring in more tourists, which we definitely don't need, and it would cause the crime rate to skyrocket." - Jenny Marsh

"It will make the city worse than it already is. Miami Beach is already a tourist attraction. It doesn't need gambling to bring more tourists. Just cut planned foolishness." - Tim O'Neill

"Casino gambling has turned Atlantic City into a forest of commercialism. Why subject ourselves to that?" - Wendy Osman

CBR Alumni Association

This year, CBR is debuting its first Alumni Association, with Mr. Greg Malfitano, CBR's Director of Alumni Relations. Mr. Malfitano, along with Mrs. Lori Mathis, Mr. Robert Mathis, Lyle Mathis' widow, and Carol Wer- shoven, have been extremely busy setting up the extensive program for the various alumni activities for this upcoming academic year. Several items that have been on the agenda for the new alumni program include the formning of an alumni board, composed of as many active people as possible from each class year, to give it proper direction and perspective on what should be accomplished through it.

Each of the nearly 3,000 alumni of CBR will receive a letter with information on how to be filled out, informing the association of who they are, where they are, and what they have been doing. "We want to find out where our graduates are going socially, academically, and to give them the opportunity to reminisce," said Mr. Malfitano. In addition, each alumni will receive a quarterly newsletter letting them know what's happening at the college itself.

The social highlight being planned for the year will be a Homecoming weekend. This event will coincide with the Parents' Weekend in February. However, it is still in the early stages of planning.

If any volunteers would like to become involved with the association or would like to help out in any way, please feel free to contact Mr. Malfitano. Any ideas are welcome to help make the CBR Alumni Association a success now and in the future.

from the University of Miami. This will be his first year teaching.

However, Mr. Ronco's day does not begin and end with teaching. After graduation, he worked at his own full-time business. After graduating, he joined the Southeast Banking firm, the largest bank organization in Florida. For 2½ years, he worked in management training and leaving his final position as Commercial loan officer. Presently he is a Corporation consultant dealing mainly with the recruiting and placement of executive personnel from a full-time position he has held for the past two years.

When asked what he gains from the two simultaneous careers, he explained, "I enjoy teaching for the challenge and enjoyment; I work in business for the monetary rewards as well as the challenge." He went on to say that through teaching, he enjoys himself more and through business he enjoys a better standard of living.

But that's not the end of Mr. Ronco's endeavors—he is also a professional actor and has appeared in numerous T.V. commercials and plays in South Florida! When asked how he does it all and still keeps his head from spinning, he replied, "You have to learn to budget your time... I enjoy working—I don't have an eight-hour day." But since teaching is only a seven month working year, he doesn't have an eight-hour day. He appeared in numerous television shows as well. Mr. Ronco says he enjoys students and the challenge. "You don't have to learn to be a teacher," he says, "You're just a student."

RULES FOR WRESTLING

Ronco simply put it, "Lookin' for a challenge!"

MRS. HELEN NASON

Women's Resource Center

by Cathy Amann

Are you a student—a girl—and just want some place to go, to be alone, or to talk with someone else about a problem? Well, there's something starting on campus that should interest every girl who hears about it. It is the Women's Resource Center and is an idea initiated by Mrs. Donna Sullivan and Mrs. Colleen Calkin.

Basically, the Women's Resource Center will be an information center where girls can be free to come for information or counseling on women's concerns as a contemporary woman in today's world. Regular meetings will be held every other week to invite the college as well as the outside community, discussing topics ranging from emotional stress, coping with a new environment, decorating a home or apartment, career opportunities, to homesickness and decision-making. The objective is to let girls know that no problem is too large or too small to make the girls realize that there are others who share similar problems.

The center will be located in Room 1114 of Waxed Hall and Ms. Sullivan is presently ordering books and pamphlets for the meetings, and working on decorating the room, to make it a comfortable place for girls to just hang out. She hopes all the girls will get involved with the center as there is a definite need for it and it has worked in the past at other colleges with tremendous success. According to Ms. Sullivan, it is not another Women's Lib meeting. "There's a need for women today to get together and share things on their minds that they can't discuss with men." She says that with the increasing importance of the woman's role in the world today, new problems are created, and thus, new methods of coping are needed. She hopes to accomplish this through informal discussions and the bi-weekly meetings.

The first meeting was held on September 20th from 7:30 to 9 p.m. and the topic discussed was "Coping with College." So if you're a girl, and you're interested, just contact Ms. Sullivan and she'll be glad to tell you all about it.

Drama Club

For those of you who may be wondering, "What is there to do around here?", and "How can I become involved here at the college?", these questions can be answered quite simply by joining the Drama Club. Many feel, without immediately wanting to reject this idea because you do not consider yourselves as being "budding actors or actresses;" however, the Drama Club offers much more than just the opportunity of participating in the creation of various productions.

The people who went to CBRI last year almost certainly attended and remember the two plays that were performed by the members of the Drama Club. The first of these was Francis Swann's, Out of the frying Pan, which was put on in November and, which because of it's great success, was followed later in May by Neil Simon's, "The Good Doctor.

The Drama Club did not dedicate all of its time solely to these performances, however, for throughout the year it's members were involved in a multitude of other activities. Many people also participated in providing entertainment for the rats every Saturday night, through a series of skits and talent acts, which came to be known as CBRI's very own "Saturday Night Live." At Halloween, the Drama Club was especially busy, for they helped to set-up, and even acted, in the haunted house which was situated in the Boca Mall. Another very noticeable occasion in their calendar of events, was the Footlight Dinner Party, which is held annually in the fall. It is a charitable event, and honors particular people who are of noted importance to the world of the theatre. It was at this time that the Drama Club members dressed-up in theatrical costume and waited on the tables which seated roughly two-hundred guests.

Of course the Club also holds their own private parties and outings, and last year it even provided special mime classes for those who were interested.

Once again, there are many events lined-up for the Drama Club this semester. For instance, there is the production of a play already in progress. It is John Patrick's comedy, The Curious Savage, which will be presented on November 3rd and 4th, and from the 7th until the 11th. CBRI's Drama Club is indeed one of the most interesting and active clubs on campus, and really has something to offer for almost everyone.

It's meetings are held every Tuesday at 8 p.m. in the lobby of the Lynn Student Center, and so if anyone wishes to join the Club, he should come at this time.

And with all this information — there is no excuse for anyone saying that there is nothing to do on campus!

Caldwell Playhouse

The College of Boca Raton has an added attraction that few other colleges have: a resident professional theater. The Caldwell Playhouse is starting its fourth season this year at the College of Boca Raton.

The Caldwell Playhouse was founded in 1974. It was named after Mr. Caldwell for his urging of the actors to set up their theater here on our campus. Mr. Caldwell loved the theater and wanted one in Boca Raton.

The Playhouse won two awards over the summer. "Candida" won the Best Production of the year, and Michael Hall won Best Director for "The Philadelphia Story." The Playhouse also received a $10,000 grant by the State of Florida through the Fine Arts Council of Florida, Department of State with assistance of the National Endowment for the Arts. The money will be used for this season's plays.

For the 1978-1979 season the Playhouse will present: "Of Mice And Men," "The Chalk Garden," "Our Betters," "The Time Of The Cuckoo," and "Hedda Gabler." During some of the dress rehearsals students will be able to view the play for a small charge when seats are available. If you are interested in being a usher contact Pat in the Caldwell Playhouse office.

The Caldwell Playhouse is indeed a unique attribute to the College of Boca Raton students, because it gives them a chance .

The Caldwell Playhouse is indeed a unique attribute to the College of Boca Raton students, because it gives them a chance to see excellent theatre without even leaving the campus, and it allows certain members of the Drama Club to apprentice with a professional company.

Once again in the incomparable queen of the discos, Donna Summer, has released a superb album. Her newest, entitled Donna Summer Live And More, is a live double album collection of Donna's greatest hits and some new songs, including her latest, a hit remake of the 60's "MacArthur Park." Donna has become a disco songstress extraordinaire and on this double album devotes a side to slow, mellow mood music. But the other three sides have to be the best disco since the release of "Love To Love You." The last side starts with the fast-moving "MacArthur Park" and continues with two hot cuts called "One Of A Kind" and "Heaven Knows," and the album ends with a reprise of "MacArthur Park." If you have at any time liked one of her songs, get the album (if it's not sold out already). It's going quickly.

Also on the record line, this past summer, Grace Jones released her long-awaited second album, which contains the hits "Do Or Die," "Frida," and "Fame." Plus, right from New York, the Village People who brought you "San Francisco - Hollywood" and the popular "Macho Man" have released their third album, titled Hot Cop. Look for it.

Rat News

The Rat has a considerable number of activities planned for the month of October. Among them are:

LADIES NIGHT
(Every Wednesday)

BEER FESTIVAL
(day & time to be announced)

WINE-TASTING CONTEST
SATURDAY NIGHT LIVE
HALLOWEEN DANCE

There will also be three special events during the month, such as two Happy Hours (which are being considered for a Saturday afternoon), and a Boast Heat Dinner with wine on sale every other weekend.

Students are invited to join the activities planned by Mr. Fliurat. IDs will be checked at the entrance to the Rat.

Animal House
by Rick Alworth

National Lampoon magazine has the film's permission for publishing a first-class satirical magazine. This review concerns the newly released movie, Animal House, a satire about a college fraternity house in a large campus in 1962. The movie stars John Belushi as a member of the notorious "animal house" frat brothers.

All along fraternity row there are the stately, well-kept mansion, the frat houses, until you come to the Delta's house, which is lucky that it just stands.

The plot of the movie moves from the events of the beginning of the year's pledging to homecoming weekend in the middle of the term. There is a constant battle between the goody-goody frats and the Deltas, the dean and the Deltas, and the town and the Deltas. Eventually the Delta's charter is revoked but the boys do get revenge.

I highly recommend this movie to everyone on the CBR campus. It is college days at its best or worst, it depends on whose side you take. Are you a goody-goody or one of the boys? Oh, yeah, bring your toga.

Heaven Can Wait

This movie got the most consistent good reviews of any movie to come out this summer. Everyone seemed to like it so I figured if it was good enough for Gene Shalit it must be good enough for me.

Well, it was! This was the first movie I've seen all summer in which the story was more important than the names of the stars out on the marquee. True, the name Warren Beatty can attract a following, but one was worth the money. The scenes between Beauty and Julie Christie are worth it alone. They are the best parts and about the best I've seen. Yet this is really family viewing, the kind of movie that does not insult your intelligence, but merely tries to entertain you and does so.

I did not see the original "Here Comes Mr. Jordan" so I cannot say if this was better or not, but this movie gets a four star rating from me. I wouldn't hate to see this go out for the winter because that's what it is, a real winner.

Jaws II

"Just when you thought it was safe to go back in the water..." Well, let me tell you, it really isn't! You're probably wondering what I'm talking about. I'm talking about the film Jaws II.

Now the original scared me and my friends right out of the water, not only mention the bathroom, but this rip-off of a flick makes you want to go out on a shark expedition, so that you can actually see what a real shark looks like. The one they use in this film looks like a cross between Big Bird and Charlie the Tuna.

I waited three years to see this sequel, and I would have paid top-dollar, not to mention standing in line, expecting only for it to be half as good: it wasn't.

If you're the kind of person who likes to see 10 adolescents who are rejects from the Clearasil commercials, get eaten up at the last 10 minutes of a film (sorry, that's all you get), then sail your kayak into the theater... and watch it sink.

Consider This!

by Michael Galligan-Stierle

Once upon a time, in a place far away, there was a very generous student. One day, when an acquaintance asked to borrow her newly purchased stereo she was more than willing to share it. A week later, after the stereo was not returned, she decided to seek it out. Upon arriving at the gentleman's room, she inquired about her Belushi's newly bought possession. He said that it was broken and asked her for time to fix it. She eventually agreed.

That afternoon, the same gentleman came upon a graduate of the school to whom he had lent an album. He demanded his album. Unable to meet the request it was broken, the graduate pleaded for mercy. Anger overcame the album seeker and he shouted the person to the ground. He swiftly took the graduate's wallet and removed ten dollars.

That evening, the woman student who had initially lent her stereo returned to the gentleman's room. She was confused regarding the student's action toward the graduate. She inquired how he could act in this manner when she had given him the chance to repay her. He had no response. In fact, he didn't even see the inconsistency. Thank God this is only a fairy tale and life isn't like this... is it?

Question: where is a good place to go off campus, where disco dancing, a three-piece whitesuit, and $10,000 spending money is not an issue?

Answer: The Retreat. OK, OK, so no one knows what I'm talking about. Well, by the time I got through telling you just what's at The Retreat, you will be begging for the address.

How do real deli sandwiches sound? Or maybe triple decker sandwiches are more up your alley? But no, you look like the hot item type to me. Well, whatever your preference, The Retreat has it. It also has a big screen TV, plus new songs (and a variety of them) on the juke box.

Everything is reasonably priced and along with beer and wine they also have little splits of champagne for those special occasions. I think that impressed me the most about The Retreat is that it is far from being the kind of dive that your friends usually wind up recommending to you. This place is brand new. It's not country western, it's disco. It is a place with good food and a great place to go and get away from school and meet new people.

The third reason that I like it is because it is right near here. You just drive down Military (southward) till you get to Camino Real. Go right on Camino (southward) all the way to the end, where it intersects Powerline Rd., go left on Powerline (southward) and The Retreat is just in the first light. The correct address is 246 South Powerline Road. It is owned and operated by Bill and Pat Campbell and boy, would they like to see UCB students come in and say hello. So, what do you say troops, let's all head for the retreat. When you get there tell 'em Bernie sent ya.
New Spirit In Student Services

This year, Student Services has brought a whole new spirit to the College of Boca Raton. Changes in staff, including a new Dean of Students and an addition of Resident Directors, and changes on policies, all combine to make for a better living environment at C.B.R.

The new Dean of Student Services, Mr. Kenneth Howie, has served in Student Services as a counselor, and on the faculty in the Psychology Department, and has been associated with the college for a number of years. Dean Howie is a graduate of Juniata College, where he received his B.A. in Psychology, and Washington University, where he received his M.A. in Psychology.

Dean Howie's philosophy concerning Student Services and its new policies stresses unity. He believes that Student Services and Academics should unite to bring about better communication between the faculty and students.

He also believes that "the students should be aware of their academic and social responsibilities on campus, not just in the classroom." He further explains, "if new policies such as: late passes, quiet hours, and security on campus are not enforced, then frustration sets in, and communication becomes impossible. Regulations are here for your protection as well as for the individual rights of all living within the college community."

This year the new Director of Student Housing is David O'Neill. Mr. O'Neill is a graduate of Castleton College in Vermont. He is also a native of Vermont. His previous experience in Social Services, includes counseling in the Department of Human Services Agency in Vermont.

Mr. O'Neill explained his concept of the student's role on the campus, he explains, "I foresee putting more responsibility on the students, not only in their studies, but in their entire campus life."

He also feels that students shouldn't be afraid of failure. "It's our job," he explained, "to help students through their successes and failures."

New counseling programs are being offered this year. Mrs. Calkin is a graduate of Albion College, and Northeastern University, where she earned her M.A. in Education and Counseling.

One of the programs being offered in the Counseling Department is the Women's Resource Center, which is geared toward the social and personal concerns of women today. Mrs. Calkin also pointed out that her main interest on campus is to help students who may in any way need assistance. She hopes that all students will feel free to come in and talk with her anytime.

The new Resident Directors on campus this year include Bob Kiszewski, a graduate from the University of Buffalo, who is also in charge of all intramural sports in the college and high school; Shirley Rembert, a graduate from the California State University; and Gay Moore, who is now working on her Doctorate Degree in Education at F.A.U., and is also going to be teaching a math class with Dr. Livingood on campus; and Mike Wilson who is working on his M.A. at F.A.U., and has himself worked in counseling at the University of Maryland.

Along with the Resident Directors, there are also four new Resident Advisor Students, who also live on campus, and work with the R.D.'s. They are Gustavo Morales, Neil Flavin, Cary Mieres, and Gail Sokolowski, all sophomores at C.B.R.

So it looks like Student Services is out to bring students the best possible service, and counseling, they can give. With their dedication, and student's willingness to get involved, this may be a year of positive growth for all.

Omega Mu Sigma

The College of Boca Raton's only fraternity has big plans for this year. The new members have many new ideas to present to returning charter brothers, John Shaw and Rick Alworth.

The new brothers are Scott "Poopie" Kenney, Ken "Pantsy" Wentworth, Steve "H.P." Roberts, Ted Lewis, Todd Frost, Steve Dorsey, Sam Farrar, Ed Dougherty, Gus Morralas, Tom Poindekster, Len Minor, and our little sister Sally Broderick. Doctor Ross is the faculty advisor.

The first event planned is a joint effort by the Student Government Association, Hospitality Association and the Old Man Society (OMS). On October 6-7, there will be a Coming Home Weekend. Festivities begin with a parade followed by a semi-formal dinner. A cocktail hour will be held in the Rat after dinner.

The first event will be a dance in the cafeteria with a live band. A full bar with mixed drinks will be served at the dance.

Saturday night features a Gong Show and Happy Hour.

All students and faculty are invited and urged to attend this newly formed tradition. We hope to see you there all.

PULSE Needs You!

This first issue of the campus newspaper was put together by a small group of students whose past experience on the paper or in writing enabled them to get the Pulse out as quickly as possible. Because this issue was a rushed issue, Pulse did not recruit any new staff members.

We are doing so now. We need you! The campus paper should reflect the needs, interests, activities and opinions of the college it serves. The larger the staff, the wider our perspective will be. If you've never worked on a student newspaper before, or even considered it, consider it now. Freshman or sophomore, experienced or not, Pulse can use your help. The paper needs writers, artists, typists, and people interested in the advertising and layout areas. No experience is necessary! We will train you!

Being a member of the Pulse staff is fun and a good way to become involved in your college. If you're interested, please contact Ms. Wershoven, faculty advisor, or any of the editors, and come to an organizational meeting on Wednesday, October 11 in the Library Lecture Room at 4:00 p.m.
