The rapidly expanding field of Eldercare Administration, funded by a grant, in excess of $4 million, from the Harcourt Foundation, announced establishment of the Harcourt Sylvestor School of Graduate Studies.

The College of Boca Raton’s first Masters Degree Program will be offered with a specific emphasis on Eldercare Administration. President Ross declared:

"Due to the generosity of the Sylvestor Foundation, the College will be setting the pace for meeting the demands of the rapidly expanding field of Elder Care Administration. The Sylvestor School of Graduate Studies." Dr. David Demko, Vice-President of Graduate Studies and Director of the Institute on Aging, said:

"The eldercare degree is designed to teach health care professionals about the administration of nursing homes, adult day-care centers and such institutions designed for the elderly population."

"We felt there was need for it, but no one else was doing it. We felt people were pigeon-holed: "You’re a nursing home administrator, You’re a day care administrator."" James Matthews, Vice-President of Academic Affairs, said opening of the graduate school "is the beginning of a long-term process—it’s really going to be expanding some of our programs."

"The Masters Degree Program is designed primarily for persons working in the eldercare facilities including nursing homes, adult day care, adult congregate living facilities, and retirement communities who seek to enhance their professional skills in order to move to higher level positions in their fields."

The 43 credit-hour plan of study will be scheduled for full-time students to complete the program while maintaining their current work schedule. The curriculum has been established in accordance with guidelines provided by the Association of University Programs in Health Administration and the American College of Health Care Administrators. In addition, the coursework is consistent with the state educational requirements for Nursing Home Administrator licensure.

Sylvesters Give CBR $4 Million

By: Andrew Wallen

Don Ross, President of the College of Boca Raton announced establishment of the Harcourt Sylvester School of Graduate Studies. The graduate program was made possible by a grant, in excess of $4 million, from the Harcourt M. and Virginia W. Sylvester Foundation.

To meet the growing demand for trained personnel in the rapidly expanding field of Elder Care Administration, the College of Boca Raton’s first Masters Degree Program will be offered in Health and Human Services. This degree will be the first in the United States to be offered with a specific emphasis on Elder Care Administration.

President Ross sees the graduate program addressing the growing educational needs of South Florida. He declared:

"Due to the generosity of the Sylvester Foundation, the College will be setting the pace for meeting the demands of Elder Care Administration by the establishment of the Sylvester School of Graduate Studies."

Dr. David Demko, Vice-President of Graduate Studies and Director of the Institute on Aging, said:

Lack of Participation

By: Andrew Wallen

Being a school orientated person I am surprised at the lack of student participation at this school. Believe it or not, there are many organizations on campus a student can join. Such groups are the Newspaper, Student Government, Student Life and so on. Many students do nothing but sit back and gripe at what they consider lack of organization of these groups, or as one student said, "Why should I join, they don't do nothing."

A Word About: Student's Privacy

By: Andrew Wallen

Privacy. That is a strange word around our campus. It seems nothing is sacred from the ever watchful eyes of our beloved overseers. The question of students rights (especially concerning privacy) is one that has been bothering students from the beginning.

We realize dormitories are school property, but does that give the resident admittance the right to do whatever they please. Does an R.A. have the right to enter and search your room because he or she either feels like or feels they have 'reasonable' suspicion. We grant that the R.A.'s are only doing their job in which the standards have been set by teh 'higher ups.' But maybe these 'higher ups' should take another look.

Many students sit and grumble about the problems but very few do or say anything. It is impossible to accomplish anything if you are not willing to try.
Ability to Listen... Important Asset

By: Kate Rishoff

For the first few months of the 1984-85 academic year, things around CBR Student Services seemed pretty normal with the hustle and bustle of everyday events.

But there was also a void of energy and enthusiasm, no one could pin-point. This past month, the void was filled with return of Gregory J. Malfitano, Vice President of Administration and Student Services.

Malfitano took a brief sabatical from CBR to be campaign manager for Dr. Donald Ross' congressional campaign. Among his many duties were raising money, advertising, hiring staff and dealing with the press. He recalled, "I was a seven day a week, 18 hour a day job, and I met thousands of people and made many friends in the process."

He went on to say the experience was tremendous and unique to situations he faced at CBR. In traveling thousands of miles Malfitano found it most interesting to meet people from all walks of life, the rich, the poor the young and the old, "There were so objective...that is very important in public life."

He feels strongly that in business, education, or politics, the ability to listen is an important asset.

Discussing academic and disciplinary areas, Malfitano said he prefers to call the College Handbook a book of guidelines rather than a list of rules and regulations. The average student, individually or in a group, he added should have the degree of maturity to handle these guidelines.

"Every year this handbook is updated. I believe the rules are fair, honest and consistent, and are for the students benefit," he said.

As an alumnus of CBR, Malfitano was asked what significant changes he has seen physically and academically. He pointed out that academically, the growth in programs is significant, along with the contributions of industry which has nurtured and enhanced the college.

In the physical aspect, Malfitano proudly cited about development of an Academic Affairs Design which has helped bring students and faculty closer, he also feels the addition of the Schmidt Center is exciting.

Malfitano proudly mentioned achievements of CBR's athletic programs, namely the soccer team, having reached the division II playoffs, the golf team, which "is doing extremely well," and the strength of the girls tennis team.

Malfitano's ultimate goals for CBR are many. As CBR's curriculum centers around career oriented programs, he would like to work with local industry to provide jobs for graduating students. His greatest satisfaction would be to see the children of alumni come back to CBR in future generations.

Despite loss of the congressional campaign, Malfitano says he bounces back easily from situations, and is excited about coming back to campus. He says he has found within himself, "a rejuvenation of energy." He has made CBR his home and also has a personal commitment to the College. "It takes hours of hard work, but it is worth it; I'll do whatever it takes."

Proud of CBR's Growth

By: Stacey Levine

Gerald Carville is the Executive Vice President at the College of Boca Raton. He received his B.S. in Business Administration at Utica College in New York. He spent much time exploring the area and discovered that it was a two hour drive from Washington, D.C. This proved interesting to Carville as a young college student. He spent his free time learning about happenings of Washington.

Carville's career started in 1968 as Dean of Admissions at Wilmington College. He was promoted to Business Manager and then to Executive, Vice President.

In 1976, Carville moved to Florida and took the position of Executive Vice President at the invitation of Dr. Donald Ross, CBR President.

When asked about Florida, Carville replied, "This is quite a change. Boca is smaller than the area we were used to. It is full of tourism and retirement communities."

Carville has three sons, he feels that when he moved here there weren't many facilities for children, but thanks to community involvement, conditions have changed.

He commented that over the years he has seen tremendous growth and youth programs. He is very happy with the development of family recreation, and the cultural growth.

When Carville came to CBR it was a two year institution and points with pride to the fact it has become a four year institution. He notes the growth of the technology and computer science, the use of the word processor and other improvements the college has made.

"I have always liked students," He says. "There is always a group of students who spearhead activities and classes. The attribution problem has greatly improved due largely to the four year program development. The majority of applicants are interested mainly in a four year program."

Carville feels Juniors and Seniors are motivators of the school, He would like to see more upper classmen involved with freshman recruitment."
Education is Important

When a student at the College of Boca Raton wants to learn how to take pictures, there is always Mr. Curran's photography classes. Here the student can learn every aspect of photography, from taking the pictures, to developing and mounting them.

Curran has taught at the C.B.R. for approximately 10 years. He received his B.A. in Science and Philosophy at Fordham University, in New York. He took his masters in philosophy at the same institution and has completed all requirements for his Ph.D., except his thesis.

Curran began his academic career at Newton College of the Sacred Heart, in Mass., where he spent 20 years teaching philosophy and logic. During the last three years of his stay there, he was chairman of the department with a faculty staff of six.

He decided to move south because of the weather. At first, he taught photography on a one-to-one basis, and did photography for weddings, and private parties. He started to teach at Barry College in Florida, staying a year, during which time he was department chairman.

At a member of the CBR faculty, he has developed opinions about the students and faculty, "It has potential which I hope will be developed," Curran declared. "I have great respect for the faculty because they have a sincere interest in students, and spend much time discussing how they could help the student." He believes "the student has finally come to the realization that education is important, and is encouraged to take advantage of it now. The students have very little self-confidence, and because of the teachers, the student develops the necessary self-confidence to succeed."

When asked what changes he would make, Curran replied, "I would like to see students be encouraged to take courses outside of their major field, because we are educating the whole person, not just the worker." "CBR is just a camp ground for spoiled little rich kids," "CBR is only interested in your money, not your education," "not to mention the political slurs associated with the purpose of CBR."

But not all students at CBR find these negative attitudes true or acceptable. For example, there is a person on this campus who enrolled in the Fall of 1983.

"It is my opinion that such attention and concern developed because this person showed a willingness to learn; and no one can tell me that if a student at CBR shows a willingness to learn he or she will not receive necessary help from the administration and faculty."

"This is not an interview case from a file. This is a real life situation and the person of who I speak is none other than 'yours truly'."

First Hospitality Convocation

By: Stacey Levine

On March 1, 1985, the College of Boca Raton held its first annual Spring Hospitality Convocation. The program started with a wine and cheese reception, held in the corridor of the CBR library building. Then the reception was followed by a program directed by Larry Brandt, coordinator, and Theodore Veskosky, associate professor.

Opening the program was a welcome address by Barry Brandt, followed by an introduction of the new faculty members in the hospitality program.

Frances Johnson is the Director of Personnel at the Boca Raton Hotel and Club. He has come to CBR to teach a course in Personnel Management. He brings many years of expertise in this area.

Kaddouri is another addition to the Hospitality Program. He brings expertise in Hospitality Management Accounting.

The next scheduled event was the awarding of certificates to students who have completed Hotel/Motel Association Educational Institute Certification Courses. Last semester, five certification courses were offered.

They were: Food Purchasing Management, Introduction to the Hospitality Industry, Supervisory Housekeeping, Food Production Principles, and Maintenance and Engineering.

A total of 97 certificates were distributed, with the following students receiving certificates with distinction, meaning a 90 better score on their final exam:

Tamara Baussan, Michael Kenneth Costa, and Thomas C. LePere, for Supervisory Housekeeping; Kayla Wipperman, Tracey Hagedin, Sandra L. Engle, and Karin S. Corin.

James Matthews, Dean of Academic Affairs, and Jack Fisher, Assistant Dean of Academic Affairs, also spoke.

"Always Room for Growth"

By: Stacey Levine

The Mortuary Science Dept. has an addition to its faculty, Ronald Aiello, a specialist in Instruction in Funeral Service Sociology and Merchandising.

He holds an A.S. in Mortuary Funeral Service Instruction, from Union College in New Jersey. He obtained his B.S. at Montclair State College in New Jersey. He also holds, his National Board Accreditation in Funeral Service for the states of Florida, and New Jersey.

At 26 Aiello, proudly states he has been working in the field for 12 years. He came to C.B.R. two semesters ago, at the request of Mr. Chew, program coordinator. He currently holds a full time job as an Assistant Manager of Kraeer Funeral Home in Pompano Beach.

Aiello says he likes the warmer climate. He feels CBR is a "beautiful campus with exceptional facilities." He stresses the fact that this is a very well "manicured campus."

"This is a learning experience for me, as well as the students. There is always room for growth and expansion within oneself," he declared.

When asked why he picked funeral service, Aiello replied; "There is a certain mystery behind it. Mortuary Science encompasses a lot of fields all in one."
On the Map

"The College of Boca Raton baseball team is finally on the map," Coach Harry Christiansen after his team had defeated Eckerd College, 3-1, on March 16. It was the Knights third consecutive victory, but most importantly, proved the Knights must be reckoned with the future.

"This was my biggest win yet," said Christiansen who is in his second year as head coach at Boca. "The whole team should be congratulated. Everybody played a super game. The pitching was good, the defense was good, and out hitting was good." Mike Tristino (4-1) went seven innings, allowing six hits and had six strikeouts for the win. Good defense, most notably a diving stop by second-baseman Pete Pappas, who then threw the ball to shortstop Kevin Lane for a key force-out in the sixth inning.

Junior lefthander Don Voight put Eckerd away in the eighth and ninth innings with a good mix of fastballs and off speed pitches. The good kid (2-1-1) earned an "A" for the win. Good defense, off. All of a sudden, they were out that he has "spent the rest of my life loafing around."

He came to CBR through his friendship with CBR president Dr. Don Ross, Milt worked very hard on Dr. Ross's campaign, giving constant support and effort in the political arena. Milt says his main purpose in joining the CBR staff is to see what he can do to improve the college. He is very concerned about student athletics, and the need for more student activities. When asked how this can be accomplished, he replied, "I think this can be accomplished by providing more services for students in their non-academic life."

Tragedy

Tragedy struck when freshman pitcher James Soricelli was injured in a violent brawl between Boca and Miami Dade North Community College, February 11. Soricelli underwent emergency surgery and is fighting to retain the sight of his right eye. He also suffered a broken ankle.

This is what happened, according to CBR Baseball Coach Harry Christiansen, "I went out to congratulate my pitcher when I noticed some action taking place near second base."

"Our players were coming off the field, happy because we won, and the next thing I knew, Lane and another guy were squaring off. All of a sudden, they were all out there. It was like a sea of blue shirts."

On the advice of attorney Dennis Schaefer, Soricelli did not comment on the brawl. He did, however, insist, "I was only out there to help my teammates, especially Joe Somma, who appeared to be in trouble with a few players hitting him. I came to his rescue."

Other players had minor cuts and bruises.

"I'm just outraged that this type of violence can go on in an athletic field. I'm livid," said Greg Malfitano, CBR's vice-president in charge of athletics. "What happened was absolutely senseless."

The fight apparently started when a Dade North runner slid into shortstop Kevin Lane, who was turning a double play. Lane successfully completed the turn, but the runner came in hard with his left shoulder. After that, the field was filled with blue jerseys. Dade had an obvious numbers advantage of almost 2-1.

"I was out there trying to break up the fight when I witnessed a Dade player wind up and smack Scott Anderson recently returned from an auto accident that kept him out of action for almost five weeks. "It's good to have Dave back," said Christiansen. "He'll allow for a somewhat normal pitching rotation now."

Junior catcher Nick Loc- ciano broke his foot during a scrimmage and will be lost for the whole season. Luccisano will be red-shirted, allowing him an extra year of eligibility in the future. Luckily, the Knights acquired catcher Steve Con-

On any given afternoon, any student can join Milt on the field for glee beginner golf lessons. In addition he has instituted a Sunday Night Bingo, with cash prizes. Not many people would give themselves the way Milt does. His love of students should be commended and admired, and every student at one time or another. Should find his or her way over to the Office of Student Services and say "Hello."

The Collegiate Staff would like to congratulate Coach Wiggermansen on winning the title of Coach of the Year for the 25th District.

Coach Wiggermansen not only demonstrates to the CBR community his outstanding expertise but these qualities are recognized by the NAIA.

Once again, he has shown his athletes they should rech for the top. He is an example of leadership. His accomplishments are most commendable. He is doing his part to assure that the College of Boca Raton will continue to be known as an outstanding athletic institution as well as a highly academic facility.

The CBR women's tennis team is off to a fine start this year. In fact, this is the first year the women's tennis team has won a game. "We have a good group of young ladies who really enjoy competing," said Roy Wiggemansen, Coach.

"Three girls, Darlene Kahn, Lisa March and Joan Berk, have basically carried the team thus far. Polly Van Gorder, Laura Jeffords and Wendy Rich are the other members of the team.

The team is 3-1, with its only loss coming at the hands of Broward, 5-4. Marsh and Berk have yet to lose a single match in singles or doubles, and Kahn has lost but once.

The Knights destroyed Barry University, 9-0, on a day where CBR could do no wrong. Kahn defeated her opponent Amy Cotton, 6-1, 6-1. Marsh won 6-0, 6-1. Berk won 6-2, 6-2. Boca edged St. Leo 5-4 in a battle that came down to fine doubles play by Berk and Van Gorder. Kahn and Marsh were also successful in their doubles bid against strong opponents.

The College of Boca Raton has come up with something new and exciting for its students — Girl's tennis.

The activity is directed by non other than Coach Wiggemansen, who states "This is a very new experience for me. It is very nice, because it is different. It's the first time I ever coached girls. Let's face it—there is a first time for everything.''

The tennis team is composed of six "very dedicated" young ladies. They are: Darlene Kahn, Joan Berk, Polly Van Gorder, Lisa March, Laura Jeffords, and Stacy O'Hare.

Darlene Kahn, the top woman tennis player in PANAMA will lead the CBR woman's tennis team. She will be supported by Lisa March from Naples, Fla. and Joan Berk from Coral Springs, Fla. The CBR tennis team lacks depth but approaches the 1985 season with optimism and enthusiasm.
"I Enjoy Learning With Students"

By: Stacey Levine

Mr. Claude L. Simpson has an extensive background in the engineering and computer field. He studied for his B.S. in Electronic Engineering at the Milwaukee School of Engineering, and went on for his M.S. at the University of Southern California. He obtained his Ph.D. at Nova University, in Florida.

Simpson began his career working for the UNIVAC Co., as a design engineer. He worked on such projects as the Apollo Space Program. He was responsible for the tracking station. He went on to become a system engineer for the Department of Defense, supervising a group of people who constructed and operated an air defense system, which functioned around Eastern Europe. His next career move was with the Computer Science Department at Trinity Christian College, and once adjusted to the subject, he felt a large responsibility for developing design automation systems for computers.

Later, Simpson decided to start his own company in Europe. It was known as Data Applications International. He worked with the design and consulting of micro processor based systems. During this period he developed a training program to orient logic design engineers in the use of micro processors inside their design. He was subsequently named in "Who's Who in Electronics."

Simpson says, "I have developed more than 1000 different designs of circuits and systems incorporating micro processors and software during my career."

In 1983 he decided that he wanted to teach. He learned about the College of Boca Raton through a friend and took the position here to help develop the computer science department.

Simpson is also currently Vice-Chairman of the Institute of Electrical and Electronic Engineers Computer Society, in West Palm Beach.

When asked to comment on CBR he replied, "CBR is a great place I enjoy learning together with the students. The computer program is growing and I hope to have a computer information systems degree developed more in line with the business school than the computer science department. I am very impressed with the students."

On the subject of Continuing Education, he feels "It is very important in the area of computer science because of IBM's location in this area."

Simpson regards student apathy as a common problem in all schools, and doesn't feel it is any worse here. He feels a large freshman class has much to do with this problem.

"Freshman students are just getting situated in the college atmosphere and lifestyle. It takes them a little time to develop the school spirit," he says.

Within five to ten years, Simpson predicts the institution will have a computer related graduate program. He also expressed belief the business department will be working in collaboration with the computer department.

Steve Bird is one of three Admissions Officers at the College of Boca Raton. He was born in Ethiopia, East Africa, and spent the first 16 years of his life there. Steve received his B.A. at Trinity Christian College in Chicago. He is working towards his M.A. at Ryder College, in New Jersey.

Bird comes to C.B.R. after seven years in the Admissions field in Ohio and Philadelphia. He has been with CBR for three years.

He says he enjoys his job, because he likes to travel, and his dedication to education. When asked about the duties of an admissions officer, he declared.

"My main responsibility is to acquaint students with who we are, what we are, and what we have to offer."

When talking to a prospective student certain things must be discussed and dealt with."

A basic attraction of the College of Boca Raton is the surrounding environment. However, the primary responsibility of students is education, not fun in the sun.

Bird talks to many students from all walks of life. He does this through college visitations and college fairs. He spends much time traveling throughout the Northeast, recruiting students.

On the CBR campus, Bird likes to develop close friendships with the students. He is "very proud of the students." And enjoys campus tours with prospective students. He states, "I am delighted with how students treat people on tours. There is a friendliness and a warmth on the CBR campus, that is nonexistent elsewhere."

When asked about CBR's future, he replied, "I think that the Master's Program will develop further. The number of transfer students will continue to rise and there will be an overall growth in the college as a whole."

He quoted interesting statistics he said, "the number of applications received this year is up 13%, over last year's record breaking total. The College of Boca Raton also encompasses students from 32 states, and 23 foreign countries with a strong increase in the Midwest."

Bird expresses a strong pride and sense of dedication in representing CBR, he hopes to increase student involvement in the recruiting area.

'Where I like to Be'

Dr. John Cicero is the Acting Chairman of the Business Division. He received his B.A. in English at the University of Rochester. He obtained his M.B.A. and Ph.D. at Syracuse University.

He is married to Christina, and has three children, raising in age from 12 to 17.

Before coming to CBR two years ago, Dr. Cicero spent most of his time in private psychologic practice at the New York Center, and still works at both, in the evenings.

An ad in the paper brought Dr. Cicero to the College of Boca Raton. He explained, "The year before I came here, was the only year in 13 years that I haven't taught, at least part time. I like the size of this school and once adjusted to the student population, teaching here is most enjoyable. This is a group of students who fit just where I like to be."

He believes many students are willing to be your friend. Which makes them socially sophisticated.

Dr. Cicero does his best to meet individual student need. Being a member of the CBR faculty is a special endeavor for him. "Students should know that if they have something to say, they have someone to listen to, and at least they can feel that they were heard, even if no action was taken, other than some type of explanation."

When a student has completed a course with Dr. Cicero, he not only is guaranteed of learning the subject, but he learns about life as well.

He states, "I am delighted with how students treat people on tours. There is a friendliness and a warmth on the CBR campus, that is nonexistent elsewhere."

When asked about CBR's future, he replied, "I think that the Master's Program will develop further. The number of transfer students will continue to rise and there will be an overall growth in the college as a whole."

He quoted interesting statistics he said, "the number of applications received this year is up 13%, over last year's record breaking total. The College of Boca Raton also encompasses students from 32 states, and 23 foreign countries with a strong increase in the Midwest."

Bird expresses a strong pride and sense of dedication in representing CBR, he hopes to increase student involvement in the recruiting area.
Best & Worst of '85

SONG

BEST
1. Born in the USA - Bruce Springsteen - The Boss returns with the E Street Band for the No. 1 album of the year.
2. 90125 - Yes - back to true form with founder Tony Kaye and new guitarist Trevor Rabin, yes, hits the charts with owner of a Lonely Heart.
3. for MiG Bami - Hall and Oates - with hits like Out of Touch and Method of Modern Love. These guys are back on the charts again.
4. EB84 - The Everly Brothers - an album worth the 10 year wait.
5. Learning to Crawl - The Pretenders - two ne whambands and a baby faced Christine Hyndes didn't stop the band from making another great album.

WORST
1. Give my regards to Broad Street - Paul McCartney - with old Beatles hit. Paul McCartney falls short because of only three new songs.
2. Victory - The Jacksons - Michael and Jermaine, they have great solo careers but for the rest of the brothers, I wish them luck.
3. Arena - Duran Duran - the Wild Boys should stick with what they do the best, touring and donning studio albums.
4. Isolation - Toto - the follow up to Africa bombed.
5. Stay Hungry - twisted Swister - these guys look and sound bad.

SCREEN

BEST
1. Teachers - how can it miss a cast like Nolte, Mulligan and Hirsch and a soundtrack that features Bob Seger & The Silver Bullet Band.
2. Ghostbusters - Murray, Ram, and Ackroy chasing Casper all over New York.
3. Splash - Tom Hanks falls in love with mermaid Deryn Hannah.
4. Gremlins - one of Spielberg's finest movies.
5. It's Spinaltap - pop music in the eyes of Bob Reiner.

WORST
1. Dune - singing can but can't act.
2. Boleria - Bo and John bomb again.
3. Greystoke - another boring Tarzan movie.
4. Where the Boys Are - look for them during spring break.
5. The Lonely Lady - a bad plot with bad acting.

Caceres and Folkman Recipe Winners

By: Stacey Levine

Under the guidance of Theodore Veskoski, the students of the Hospitality Program spent many days and hours preparing, tasting, and creating recipes to be presented for competition in the Quaker Oats College Recipe Contest. The Quaker Oats Company Food Service Division challenged the nation's college students enrolled in food service preparation courses to develop an original recipe for consumption any time of the day or night which best exemplifies the highest standards of good taste, interesting presentation, nutrition, and food service expertise.

To be eligible, each entry included the following four elements: Original recipe, rationale, photo, and completed entry form. The students were permitted to use any product distributed by Quaker Oats Company. The recipe had to fit one of two categories, commercial or non-commercial.

Accompanying the recipe sheets must have a rationale of more than one-page in length, typed (double spaced) or legibly printed on a separate sheet of paper; also include the following:

Recipe background including why it was developed, for the category selected, if current industry trends impacted the development, why ingredients were selected, if available, alternative versions of the recipe, etc. If recipe was developed for special diets, this must be explained in detail.

Additionally be a photo of the recipe to be included. School was allowed to enter no of categories of no recipe.

Preliminary judging had to be done at each school. CBR was for-tunate enough to obtain services of Hospitality Industry representatives. They included:

Mr. James Caplinger, Director of Counseling Services, Make-Believe Schools, Mrs. Martha Ambrose, Registered Dietitian, and the President of the College of Hospitality Industry Association, and Mr. Mort Simberkoff, Consultant, Hospitality IHS Inc.

The winners of the local contest were:

1. Carl Folkman for his Strawberry Brandy Swirl; rf, Rafael Caceres for his Raisin Crunch Bars.

The runners up were:

Gregory Sullivan, Irish Heaven Oatmeal Cake, Jefrey Krowicki, Oatmeal Cookies, Cindy Luliana, Oatmeal Honey Butter Bread, Stacey Levine, Italian Style Meatloaf with Oatmeal, Richard Lane, Quaker Snack, Patricia McNaboe, Fluffed up Jelly Ice Cream, and Bill Fanizzi Bakery Shells and Meat Sauce.

The winners of the national contest will get an all expense paid trip to Chicago to the National Restaurant Show. The teachers will also win the same trip. In addition to the trip, the two winners will win $1000 in scholarships. The winning school will get $1000 worth of Hobart Restaurant Equipment.

GRADUATE PROGRAM

AT C.B.R.

By: Andrew Wallen

Tuesday morning, the sun is out, and the first graduating program at CBR is about to be officially announced.

The program, under the chair of Dr. David DeMello, has come on a long way from its short existence at the college.

On February 24, the program was officially introduced by Dr. Ross in a elaborate ceremony on the second floor of the Sylvester Hall. The program is possible by a generous endowment from the Hansbury-Sylvester.

Dr. Harold Ross CBR family president made the introduction and Father Devereaux delivered a short prayer.

COMING EVENTS

OF THE HOSPITALITY PROGRAM

By: Stacey Levine

The Quantity Foods classes of the Hospitality Program, under the direction of Mr. Theodore Veskoski, will be hosting a Faculty and Administration Luncheon, on March 25, 1985.

There will be a cocktail hour beginning at 5:30, and dinner will be served at 6:00.

This event will take place in the College of Boca Raton School auditorium, in the Lynn Student Center. All faculty and administration are invited to attend, compliments of the Hospitality Program.

On April 11, 1985, at 1:00 p.m., the Quantity Foods class of the Hospitality Program, will be hosting a luncheon for the Palm Beach chapter of the Hotel/Motel Association. This is the first time something like this has ever taken place on the CBR campus.

The Hospitality Program looks forward to this quite an accomplishment, as well as an honor.

Further updates of the Hospitality Program will be printed in the next issue.

Laundry Facility

By: Stacey Levine

Having a problem finding a clean washing machine doesn't mean you have to go without.

More no worry. Sooner than you think, the College of Boca Raton will have new centralized laundry facilities for students to use.

Greg Malifano has announced that centralized laundry facility will be built at Joseph Hall because present locations do not provide the service.

Students were permitted to enter two recipes, one of their own and one that the wild boys should stick to. The winners would be the students who come up with the best recipe.

The runners up were:

Gregory Sullivan, Irish Heaven Oatmeal Cake, Jeffery Krowicki, Oatmeal Cookies, Cindy Luliana, Oatmeal Honey Butter Bread, Stacey Levine, Italian Style Meatloaf with Oatmeal, Richard Lane, Quaker Snack, Patricia McNaboe, Fluffed up Jelly Ice Cream, and Bill Fanizzi Bakery Shells and Meat Sauce.
