By Kate Rishoff

Dr. Donald Ross has returned to campus rested and happy to resume his duties as President of the College of Boca Raton.

Asked if his political campaign will have an impact on enrollment at the College, he replied enthusiastically, “In traveling thirty-eight thousand miles and seeing fifty thousand people, CBR got significant and tremendous publicity. People were impressed by the growth of our College and indicated interest in sending their children here.”

Aside from political aspects, Ross discussed growth and continuing improvement of CBR. He said new programs will be offered to meet the needs of the young people. He takes special pride in noting that CBR enrollment has increased since its beginning from 300 to just under 1000 students.

“We have students from 36 states and 13 foreign countries,” Ross declared. “I look forward to our expansion program as we facilitate our own efforts with the support we have received from our generous benefactors.”

On the subject of Master’s Programs, he pointed out that one course of study, Health and Human Services, has already started offering a Graduate curriculum under the guidance of Dr. David Demko.

Ross added that CBR will “gradually add new personnel for developing the different Graduate programs and one day CBR may achieve university status.”

Annual College Ball A Bonanza

Sunset on Saturday night. People are scurrying back and forth, hundreds of candles are being lit, food, drink, and an air of expectation is all around.

For those who have never been lucky enough to see this setting, this is the Fourth Annual College of Boca Raton Ball. The Ball is an annual scholarship fund raiser. Generous donations are recognized by the College which bestows Honorary Bachelors, Masters and Doctor of Philanthropy degrees.

The festivities began with cocktails in the recently constructed Smith College Center. Huge ice carvings served as a focal point for four bars and delicately prepared hors d’oeuvres stimulated the palate.

A path of lighted candles in white bags led the way from the Center to the Auditorium. The feeling of “Art Deco” was immediately apparent. Towering vases with large flowers served as centerpieces. The many days of scrubbing walls, floors and sidewalks had finally paid off. Before dinner, two special awards were made. The first was given posthumously to the son and two granddaughters in memory of Virginia Sylvestor. The program said it best when it described Mrs. Sylvestor as: “A gracious and generous benefactor whose compassion for the needs of others spawned an exemplary style of philanthropic enterprises.

“Continuing in the tradition of her late husband, Harcourt Sylvestor, Virginia tirelessly pioneered the new field of gerontology in South Florida as creator of this nation’s first endowed chair in gerontology, founder of this region’s first Institute on Aging, and initiator of graduate studies in the College of Boca Raton.

“Virginia’s prolific and substantial commitment to community service stands as testimony to the creativity, vigor, and perseverance of an individual who loved life and lived it to the fullest with frequent stops along the way to enrich the lives of others.”

The second presentation which was the Fourth Annual College of Boca Raton Award was made to Peter Blum, a prominent Boca Raton businesswoman. “Peter’s interest and participation within the community over the past twenty-

Dr. Ross Returns to C B R Campus

Discussing the concern among students about housing and other campus facilities, Ross said that as growth continues need for housing must be satisfied. He stated that perhaps “upper-classmen will wish to live in off campus housing, therefore creating a balance in the housing situation.”

On the subject of sports and the possibility of revising or adding women’s sports, Ross said that if and when need arises, there will be an increase in inter-collegiate activities.

When asked what his ultimate goal was for the College of Boca Raton, he declared: “The overriding goal is provide quality programs and to grant degrees to prepare for future endeavors. We want to continue to grow and prosper. And our alumni—well, we always have young alumni. In turn they will contribute to the College to perpetuate in growth.”

But what about Don Ross’ future as a politician? He smiled, but evaded a direct answer as to whether he would run again asserting did say, “it was the most exciting time of my life. I really enjoyed running for office.”

With such a combination observers say it is easy to see the community and beyond.

During the political campaign while Ross was on a leave of absence, local newspapers noted that CBR has grown physically, intellectually, and motivationally and all credited the success to the drive and ambition of one man—Donald Ross.

Welcome back Dr. Ross. You—and your inspiration—we missed you.
Student Apathy

CAMP BOCA

This apparently is what C.B.R. students have decided to name our school. Being a sophomore, however, I can see it mostly as 'laid back'. Being a sophomore, however, I can see student apathy. In other words, student apathy.

If you are interested, please call one of our associate editors. Their names are listed in the Collegiate.

By Andy Wallen

The Collegiate needs help!

It's Sunday Morning and do you know where your beer cans are?

If you are an early riser like me you will find out. Assuming your room has not been "trashed" by your own party, you open your door and take that giant step.

Dodge beer cans and other debris, such as day old pizza, you reach the bathroom. Once inside you find the bathroom is now Lake Boca. The odor of too much partying the night before lingers in the air.

After returning to your room (somehow managing to keep your stomach intact) you prepare for your voyage outside. The odor is almost as bad as the inside, however the lawns may be cluttered with a few trees here and there.

One student once told me C.B.R. was derived of wild life. This is an untruth. Just go for breakfast and watch the animals eat. Tabler are full of left over food, as well as the flies.

I am beginning to think the words 'garbage can' do not exist in the average C.B.R. student's vocabulary of what don't want to deal with in their daily life. The school does have a reputation for being "laid back", but did you ever stop to think why?

It is my opinion much has to do with the attitude of the student body. The "What, me worry?" look runs rampant at the school, in other words, student apathy.

The paper is an example. A few dedicated members taking on the task that should be done by many. Most students are impatient. "Where's the paper," they ask. The fact is that it takes as long as it has to in order to do the job right. The next time you feel like complaining, ask yourself "What have I done to help?"

The student government is another example. Most companies try to do not do much. Most students feel that without the support of the students there is not much they can do. I congratulate the S.G.A. on the success of the "Fast For World Harvest." The fast was organized as a rebate plan. Organizing a rebate plan enables the food service to send Oxfam America a predetermined amount of money for each person who decides not to eat in the Dining Hall for the entire day of the Fast For World Harvest.

The food service rebated a percentage of the total cost of the day's board cost, excluding the portion covering such overhead expenses as labor and equipment. The idea of the Fast event was to feel "some" of the pain the impoverished Third World people experience.

Statistics indicate: That 40% of every four human beings (25 percent) have access to safe drinking water, and at least 100,000 children in Asia and Africa go blind each year from vitamin A deficiency.

After regualr dinner hours on the fast day, a hunger banquet was provided all participants, including on and off campus students, administration and staff from CBR and Oxfam America.

By Bill Ziton

Name is Bill Ziton and I am the president of the Student Government Association (S.G.A.). Things change and ideas can be implemented. Changes can be initiated by you, the students, because S.G.A is the official voice of the students and its main objective is promoting student's interest.

Recently the SGA hosted C.B.R.'s first "Fast For A World Harvest," or more commonly known as "Fast For World Harvest." The fast was organized as a rebate plan. Organizing a rebate plan enables the food service to send Oxfam America a predetermined amount of money for each person who decides not to eat in the Dining Hall for the entire day of the Fast For World Harvest.

The food service rebated a percentage of the total cost of the day's board cost, excluding the portion covering such overhead expenses as labor and equipment. The idea of the Fast event was to feel "some" of the pain the impoverished Third World people experience.

Statistics indicate: That 40% of every four human beings (25 percent) have access to safe drinking water, and at least 100,000 children in Asia and Africa go blind each year from vitamin A deficiency.

After regular dinner hours on the fast day, a hunger banquet was provided all participants, including on and off campus students, administration and staff from CBR and Oxfam America.

By Bill Ziton

My name is Bill Ziton and I am the president of the Student Government Association (S.G.A.). Things change and ideas can be implemented. Changes can be initiated by you, the students, because S.G.A is the official voice of the students and its main objective is promoting student's interest.

Recently the SGA hosted C.B.R.'s first "Fast For A World Harvest," or more commonly known as "Fast For World Harvest." The fast was organized as a rebate plan. Organizing a rebate plan enables the food service to send Oxfam America a predetermined amount of money for each person who decides not to eat in the Dining Hall for the entire day of the Fast For World Harvest.

The food service rebated a percentage of the total cost of the day's board cost, excluding the portion covering such overhead expenses as labor and equipment. The idea of the Fast event was to feel "some" of the pain the impoverished Third World people experience.

Statistics indicate: That 40% of every four human beings (25 percent) have access to safe drinking water, and at least 100,000 children in Asia and Africa go blind each year from vitamin A deficiency.

After regular dinner hours on the fast day, a hunger banquet was provided all participants, including on and off campus students, administration and staff from CBR and Oxfam America.

By Bill Ziton

My name is Bill Ziton and I am the president of the Student Government Association (S.G.A.). Things change and ideas can be implemented. Changes can be initiated by you, the students, because S.G.A is the official voice of the students and its main objective is promoting student's interest.

Recently the SGA hosted C.B.R.'s first "Fast For A World Harvest," or more commonly known as "Fast For World Harvest." The fast was organized as a rebate plan. Organizing a rebate plan enables the food service to send Oxfam America a predetermined amount of money for each person who decides not to eat in the Dining Hall for the entire day of the Fast For World Harvest.

The food service rebated a percentage of the total cost of the day's board cost, excluding the portion covering such overhead expenses as labor and equipment. The idea of the Fast event was to feel "some" of the pain the impoverished Third World people experience.

Statistics indicate: That 40% of every four human beings (25 percent) have access to safe drinking water, and at least 100,000 children in Asia and Africa go blind each year from vitamin A deficiency.

After regular dinner hours on the fast day, a hunger banquet was provided all participants, including on and off campus students, administration and staff from CBR and Oxfam America.

By Bill Ziton

My name is Bill Ziton and I am the president of the Student Government Association (S.G.A.). Things change and ideas can be implemented. Changes can be initiated by you, the students, because S.G.A is the official voice of the students and its main objective is promoting student's interest.

Recently the SGA hosted C.B.R.'s first "Fast For A World Harvest," or more commonly known as "Fast For World Harvest." The fast was organized as a rebate plan. Organizing a rebate plan enables the food service to send Oxfam America a predetermined amount of money for each person who decides not to eat in the Dining Hall for the entire day of the Fast For World Harvest.

The food service rebated a percentage of the total cost of the day's board cost, excluding the portion covering such overhead expenses as labor and equipment. The idea of the Fast event was to feel "some" of the pain the impoverished Third World people experience.

Statistics indicate: That 40% of every four human beings (25 percent) have access to safe drinking water, and at least 100,000 children in Asia and Africa go blind each year from vitamin A deficiency.

After regular dinner hours on the fast day, a hunger banquet was provided all participants, including on and off campus students, administration and staff from CBR and Oxfam America.

By Bill Ziton

My name is Bill Ziton and I am the president of the Student Government Association (S.G.A.). Things change and ideas can be implemented. Changes can be initiated by you, the students, because S.G.A is the official voice of the students and its main objective is promoting student's interest.

Recently the SGA hosted C.B.R.'s first "Fast For A World Harvest," or more commonly known as "Fast For World Harvest." The fast was organized as a rebate plan. Organizing a rebate plan enables the food service to send Oxfam America a predetermined amount of money for each person who decides not to eat in the Dining Hall for the entire day of the Fast For World Harvest.

The food service rebated a percentage of the total cost of the day's board cost, excluding the portion covering such overhead expenses as labor and equipment. The idea of the Fast event was to feel "some" of the pain the impoverished Third World people experience.

Statistics indicate: That 40% of every four human beings (25 percent) have access to safe drinking water, and at least 100,000 children in Asia and Africa go blind each year from vitamin A deficiency.

After regular dinner hours on the fast day, a hunger banquet was provided all participants, including on and off campus students, administration and staff from CBR and Oxfam America.

By Bill Ziton

My name is Bill Ziton and I am the president of the Student Government Association (S.G.A.). Things change and ideas can be implemented. Changes can be initiated by you, the students, because S.G.A is the official voice of the students and its main objective is promoting student's interest.

Recently the SGA hosted C.B.R.'s first "Fast For A World Harvest," or more commonly known as "Fast For World Harvest." The fast was organized as a rebate plan. Organizing a rebate plan enables the food service to send Oxfam America a predetermined amount of money for each person who decides not to eat in the Dining Hall for the entire day of the Fast For World Harvest.

The food service rebated a percentage of the total cost of the day's board cost, excluding the portion covering such overhead expenses as labor and equipment. The idea of the Fast event was to feel "some" of the pain the impoverished Third World people experience.

Statistics indicate: That 40% of every four human beings (25 percent) have access to safe drinking water, and at least 100,000 children in Asia and Africa go blind each year from vitamin A deficiency.

After regular dinner hours on the fast day, a hunger banquet was provided all participants, including on and off campus students, administration and staff from CBR and Oxfam America.
Without Personal Development....A Career Is Empty

body is very large, the student sometimes feels as though he/she is a number."

To questions about the student body she replied: "Many students fail to realize their own value. They put things into many things less valuable than their own development. To be happy as adults, they will need to be more than to be 'salable'; that is, to achieve a satisfactory salary in the world of work."

"Without personal development and inner resources, a career can become impossible. To learn how to contribute to one's development such as the ability to cooperate and to appreciate the world through the study of philosophy, the sciences, art, music, and mathematics is to open the world of one's mind, an achievement beyond price." Sister Rose said she felt a special challenge at C.B.R., adding "The outer world of fun and sports calls so strongly that one is tempted to develop physically at the expense of developing mentally and spiritually, thus becoming a spoiled person.

"In order to meet the challenge of physical fitness one sets up and maintains a rigorous schedule. The challenge to mental fitness is no less demanding. It requires the rigor and discipline of a regular study schedule."

I think that the sign of an educated person is the ability to ask significant questions. He learns about that is known, the better can one use the imagination to reach the world of the unknown. Such opportunities exist here and now. To lose them is not only the loss of an investment in the future. To lose them is to lose the very future itself!"

English Department Welcomes Newhouse

Larry B. Brandt is the program director of the Hotel and Restaurant Management Department here at CBR. He has attended Iowa State University, Appalachian State University, and the University of Nebraska. He came to CBR because he saw the promotion to program coordinator.

Also because he loves the sun! Brandt feels CBR has tremendous potential. The Hotel and Restaurant Management program is improving rapidly with increased enrollment and is a general interest among the students. He said, "we are going through a definite transition period now and experiencing many changes."

Brandt feels that these changes will bring about great progress for CBR and the betterment of all programs.

By Stacey Levine

What is the difference between roasting and baking? How do you separate the yolk of the egg from the white? How do you train an employee to do a certain type of job?

The answers to these questions Mr. Veskosky gets asked everyday. Unusual? Not really. Mr. Veskosky is the Associate Professor for the Hotel/Restaurant Management program at C.B.R.

Veskosky spends many hours at his work trying to come up with new and exciting ideas for the program. He can often be found in the school cafeteria working in a lab with students. He stresses the importance of "hands on experience," as well as theory about the subject matter, for any particular task.

Veskosky received his B.S. in Liberal Arts from the State University of Albany. He got his M.S. in Hotel/Restaurant Food Service Administration at Florida International University.

He married to Donna, and has two children, Chris and Brian.

Veskosky has registered many accomplishments during his lifetime. He served as the Director of Hospitality Management for Bucks County Community College in Pennsylvania for 2 years. He is also the owner and operator of the Clarenden and Pennsylvania hotels in Atlantic City, N.J., for the past 6 years.

When asked why he came to C.B.R., Veskosky replied, "The desire to work in a private school, and the uniqueness of it being small, is what brought me here." He has many observations:

"The students in the Hospitality program are highly motivated to their career chosen profession. They are involved in planning their futures in our hospitality industry. The caliber of the student in the Hospitality program is quite high. I would like to have the students more involved in extra curricular activities on campus, as it relates to the Hospitality program."
"Hey Marty, You Finally Made It"

By Meredith Mancini

Maybe you have seen him around — a tall, pleasant man of 46, occasionally accompanied by a Doberman Pinscher. His name is Marty Horrigan. His position is Director of Security of the College of Boca Raton. I had the opportunity to interview Horrigan the other night, and I gained many insights on both security on campus, and the Education accredited CBR American Board of Funeral Services.

By Stacey Levine

I just walked into the library, and as usual, I see Dr. Blaustein sitting in the middle of the room, reading a book, while still observing the activities around him. I have decided to talk to him for a few minutes.

Dr. Blaustein is a very easy person to talk to, anxious about maintaining high faculty standards but deeply concerned about student apathy. Let me tell you about his background. He earned his Ph.D. at the City University of New York. He has spent most of his life teaching. When asked why he isn't in his own private practice, he replied, "I am an experimental psychologist, not a clinical psychologist." Dr. Blaustein spent time during his graduate work at the City University and has spent the past nine years teaching at C.B.R. I inquired about his long stay here and he replied, "I am a booking person who likes a settled life, and existence. C.B.R. has a small family atmosphere, and is comforting.”

When asked about the student body, he said: "Students are nice and bright, but there is a malaise on campus. A student should treat school as a full time job, and if a student doesn't put eight hours a week into his schoolwork, then he is not meeting his responsibility. A part-time job is a good idea."

He welcomes intellectual conversation. When you take one of his classes, you have given yourself the opportunity to learn from the best.

"Move Over Guys - Here Come The Girls"

By Katie McCarthy

Of 28 students majoring in Mortuary Science, four are girls! Meg Sweeney, Laura Giannetti, Stacey Cummerford and Donna Hotchkins. They are directed by Dr. Chew, head of the Mortuary Sciences Department at CBR. The Mortuary Sciences Department started in 1962 at CBR and one year later was recognized by the State of Florida. In 1964 the American Board of Funeral Education accredited CBR as the 36th Funeral College in the nation.

I spoke with two of the girls and discovered that this major students learn all techniques relating to mortuary science. However for Meg it is nothing new because she was raised in a Funeral Home. After Meg gets her degree she will work at her home in New Jersey.

Although Meg admits to being teased by peers at times, she finds this field extremely interesting. I also spoke with Laura Giannetti and she said M.S. involves much hard work and concentration. Laura is the only girl in her Microbiology class. Her family backs her 100 percent and to Laura that is very important.

By Tim Wicks

The Energy Conservation Committee of the College of Boca Raton has recently contracted with Florida Power Company to make an in depth study of the college's use of energy. The main reason for this study is the increase of college's use of energy.

Moving forward, the committee has decided to find ways to reduce energy costs. This is why the committee has decided to invest in new ways to conserve energy.

The Energy Conservation Committee is made up of Dr. Bokelman, Gerald Carville, John Armour, Antoin Nahas, and Jack Fisher. This committee has invited students along with faculty and staff to submit suggestions on how the school can reduce electricity use. They are offering cash prizes for ideas. First prize is $50; second prize is $25, and third prize is $10.

"HUMANIST? COME TO OUR NEXT MEETING! HUMANISTS OF THE GOLD COAST - 428-4577"

By Dr. Bethel Ranspach

Mr. Ranspach Curran

Dr. Bethel

"Thank You"

From the editors and staff of the Collegiate
Knights Have A Close Call

By Scott Vrabel

The College of Boca Raton's soccer season came to an abrupt halt on Saturday, losing to Flagler College, 1-0. The loss was an upset in the NAIA play, because Boca was ranked fifth in the nation to Flagler's ranking of 26. The loss kept the Knights from the 1984 goal-winning Florida title.

The game was a classic defensive match-up between the powerhouse Florida squads. The two teams played through 90 minutes of scoreless regulation time, two 10-minute overtimes and two 10-minute sudden-death overtimes before holding a shootout in darkness on the College of Boca Raton campus.

Flagler won the game by outscoring the Knights 5-4, leaving hundreds of fans disappointed with the outcome.

“We felt we were the better team out there,” said Ferda Kavak, a sophomore from Turkey. “This year's team improved so much from last year. The loss was something we weren't ready for.’’

“It was really tough for us to face the loss afterwards,’’ he added. “There wasn't a player on the team who felt like going out afterwards. Most players couldn't sleep. It was hard to face the students in the cafeteria after the loss.’’

Boca finished the season with a 15-3-2 record while Flagler, from St. Augustine (14-4-1) advances to next week's Area 9 playoff.

One day earlier, the picture was a bit more rosy for the Knights. Georgia State fell to Boca 7-0 in the opening round of District 25 NAIA soccer.

“We didn't think we'd have as easy of a time as we did,’’ said Gabriel DeJesus afterwards. “We went into the game loose and confident. Most players were looking ahead to Flagler.’’

Boca and Flagler tied 1-1 in a confronting early-season game at Flagler.

In their win against Georgia, Boca outshot the Colonials 16-4 in the first half. DeJesus scored the first goal of the game with 4:39 left. Jerry Best scored with only 60 seconds remaining, sending Boca into halftime with a 2-1 lead.

Boca came out in the second half with the same enthusiasm demonstrated in the closing minutes of the first. Rico Lopes scored two goals and Gus Pardo, a junior midfielder, each scored a goal.

“We played an excellent game on Friday,” said Wiggemansen. “The team was ready for Flagler, but guess winning wasn’t meant to be for us.”

Soccer Most Important” - Roy

Roy Wiggemansen is Athletic Director for the College of Boca Raton and Head Coach for the school’s soccer team.

He was born in Pretoria, South Africa. As a child, Roy enjoyed swimming, playing tennis, cricket and ping pong, but he preferred soccer to all the rest.

Soccer was the most important thing in Roy’s life for a long time. He played for a semi-pro team called the Arcadia Shepherds from the ages of 5 to 18. After 15 years of ball with the Shepherds, Roy signed to their pro team where, in one year, he contributed to the South African Cup and was named Young Player of the Year.

Coming off a great rookie year in pro ball, Roy headed for the U.S. He landed at the Florida Tomato Kings four years with the famous Ft. Lauderdale Strikers before retiring because of knee problems.

While with the Strikers, Roy met his wife, Sandra they now live in the Boca Raton area. For fun, Roy enjoys watching Larry Bird and the Celtics on TV.

In the future, Roy hopes someday to get a degree in Physical Therapy, but to do so he must give up coaching and until he is ready, he will continue to produce a nationally ranked soccer team for C.B.R.

“Love At First Play”

By Ferda Kavak

At 18 years of age, Joan Berk could be spending her time doing the things most other women her age are doing. But shopping, tennis, boy-chasing, eating, etcetera, aren’t enough to satisfy this young lady. Instead, some of her finest moments are spent on the tennis court.

“My father started me out when I was only 10 years old,” said Berk. “Actually it was love at first play. I loved the game at first and still love it today.”

Joan was privileged to have a tennis court at her own disposal. Her father was also her personal coach, owned a house in New Jersey that came complete with a tennis court. So began her career.

It wasn’t until high school that she started to gain any real attention in the world of sports. At the age of fourteen she won two U.S.T.A. (United States Tennis Assoc., under 18) championships. At 16, Joan won several more tournaments along with being named the top women’s tennis player in her district.

“That was a great time for me,” said Berk. “It seemed like I could do nothing wrong. A lot of time was being spent on the courts, sometimes making it difficult to find time for myself.”

Joan moved with her family to Coral Springs, Florida two years ago. For those next two years she kept her reputation as a good tennis player, ranking number one in both her junior and senior years.

Her talents didn't go unnoticed by last year's Boca tennis coach, Whitney Criff. After seeing her play only twice, he recommended her for a scholarship. Passing up other offers from other programs, she came here for a couple of reasons.

"Boca is fairly close to home and I also like the idea of the small school scenario," said Berk. "The area around school lends itself to being a good learning environment.

"I have a lot of free time to study. Everybody is very friendly and willing to help each other with their studies. The majority of my instructors are well educated and capable of teaching college students."

But while Berk seems content with the educational aspects of life at the school, she is certainly not impressed with the tennis program. "I thought we’d practice far more often than we actually do. She added, "The tennis courts are poor. The facilities here need to be improved greatly.”

To keep her game sharp, Berk has enrolled in the Oscar Wagner tennis academy for the upcoming Thanksgiving break.

Now that's a dedicated tennis player.

C B R

Sports

In pro football, at least five teams are “locks” to make it to this season's playoff scenario. The Miami Dolphins, Pittsburgh Steelers, Denver Broncos, Chicago Bears, and San Francisco 49ers will all make the playoffs. St. Louis, Dallas, Washington, L.A. Raiders and Seattle are my other choices to get in.

The Bears will play at San Francisco for the National League title, while Don Shula's army will host Seattle (that's right). The winner? The Monsters of the Midway will enter the Superbowl as a 6-point underdog against the Dolphins, only to go on and win 27-26 in the biggest upset since Joe Namath's Jets beat the Colts in 1967. (The Cubs made the playoffs this year so anything can happen, right?)

Congratulations to southwest pitcher Don Voigt, who turned 22 years old last month. His parents recently moved to Phoenix from Chicago, leaving the cold weather behind. (I wonder if they left their new address in Arizona?)

By Joe Somma

The 1985 College of Boca Raton sports campaign will feature four athletic teams each competing intercollegiately.

The team is coached by Dick Thomas, an excellent instructor with a good outlook. The team came in third in a recent Miami tournament but C.B.R.'s Peter Shery finished with the top two teams.

The woman's tennis team features Darlene Kahn who was one of the top players in South America. Darlene will lead the team this year and Coach Roy Wiggemansen says "we have some good looking prospects to fill open spots."

Shula's are my other choices to get in.
The Boss Is Back With New Outlook

By Sharon (Chaz) Lane

After three years, the Boss is back. And back indeed. This tour, which will last for at least a year, is being called the best rock and roll show on the road. Springsteen and the E Street band, will go throughout the U.S. and then on to Canada, the Far East and Europe.

The Boss, at 34, is putting out his best ever. He's in his best physical shape. Working with trainer, Phil Murphy, he lifts weights and runs six miles a day. While in the past, he would walk off the stage gasping for air and feeling as though he were doing to die, now he is feeling great.

His new album, "Born in the U.S.A." is high on the charts, with such hits as, "Dancin in the Dark," "Cover Me," and "My Hometown."

Springsteen is spreading a new outlook towards rock and roll. He speaks of patriotism and in giving his audience a new outlook toward America. He stands for new faith and acceptance of life's ups and downs.

He cries for freedom. He does it all with no make-up, glitter, gloves or drugs. Parents can actually "approve" of a rock and roller. For once, a superstar is being seen as wholesome, trustworthy and a role model.

Springsteen has a personal style that not many rock and rollers can duplicate. He writes of everyday events, of family, self-improvement, pride and with his climb up the charts, he is real. He is truly a storyteller. And, is being called a blue-collar poet.

At a typical concert, the audience, as well as the Boss himself, walk out exhausted, yet feeling great. To him, the audience is a group of individuals. He talks to them, with them. He feels with them. He is their friend. He sings his stories and the audience responds with cries and cheers of "B-B-U-N-T-A-N!"

He gives them his all, not just a show. He can bring an audience to its feet in a second and silence them the next. He is one star who never has to be afraid of coming out in public because he is among friends.

The Boss is coming to south Florida in January though the dates are not set. It is a show not to be missed.

Theresa

This year the College of Boca Raton is lucky to have Theresa Drennan as its new activities director.

She is an ambitious person with creative ideas for school activities. Theresa is from Cincinnati, Ohio and is 21 years old. She came to CBR to be an R.A.

Theresa attended Miami Dade River Community College for two years and earned her associate's degree.

She then transferred to FAU for a year. Now she is taking courses at CBR.

Theresa's plans include another super-wind and a carnival on campus. She would also like to see more dances, along with parties such as toga, wine and cheese, skating, pool, and even a cook out if possible.

Theresa is open to any student suggestions.

Presently CBR has the following activities available to the students: dances, beer and pizza on Monday nights for Monday Night Football. Also available are intramurals, aerobics, van transportation to the beach and the malls on the weekends.

On Sunday night the Van goes to The Movies at the Town Center. The baseball team sponsors a beer bash every Thursday night up in College town.

According to Theresa, the attendance at these activities have been very well supported, however she would prefer more student involvement.

Theresa has always been active in helping others. This is her first attempt at directing an entire program as a whole. So far, we at CBR believe she is doing an excellent job and we wish her much success in her new job responsibility.

Spirya Gyra Kicks Off Jazz

By Scott Kerniss

On October 12, the James T. Knight Center was packed to the rim for the Flats concert. Other acts to perform in the Jazz over Miami series are saxophone player Gato Figueras, guitarist Pat Metheny, Miles Davis and George Winston.

Spirya Gyra which has the number one album on the jazz charts (access all areas) is made up of leader and saxophonist Jay Beckenstein, keyboardist Tom Schuman, Kim Stone on bass, David Samuels on Vibraphone, percussionist Geraldo Velez and two newcomers, Richmond Morales on drums and guitarist Julio Fernandez.

Spirya Gyra opened the show with a new song entitled "Sunflower" which got a great response from the audience. Also in the first set they played Pacific Sunrise in which keyboardist Tom Schuman produced some nice sounds of the ocean. They opened the second set with catching the sun. Also in the second set they played Cassacho and Latin Streets which featured a brilliant percussion solo by Geraldo Velez. Their only encore was "Shaker song" in which the audience stood up and applauded to the sound of the great bass.

For an hour and a half Spiryra Gyra played a fantastic show and if you are a fan I would not miss catching them in concert again.

Trivia

By Scott Kerniss

1. What is the name of Luke Skywalker's trill-like advisor in The Empire Strikes Back?
2. Where is Candlestick Park?
3. Who was the only U.S. president to be impeached?
4. What is the third part of J.R.R Tolkien's Lord of the Rings?
5. Who created Donnyburr?
6. What Las Vegas casino game gives the best odds?
7. Who was Sergeant Pepper?
8. What song was introduced in Butch Cassidy and The Sundance Kid?
9. What is your 20-diurnal sign if you are born on August 9?
10. Who did Larch work for?
ATTENTION
CBR Students and Faculty

Taking pictures is fun...but can be expensive! We make it easier, faster and lower in cost. Bring us your film for processing, show us your CBR I.D. and you will automatically receive a $1.50 discount, on each roll or disc we process and print. And...you get ONE HOUR SERVICE plus 37% larger JUMBO prints from our latest state of the art equipment.

BOCA FILM LAB, INC.
8177 West Glades Road • Boca Raton, Florida 33434
A1 WEST BOCA PLACE SHOPPING CENTER
Tel. 487-FILM