Request For Appeal

By Sarah Ann Martinez

Appeals are to be submitted to the office of the Vice President for Student Services. An appeal must be requested in writing within 24 hours after the decision has been announced to the accused. All appeal requests will be reviewed by the Vice President for Student Services and, if accepted, the student will be under probation for a certain amount of time, while he/she proceeds to have understood the regulations that have previously been announced.

This appeal process appears to be not only beneficial for the school, but also for the student. The student may express his/her point of view and feeling toward the college. The student also has recourse for action.

Media Class Hosts Special Guest

"I signed up for every club at the College of Boca Raton. The newspaper was great. It gave me a chance to be creative. Lots of times we made it up," said Bernadette O'Grady, 23, a graduate of CBR and Public Service Coordinator for TV Channel 12.

Ms. O'Grady spoke eagerly to the Introduction of Communication Arts class in an interview conducted by student Tanya Robinson, as other students with backup questions prepared to write a news article covering the event for the local News.

"At CBR, you have the opportunity to be on a very personal basis with teachers," she said.

Ms. O'Grady originally intended to be a theater major, but changed her mind when she discovered that "theater can be overwhelming in life style." She feels that people in the theater do not have outside interests, and although the theatrical personality is nice, that personality is all consumed with theater.

She said that people in television were very nice and very helpful. They were not at all "backstabbing" the way that she had expected them to be. TV personalities like to go home and lead their private lives and are willing to help the novice.

TV is a hectic schedule and most private lives. It is never without frustration. It is never without a deadline.

TV is still a business and time constraints play a very important role. TV has to make money.

The size of Channel 12's viewership is listed as the 6th market. Zero to one-hundred is a fairly large market area.

Most of the network programming comes through cable. Channel 12 does not preempt the network. The network preempts itself, that is, NBC makes its own decision to show the movement of the actors.

This became an exclusive showing by Channel 12 only, with no other NBC show carrying it.

"Get your foot in the door," said Ms. O'Grady. "Don't limit yourself. Remember, there are only 100 to 125 employees in a TV station. If you're time.

Ms. Robinson asked about TV censorship. Ms. O'Grady spoke of doing "Deerhunter," a full length motion picture which required editing and censorship for TV. Although not much violence was omitted, the language in "Deerhunter" had to be cut as well as the lip movement of the actors.

The Pulse have always had the impression that a senator was a leader and a person of authority. According to Webster's New World Dictionary, a senator is “a part of a governing body of lawmakers.” GOVERNING is the key word here. Governing is to exercise authority over, or to influence the action or conduct of. Obviously, this definition does not coincide with CBR's SGA senators.

Now I ask, what is a senator for? If he or she does not enforce the rules set down for the school, who does? The R.A.'s they don't know what vandalism is taking place in our bathrooms, or what kind of trouble is being caused in the halls or lounges. If a person vandals the bathrooms, or if a number of people are in the halls making loud and unnecessary noises at 3:30 a.m., wouldn't you want it stopped. But who do you go to? Especially if your senator is one of the persons making noises in the hall? As The D-wing senator commented, “It doesn’t matter what I say, they are going to do it anyway.” If this IS true, then why do we even have senators?

Especially if your senator is one of the persons making noises in the hall? As The D-wing senator commented, “It doesn’t matter what I say, they are going to do it anyway.” Of course they are if the senator is part of the trouble or if he didn’t enforce any rules. He’s just contradicting himself.

So, maybe we should either vote for people who know what the job of senator entails, or we at CBR should change the name of SGA (Student Government Association) to PVF (Persons of Popular Vote), and let those senators reign as anarchists throughout the student body.

What is a senator? A senator is a person chosen by his or her peers to represent his or her perspectives. It is a senator's duty to listen and not to represent his or her own opinions, but to be a liaison between the administration itself and the student body. It is the belief of the S.G.A. that the senators are elected by a responsible vote, not a popularity contest. If the question was asked, “Do you think that you are the most popular person in your wing?” I don’t think the senators would say, “Yes.”

As President of the S.G.A., I find the senators to be hardworking, conscientious individuals. Most of them have had no experience with this type of organization before and I feel it's only fair to give these people a chance. If there’s a senator who does not want to police his or her wing, go to the senator; that's what they're there for. I ask you, the students of CBR, do you want your senator to have to police your wing? Also, did you consider the fact that maybe you create the problems in your own wing?

My goal as President is to employ responsible government in all facets of student life. If I find a senator is not fulfilling his/her duties, you can bet that he/she will be dealt with accordingly.

Advice City!!

Dear Sabrina:

I recently talked to my old roomate, and discovered she was very, very unhappy here. I am a very emotional person and I really feel for her. She says she is trying hard to do better here, but that people here are too obnoxious and are too nice to deal with.

How can I cheer her up? What advice do you have? Please help her; she needs it.

Sam

Dear Sabrina:

Your friend sounds depressed. Has she maybe considered a part-time job? She would be so busy then, that she would not have time to worry about being depressed. You speak of "Obnoxious people to deal with", but did she ever make an effort to fit in with people, or do people have to conform with her personality only? Tell her to get involved in outside activities and, to talk to her family for moral support. You can help by encouraging her to spend more time keeping busy, rather than feeling sorry for herself.

Dear Sabrina:

I need help. I am in the market for companionship. I need a lady though, not one of these loud, domineering, foul-mouthed, immature girls. I have found one such girl who is the exact opposite of what I have just mentioned. My problem is I don't know how to go about gaining her affection. Please help.

Shy & Lonely

Dear Shy & Lonely:

A good way of getting to know somebody is to start showing an interest in his or her activities. Make yourself known to her; maybe ask her to lunch. Don't stand back in the shadows; after all, you can do a lot better if you are afraid to move.

Mildred

Dear Mildred:

Your problem is one I receive many letters about. I suggest you start your day by doing a few exercises to stretch your muscles in the morning. Multivitamins also help, and don't forget to eat a good breakfast—an empty stomach can make you feel sluggish. Let's hope your schedule or routine would help to regulate your body better.

On Saturday, October 30th, at the Halloween Dance the College auditorium rocked to thebeat of AIRCREW and other interpretations of many of the rock stars of today. Generally, students found their music easy to move to and to listen to.

In the middle of the evening, the Drama Club sponsored a contest for best male, female, and couple costumes. The winner for best male was "a baby", best female was a "Playboy bunny", and best couple was "Tazman and Janie."

Winners were determined by the amount of applause each contestant received. Also, a bottle of champagne was awarded to the best of each category.

The Drama Club takes this opportunity to thank all those who helped set-up, clean up, and bartend, and I'm sure students would like to thank the Drama Club for a well planned and executed affair.

GREETINGS FROM THE GREETERS

On October 13, 1982 the first Greeters Club meeting of the school year was held. For those of you who aren't sure of what this club is all about, the Greeters Club is a club on campus open to anyone taking a hotel or management course that is studying in the hospitality field. "Anyone taking a class is automatically a member," says Rick Viernberg, Vice President of the Greeters.

It is an international group which allows people of the same interests in the same fields to get together and meet with one another. But Rick says "The term Greeters was a misnomer for the name of the club. It was derived from the hospitality field in which a greeting is used to welcome anyone who enters our hotels."

The club just elected its new officers for the year, too! They include: President: Natalie Fredericks. Vice President: Rick Viernberg. Secretary: Danny Melendez. Treasurer: Steve Hellinger and of course the faculty advisor, Mr. Bartholomew.

The members of the club plan to hold parties and fund raisers throughout the course of the year, some of which include a St. Valentine's Day dance and a Tropical Drink night.

It is these kinds of events which the officers of the club hope will bring about a pleasurable atmosphere as well as a hospitable (no pun intended) interaction between the students themselves.

HALLOWEEN III: SEASON OF THE WITCH

John Carpenter made a killing with his masterful HALLOWEEN—which spawned several worthy copies. But John Carpenter hasn't been able to keep the suspense that made HALLOWEEN a modern horror classic. Followed by HALLOWEEN II, this sequel made a mild impression. But HALLOWEEN III, came up with a totally new story. The only connection with the other films is HALLOWEEN II's title. HALLOWEEN III equals a triple dose of y.u.c.k. The move stinks.

The men who did compete worked hard to win their races, or to seek perfection on their dives. The results of CBR’s first Swim Meet are as follows:

Lois Biehler demonstrates how color can enhance or hinder a persons looks.

By Gregg McBride

Lois Biehler, a color consultant for ME BEAUTIFUL, INC., recently visited CBR, and gave a guest lecture to the majors involved with the Fashion Department of CBR. In THE WIZARD OF OZ, Dorothy says “Somewhere Over the Rainbow.” But Lois Biehler will tell you that it is the rainbow that makes your dreams come true—the colors in the rainbow, that is. COLOR ME BEAUTIFUL, INC., is a company that is based on the book (of the same name) by Carole Jackson. In the book, the author stresses that everyone has a certain group of colors that highlight their personal beauty. They call these the different categories of colors, “seasons.” There are four different seasons, I pack, with the different colors. The author stresses that understanding which wrong colors can hide or deter your natural beauty, and that it is important for people to find out which seasons colors belong to. Once this is done, shopping for everything from clothes to accessories becomes much easier, because you know what colors you look best in and on top of that—he various colors in their seasons all match each other.

Lois Biehler was a Fashion Major at Cornell University, and after graduation did a lot of work with color and pattern construction. After reading the book, COLOR ME BEAUTIFUL, she became very interested in the author’s point of view on colors, and decided to look into this matter further. She traveled to Virginia to her HER color analyzed. At the four different palettes of colors (Autumn, Spring, Summer and Winter) she was sure that she was an Autumn. But after being analyzed, they told her she was a Spring. Miss Biehler reports that she was amazed to discover they were right, and that she had been wearing the wrong colors her whole life.

Miss Biehler then trained to become an authorized Color Consultant for CBR.

Lois Biehler was a Summer and another author she declared was also a Winter. She began placing different colors of material near their faces, from their particular seasons. But when Miss Biehler placed colors that were not a part of their seasons (colors) near their faces, you could actually tell the difference. With a white face from winter’s colors, the person who was a Summer became very pale and discolored. Yet when she wore the summer white, she had color in her face, and a warmth about her that highlighted her beauty. Needless to say, the fashion majors were amazed.

Miss Biehler pointed out that it is much better for whomever is interested in this to enroll in the classes that she offers, or the seminars. Through them, says Miss Biehler, people will know what jewelry to wear, what make-up, what clothes, even what color accessories will help highlight their beauty. Anyone who is interested in the CBR program can call Miss Biehler in Fort Lauderdale, at (1) 772-0597.

It was obvious from Miss Biehler’s guest lecture that colors make a big difference in today’s fashion industry—and that when you know yours, nothing can stop you from looking good!!

interested in TV as a career, take a job as a secretary for any opening that’s available. Once you’re in the office, tell him/her that you are interested in the field of entertainment. Young reporters make their mistakes by coming to the News Department first and refusing anything less.”

Because of her love for Florida and her desire to stay near family and friends, Ms. O’Grady made an application to every local TV and radio station. The then Public Service Director, John Quigley, interviewed O’Grady and three months later hired her as a secretarial assistant.

Although she had graduated with an A.A. Degree and a B.A. in Communications, she accepted the job gratefully and very quickly landed John Quigley’s job after John left the channel for his own further personal advancement. “It’s far better to be working as a secretary in a TV studio than to be working elsewhere when you are interested in TV.”

Although her salary is $200 a week, O’Grady says she has the “potential” to make more, and she reminded the group that she is the youngest one at the studio.
