Marlee Matlin received worldwide critical acclaim for her motion picture debut in Paramount Pictures' "Children of a Lesser God," a performance the film community chose to recognize in 1987 with its highest honor — the Academy Award for Best Actress. At age 21, she became the youngest recipient of the Best Actress Oscar and one of only four actresses to receive that honor for a film debut. In addition to the Oscar, Marlee was honored by the Hollywood Foreign Press Association with the 1986 Golden Globe Award for Best Actress in a Drama. That same year she was honored by Harper's Bazaar Magazine as one of the "Ten Most Beautiful Women" and Esquire Magazine's "Women We Love."

Born and raised in Morton Grove, Illinois, Marlee started acting at the age of seven in the role of Dorothy in "The Wizard of Oz" at a children's theatre company in Chicago. After several years of performing on stage throughout Chicago and the midwest, Marlee was discovered in a Chicago stage production of Mark Medoff's Tony Award-winning play, "Children of a Lesser God." Following an extensive international search for the lead role, the producers of the film version selected her to star opposite William Hurt.

In 1987, Marlee followed her film debut with a second feature, "Walker," starring Ed Harris and directed by Alex Cox ("Sid and Nancy"). While filming in Nicaragua, Marlee took time to visit hearing and hearing impaired children, as she has done extensively throughout her travels to Australia, England, Italy, Germany, Russia, Croatia, Mexico and Canada.

Marlee went on to star in the French feature "The Man in the Golden Mask," co-starring Jean Reno ("The Professional," "Ronin"). She appeared in two feature films in 1992 — "The Linguini Incident" with David Bowie and Robert Altman's "The Player".

Marlee starred with Lee Remick in "Bridge to Silence," a 1989 CBS movie that marked Marlee's television debut and her first speaking role. In 1991, Marlee went on to star for two seasons in the NBC Television series, "Reasonable Doubts" opposite Mark Harmon and was twice nominated for both a Golden Globe Award as Best Actress in a Dramatic Television Series as well as the People's Choice Awards. In 1994, Marlee was nominated for two Emmy awards for her guest turns on NBC's "Seinfeld" and CBS's "Picket Fences."

Marlee also starred in "Against Her Will: The Carrie Buck Story," a 1994 movie for Lifetime Television in which she was nominated for a CableACE Award for Best Actress in a Movie or Mini-Series. Marlee broke down yet another barrier with the role, playing a character who was not deaf. "I have always resisted putting limitations on myself, both professionally and personally," said Matlin. "This role gave me the chance to do something I'd never done before. It was a new challenge for me and was a very rewarding experience."

In 1994, Marlee returned to CBS' "Picket Fences" for two seasons to reprise her Emmy-nominated role. Coincidentally, Marlee's character on Picket Fences gave birth on the same day she gave birth in real life, a feat repeated exactly 43 years to the day by Lucille Ball on "I Love Lucy" on the same network.

Marlee has been currently starring for the last 5 seasons opposite Martin Sheen, Allison Janney and John Spenser on NBC's Emmy Award winning series, "The West Wing."

In September, 1999, under her Solo One Productions banner, Marlee embarked on her first effort as Executive Producer and starred in the courtroom thriller "Where the Truth Lies" for Lifetime Television. She is currently Executive Producing "Sound and Fury" based on the Oscar nominated documentary for The Showtime Cable Network and recently produced "Eddie's Million Dollar Bake-off" for The Disney Channel.

Marlee has also been in a number of musical performances. She appeared on "Sesame Street" with singer Billy Joel, performing "Just the Way You Are," and she also appeared in the music video for Joel's Grammy-nominated "We Didn't Start the Fire." In January, 1993, she performed the national anthem in American Sign Language with Garth Brooks, at "Super Bowl XXVII" and appeared in Brooks' music video "We Shall Be Free." In 1994, Marlee was appointed by President Clinton and confirmed by the Senate to the Board of Directors for the Corporation for National Service. In 1995, Marlee served as Chairperson for National Volunteer Week and honored in a White House Rose Garden ceremony by the President.

Marlee currently serves as national spokesperson for The American Red Cross, encouraging Americans to donate blood in light of the September 11th tragedy. She has also worked on behalf of closed captioning and in 1990 was instrumental in getting Congress to pass federal legislation requiring all televisions manufactured in the United States to be equipped with the closed captioning so familiar to us today. She also serves on the boards of a number of charitable organizations including VSA Arts, Easter Seals, The Children Affected By AIDS Foundation, The Elizabeth Glaser Pediatric AIDS Foundation, as well as those charities which primarily benefit children. Marlee has also combined her charity work with commercial ventures and has appeared in numerous commercials and PSA's benefiting charitable organizations including Target, WalMart, Sprint and Toys R Us.

Lending color to the pageantry of the Academic Convocation are the academic robes and hoods worn by the faculty. This regalia reaches back into the medieval ages when it served a functional as well as an ornamental role, separating the learned men from other groups and offering warmth and protection.

In America in the late nineteenth century, a conference was held by representatives of colleges and universities to bring some order and system to the custom of academic dress. Since then, there have been periodic conferences to revise or reaffirm existing practices.

Essentially, undergraduates wear the black robes with the white collars. Holders of the bachelor's degree wear hoods which are lined with the colors of the college conferring the degree and trimmed with the color representing the subject in which the degree was earned. The doctoral robe is adorned with velvet and is also worn with the hood suitably ornamented.

Holders of degrees from foreign universities or religious orders wear the entire academic costume as decreed by the conferring institution.

The following list reflects the color which will be found on the hoods worn in the Academic Procession at this Convocation and the subject each represents.

Under skies of blue
We've made friends so true
From every corner of the world
Celebrating different cultures
Made us see our world anew.

From this caring place
We will squarely face
The challenge of our destiny
Like our Fighting Knights
We'll lift hearts and sights
And we'll go forth in victory

And if our blue skies should turn to gray days
Or we misplace a dream or two
We'll remember Alma Mater
And then Her spirit will see us through

So let's raise our voice
In a proud refrain
Remembering good times we all knew
Hail all hail our Alma Mater
Lynn University...Here's to you!
