SECURITY BUM RAP

By Frank Benedetto

We have all heard the complaints before. Security are a bunch of rent-a-cops, they love to bust people, and that they don't do anything. I recently decided to check these complaints out first hand.

It was 7:45 p.m. We were on our way to the Schmidt Center when we spotted a university golf cart with Morris Temel, one of C.B.R.'s most respected security officers. He left us on the first shift at 7:45 p.m. We immediately went to the Schmidt Center and found our way to the exit.

We were waiting for Morris to return when we heard a noise. We figured he would lock up and leave, but Morris Temel appeared from behind the next corner.

"What's going on?" we asked.

"I heard a noise," Morris replied.

"What kind of noise?" we asked.

"A noise coming from the smoke alarm," Morris said.

"Is that a problem?" we asked.

"I don't know," Morris replied. "I think it's just a false alarm." He then proceeded to search and secure the area.

The most common complaint I've heard is that security is not to bust people, they are here to protect the students by preventing any unsafe situation." He told me that it's not security that makes the rules, it's the administration who's only here to enforce them.

Summer is a season where both the day and night pass slowly. Floriida is full of many attractions and tours that will turn any day into an adventure.

If you want to take a break and cool off, then a day trip down to the Keys is for you. Discover John Pennekamp Underwater State Park. It is a great place to go snorkeling and diving. The crystal clear water is full of colorful underwater life of all shapes and sizes. Not only do they have diving and snorkeling, but there are glass bottom boat rides which allow the non-swimmer to experience the thrill of diving. These tours are based about 2 hours from Boca Raton. Snorkeling tours cost $17 for the 9:30 a.m. trip or $19 for the 12:00p.m. These prices include all of the equipment needed. Glass bottom boat tours are $11 and depart at 9:00 a.m., 12:00 p.m., and 3:00 p.m. Reservations are required for these tours.

For further information on these getaways contact John Pennekamp Diving. 1-800-432-2871, Dolphin Research Center, (305)269-1121.

COLD HEARTED KNIGHTS

By Frank Benedetto

The new C.B.R. Ice Hockey team has made an incredible impact on the Florida Ice Hockey Association in their first season of play. The youngest team in the league proved itself by beating all but one other team.

C.B.R. not only leads their division, but they also lead in other categories. A top scorer in the league is Rick Coleman, and C.B.R. has the best penalty killing unit and unfortunately one of the highest penalty accumulations. Jim Hanifan explains the penalty situation like this, "All of the other teams see a bunch of smaller and younger kids, and expect to rough us up. We in turn, show it right back in their faces. We have to gain respect. Scott Hartnell agreed by saying, "Half the game is mental skill and poise, the other half is physical skill and domination. We can dish out just as much as we take, if not more."

The Knights' competition includes teams from Furty Harrys, Pickles Pub, Statewide Demolition, and of course, their arch rival Florida Atlantic University.

A large factor in the team's success has been great crowd support. Hundreds of screaming fans have brought the atmosphere level to a peak. Bobby Coleman said, "The crowd gives you such a lift, they come to see you win. They scream and yell for you, so you give your all for them."

C.B.R. OF THE 90's

By Felice Goldstein

Throughout the student body a long-standing complaint has been C.B.R.'s living conditions and policies. Over the last year and a half the school has been hard at work looking for solutions. Not only have there been up-to-date changes, but a five Year Plan has been put into effect. According to Greg Malfitano, Vice President of Administration and Student Services, the long range plans for the college are very realistic and achievable.

C.B.R. has just been awarded zoning rights to add three new dormitory buildings to our campus. According to Malfitano "the residence halls of the 90's will be designed with an accent on students' privacy, security, and an overall emphasis on students' general needs." In each building there will be a computer lab, study and TV area. In addition, each room will have its own full bath.
"Danke sehr", "amorillo", "chaise", and "sardis-boko" are words that many students at this school use when they are back home for vacations. As a student at the College of Boca Raton, you are guaranteed to meet fellow students that are difficult to understand and to communicate with. According to Admissions Coordinator Steven Bird, more than fifteen percent of all the students at CBR are from countries other than the United States.

The northeast region of the U.S. is by far the region where most of the students are coming from. As many as 6 out of 10 students grew up in such states as New York, New Jersey, Massachusetts, Connecticut and Pennsylvania.

Students from the Caribbean Islands (Bahamas, Puerto Rico, and Haiti) compose the largest group of foreigners. It is logical when you consider the proximity to Florida.

The only continent that is not represented at CBR is Australia. But when you look at the expansion this school has had in the last decade (the enrollment of students has doubled since 1981) it might not be long before the school also has students from "down-under".

The College of Boca Raton actively tries to enroll students with different backgrounds and customs. "It is healthy," says Bird, "that students both from the U.S. and the rest of the world can experience different cultures."

Representatives from CBR go on their own or with other colleges and universities to high schools around the world to recruit students to create an international environment at the school. Besides the programs that are offered, the recruiting that is done by the school's representatives is the most important reason why young people choose the College of Boca Raton.

Jarkko Ollikainen, a freshman from Finland, represents the foreigner's attitude towards Americans: "I like Americans' those that I have met are friendly." His roommate Chris Hoeper, a sophomore from Missouri, adds: "though they (foreigners) come from different backgrounds and may act and think differently, they are easy to get along with."

Dorm History

By Bjarne Persson

Most of the students at CBR live on campus, but few know that the school was originally called Marymount College, and even fewer know the background of the names given to the dorms.

PATTON HALL Because of the increasing numbers of male students that were attending Marymount College (the first ones were admitted in 1965) the school decided to build a dorm for the boys in 1966. The new building was named after Elizabeth and Stuart W. Patton. Mr. Patton was the president of the board of trustees at the school. He was also an attorney who gave a lot of free legal advice to the newly created Marymount College. As an honor to Mr. Patton, the new dorm was named after him and his wife.

TRINITY-HALL was the first dorm, built in 1963. The name Trinity reflected the Catholic philosophy the school was built on. In the beginning there was a "housemother" who checked the girls (Marymount College was originally an all girls school) so they didn't break curfew and didn't bring any boys to their rooms. The name TRINITY HALL was changed in 1985 to SYLVESTER HALL, in honor of a benefactor who has financial support to the human services program at the school. However, after three years as SYLVESTER HALL, the building was once again named TRINITY HALL.

WIXTED-HALL was built in 1964. It was named after Dr. William Wixted, one of the first faculty members. Dr. Wixted was a professor of philosophy and a very popular teacher among the rest of the faculty, staff, and the students. He served at the school for more than fifteen years.

"It makes better instructors to hear well educated people, most of whom have Phd's in their fields, you get advantages hearing and adding to the person," said Dr. Richard-Allerdyce who has recently returned from a conference in Toronto, Canada. The American Culture Assoc.Pop. Culture Association conference had a wide variety of seminars including women's issues, traditional Literature, MTV, rock music, blues music, and a lot of film and video information. Dr. Richard-Allerdyce will be using the valuable information she picked up for her Video/Novel course this summer, Monday and Wednesday evenings at 3:00.

Lisa Prue, Accounting Instructor, and Assistant Professor Thomas K. Noble, of Hotel and Restaurant Management, attended a National Conference on successfull student teaching in Orlando at the end of February. The two studied classroom research and methods of teaching. They not only brought back to C.B.R. different approaches to teaching, but video recordings of new techniques and field practices as well. In April the two led a faculty seminar to demonstrate their methods on campus.

Betty Rose Factor, Associate Professor of English, ran a pilot program last semester, combining skills and composition. This was place of two separate semester classes in Composition. The program of achievement was astounding with very high student motivation. This program has become a part of my life that made me happy to be a teacher. The kids were great and that's one more reason. Partly responsible for our success was Mrs. Dye in the Resource Center. She helped, interested, and encouraged.

Over the next five years all rooms in the existing dorms will be stripped and completely redecorated. When this is complete, students can expect to find new furniture, floor tiles, and air conditioning units in each room. Twelve rooms in Wixted Hall have already been converted and redecorated and students indicate that there is a definite improvement. In 1987 a parking lot was added between Patton and Trinity Halls. Last year a security booth was added in front of Wixted Hall and the rooms were placed around campus. The campus has gained a picnic area also. The case dorm has a microwave, all rooms have been equipped for telephones and cable TV, and all three dorm lobbies have been refurbished. There is also a new policy up to four inches and a weight room in Patton Hall open to all students.

Dr. Frederoc Codjiclo, Professor of English, has written a paper entitled "Morphometric Analysis of Introduced and Wild Populations of The Salt Marsh Grasshopper" published by the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service. Dr. Cichocki has been selected by the National Environmental Consultants for Palm Beach County Planning Commission and is now the committee for Acquisition of Environmentally Sensitive Lands. This is a major step and a definite improvement to keep the vandalism down, incidents.

ACADEMIC COUNCIL

The College of Boca Raton established an Academic Council to recommend programs and new classes for the school.

The College of Boca Raton established an Academic Council to recommend new programs and new classes for the school.

Mr. Gregg Cox is the vice-chairman of the Academic Council. Next year, he said, there will be three new programs. Pre-Engineering Education, Small Business, and Communications. This semester, they dealt with the summer courses and passing the vote on the three new majors.

With the new programs that were passed this year, students will have more majors and classes to choose from.

Do you have the right stuff to become a Resident Assistant? According to Tom Heffernan, Director of Residental Life, you could be what he's looking for.

The main thing was also to become an R.A. are quite simple, but serious. You must maintain a 2.0 GPA, higher. But you have to be willing to put in some additional time, study your influence in the firm, as well as their ability to react quickly to opportunities.

The College of Boca Raton will be holding a conference with all the students on campus. This conference will be held resposible for the information and were responsible for the maintainance work. Students claimed that the Monday night notice for a Monday night meet was insufficient time for planing.

Heffernan's belief is that in order to keep the vandalism down, a) take steps to make sure that the school acts like a close knit community and until that happens, incidents like this will go on.

R.A.'s Who?

By Lori Egan

"The school is too small and there is not enough college life on campus," complained Brenda Perison, a student not returning this fall. However not all students feel this way. When asked if they were returning to the College of Boca Raton next fall, 25 out of 28 students said yes. I am staying here because I love to wake up in the morning and have the sun shining in my window, and I love to always feel warm, to have bare shoulders and to feel the sun always." To hear, Florida's weather is enticing enough, but Ellen Gilews says expressing because she will lose too many credits if she transfers again. But she said she is not returning because she would like to attend a much larger college.

While the college is small, it is a small private school. Danielle Dury will remain here next fall and then transfer to a big school. "Eric Renz's disagreed with the need for a large school saying, "the bond I have established here between friends has proved to be much greater than any other school. I feel more at home here in this area." The feeling of closeness between students because of the smallness of the school is still strong appeal. Sean Flaherty said another when he said, "there is a good student-teacher relationship here at Boca."
Dear Editor,

I am a sophomore at the College of Boca Raton. I live on campus in Warren Towers, a 40's wing. I would like to comment on the way our campus security is kept. I feel that there should be security for the safety of the students, but I believe the guards do not do anything they want. I think that cameras throughout the dorm and locking all entrances except for one door is a little too much. It is known that security also listens into rooms to see what is going on, or if a door is not all the way shut they will push it open to see what is going on. I strongly believe, and am sure many other students believe that the security makes us feel very uncomfortable and insecure. What is the reason for this?

Ken Muro

Dear Editor,

I would like to know why all of a sudden the guards have taken a new attitude toward the students. Last semester the guards would harass the students. They felt that we were, and I quote, "rich double faced brats." This semester, however, most of them have relaxed and not treated the school as a prison or a military outfit. If security would act nice, the school would be more enjoyable.

Glen Dunlap

Dear Editor,

I would like to compliment the housekeeping staff in Trinity Hall for a job well done. Every day the dorm rooms are immaculately clean, the floors are swept and mopped, and the carpets are vacuumed. Trinity Hall a nice place to live and their efforts are appreciated. Thanks, us, ladies, for your hard work.

Sincerely,

Sharon Moran

Dear Editor,

I wish to complain about three things, the food, the dorm, and the curfew. I am not saying that all of us are bad people or need improvements. First of all, the food is gross. My parents pay $14,000.00 plus a year for me to eat food which my dog wouldn't eat. I was at military school for high school, and I know how hard it is to cook for more than a thousand students. We need improvements in food quality, not quantity. The cafeteria tries making these exotic dishes, but the quantity when they should make simple dishes, we all like.

Second, our dorm (Wister) is falling apart on us. I lie on the end of the hall in two rooms connected by a bathroom. One bathroom has mold growing all over the walls due to inadequate ventilation. Also, the plaster is falling off our walls.

Finally, the curfew is absurd. I believe on campus students should be allowed in our rooms after curfew, with proper proof of C.B.R. Students, or non-C.B.R. students I understand should not be. Also, the curfew should be changed to, two hours more.

Thank you,

Financial Aid

By Cathy Toledo

The Financial Aid Office can offer a wide variety of sources to help you pay for your college education. There are several scholarships, grants, tuition vouchers, and loans. It may be easier than you think to receive financial aid.

Scholarships are awarded for many different reasons. There are sports scholarships, which are awarded to people talented in a specific sport. Academic scholarships are awarded to students who excel in their studies. Also, there are scholarships based on need. These scholarships are awarded to students who can not economically continue their education.

Grants and tuition vouchers are awarded to people who apply. There are many different types and qualifications. The same principles apply for loans.

If you want to apply for any type of financial aid, the Financial Aid Office can inform you of any details. It is located in the library building.

Bookstore

Hollis Schwartz

Although the bookstore at College Town makes a good number of sales everyday, many students are finding fault despite its convenience.

The bookstore cannot be re-sell used books due to the simple fact that there is no sufficient storage. There is no way to know if storage will be provided in the near future since the plans for expansion are not out yet. The books sold usually do not coincide with the books from F.A.C. due to the decisions of the individual department heads. This is another factor preventing Boca students from buying used books. The used college bookstores in the area, such as The Academic, on Glades Road, carry used books compatible with F.A.C. curriculum because there are more students attending that school, therefore putting those books in much higher demand than C.B.R.

Though we have a variety of clothing in the bookstore, the biggest current seller is a cotton t-shirt, usually bought in large sizes for extra comfort. Though the hot items vary from year to year, many students also wonder why the bookstore does not carry quality sweatsuits manufactured by Champion. In fact, a shipment of Champion clothing, with the Boca logo, was purchased some time ago but then stored before it was available to the public. This is a safety of C.B.R. Another fact to consider is that ordering from the catalog is long-term and the company is very slow when filling orders.

Student Focus

By Peter Hinrichs

A Knightline survey was handed out to 50 C.B.R. students to see what their campuses were on the school. The survey was to find out if students had any problems with C.B.R.

Over all, 47% of the 50 students were displeased with dorm living. Students thought the dorms had a very uncomfortable atmosphere and were in poor condition. Students were also displeased with the lack of maintenance in the dorms.

49 students thought that dorm rooms should be equipped with better lighting and more electrical outlets. Overall they thought dorm living should be more comfortable and should be in better condition for the price paid.

Students also felt that the college lacks certain facilities. They want to see more clubs and events on campus. They also said they would like to see more sporting facilities and a bigger variety of sports they can participate in. It seems the students are looking for more to do on campus. Some students also said that there should be better academic facilities such as a better equipped library.

A majority of the students liked the small class size, because they said it was easier for them to learn. Other students said that the professors did too much lecturing and did not have enough class participation. Other comments suggested that the school should have more majors and a bigger variety of classes.

Hot Spots

By Hollis Schwartz

Attention hard working, run down college students, looking for a place to mingle and relax without having to get dressed! How about the beach! If you attend the College of Boca Raton, there are three conveniently placed beaches just within your reach. The closest beach to C.B.R. is Spanish River, located just two miles away from school. It is no more than a bike ride away, though many students flock to Spanish River, there is little parking and no nearby place to buy refreshments.

If it's peace and quiet you are looking for, then Boca Beach is the spot for you. Just ten minutes further, on Palmeto Park Rd., you will need a car to get there. Not many students frequent this beach, but it is smaller and secluded. The scenery is beautiful and calming with palm trees, coral reefs, and white sand.

Deerfield beach is a mere fifteen minutes away. This is a popular spot for many students on the weekends. Here you will find many refreshment stands and stores for bathing suits, beachwear, and sunglasses.

Traveling fifteen minutes north on I-95 is Delray beach. Just get off at Linton Blvd. exit and take a left on to A1A. Here you will find more stores, and many restaurants. This is a beach with night life.

For those wanting to take a day trip, pack the car. One hour south of Boca is Hollywood beach, this has it all. Not only is there a mall, but, like Deerfield, it has individual stores. If you stay the night, there are many bars, and a boardwalk all conveniently placed on the beach.

These are just a few of the sun spots within reach of C.B.R. Of course if you walk outside your front door, there is always the old stand-by, the newly renovated C.B.R. pool.
What Are You Buying?
By Gjert Endnestad

The most expensive equipment in C.B.R. Rooms is usually a stereo, on which an average C.B.R. student spends $230. Televisions are also in the expensive range, with an average of $210 spent.

For students, clearly music is the most important. All of the 50 students asked said that the stereo/music was important to them. This explains why music (tapes, LP's, CDs, etc.) is also in the top three expense categories with an average of $70 a month.

Less expensive, but just as important are comfort investments such as refrigerators, carpet, lamps, clocks and posters. In fact, extra lamps are the runner up in popularity followed by phone and TV.

Half of the students felt that cable TV and curtains are necessary.

As we move down the popularity ladder, we find that approximately 25% have bought vacuum cleaners, toasters, VCR's, coffee makers, and computers.

When visiting the rooms on campus there are several special cases, such as microwave ovens and teddy bears worth over $200.

The most expensive single investment found was a computer worth $2000.

Boca Flyers
By Eric Wheeler

The 1989 version of the aviation division of the College of Boca Raton has hit an all time high. The philosophy of the course is based on the ability to use "common sense" according to course director E.K. Morris.

He feels that in the future C.B.R. will be competitive with the more advanced flight schools in the country. At this time the aviation department is receiving more equipment and instruction than ever before. Currently, there are 13 freshman students with a higher turnout expected in the fall. The courses the students take deal only with aviation. The flying classes prepare them to be a commercial pilot for a position in the aviation industry.
Dear Sara and Sidney,

What are the wrong people rich? One example is the College of Boca Raton. Most of the students who attend this college are extremely wealthy. The funny part about it is they don't study or ever go to classes. Why would they waste thousands of dollars of their parents' money for nothing. Most of the rich kids receive checks in the mail for spending money, rent for their condo, and maybe even insurance for their Porsche.

Then we go to students who do not have a quarter of the money the rich people do, take out loans, have financial aid, and try to get every scholarship they can. Let's not forget some work forty to fifty hours a week.

I guess what I really want to know is why do these spoiled little rich kids take advantage of their parents and walk around with their noses in the air? They should be ashamed of themselves for sitting on their butts and getting drunk almost every night.

Signed,
Life's Not Fair

Dear Sara and Sidney,

Who told you life is fair? It's time you take off the rose-colored glasses and face life. The students who cannot afford tuition should look at it before they choose the school. The people who waste their parents' money should be shot. If their parents do not care, they are just as bad as the kids. Why do you assume that everyone here is rich? Not everyone who comes to this school has all the luxuries you described. Money is not everything, so stop crying poverty.

Sarcastic Sidney

Dear Life's Not Fair,

What the heck is there to do here? Three weeks of going to bars and night clubs, and I spent a lot of money. As I wait for my next check I have to be a little more conservative in my spending habits. Doing anything in Boca costs money. Driving to other places for entertainment takes gas, and gas is expensive.

David

Dear David,

Is there anything else you enjoy aside from going to bars and night clubs? If there is not, then I am unable to help you. But, if there is, the world is an unlimited space waiting for you to indulge. You do not need much money to enjoy yourself. If you have an appreciation for art, then learn to depict the beauty of nature and sculpt, draw or write about it. If you like physical activity, play volleyball and tennis or go running, even swimming. Take advantage of the warm weather we have 365 days a year. Get your friends together and have beach parties, go skinny dipping, or be provocative and dance naked under the moon. Go to a busy street and people watch, let others amuse you for a while. Most importantly, surround yourself with people you like. You must learn to improvise when you feel you have little. Dig deep, decide what is really important to you, and strive for it. Life is too short and the world is too big for anyone to feel limited because of a lack of inspiration and imagination.

Good Luck,
Sensible Sara

Dear Sara and Sidney,

The thing you need to do is stop segregating the sexes. Start accepting the fact that we are all people and we are all male or female living in this crazy mixed up world together. Secondly, stop referring to yourself as 'forever lonely', that is not so. There are millions of people... those who love you, and those who love you; start to recognize your inner self, your special qualities that please you, and share them with whomever you choose. If you learn to love who you are, and smile at yourself, everyone else, including the guys you want, will smile back. Men are not heartless, many people are just insecure and feel the need to hurt others to boost and feed their own egos. If you find yourself with people who can't appreciate you, than it is their loss. You must understand and always remember that you are beautiful, healthy and capable of giving and receiving love. I promise that as long as you stay healthy and secure you will find someone just for you.

Good Luck,
Sensible Sara

Dear Sara and Sidney,

Dear Forever Lonely,

It is time you opened your eyes. Take a good look before you dash. Maybe you will find what you want. It takes more than a talk over a bottle of wine to fall in love. Stop being a gullible little girl and grow up. Listen to your mother-prepare for a white wedding.

Sarcastic Sidney

Dear Life's Not Fair,

It is impossible for me to answer your question of why people are ingrates. We are all born and raised in different environments and taught to appreciate different aspects of life. There are a billion different reasons for people actions. When someone has been given whatever they want in life, it is easy for them to close their eyes to reality. Unfortunately money can create huge walls in society. This wall allows people with wealth to avoid and ignore those without. It is a sad truth, but money is the root of all evil. Money creates false impressions, steals our sanity and causes people to feel superior or inferior to one another. I sense a bit of hostility in your writing. Do you assume that everyone here is rich? Not everyone who comes to this school has all the luxuries you described. Money is not everything, so stop crying poverty.

Sarcastic Sidney

Dear Sara and Sidney,

Are the wrong people rich? Dear Life's Not Fair.

Sensible Sara

Dear David,

Is there anything else you enjoy aside from going to bars and night clubs? If there is not, than I am unable to help you. But, if there is, the world is an unlimited space waiting for you to indulge. You do not need much money to enjoy yourself. If you have an appreciation for art, then learn to depict the beauty of nature and sculpt, draw or write about it. If you like physical activity, play volleyball and tennis or go running, even swimming. Take advantage of the warm weather we have 365 days a year. Get your friends together and have beach parties, go skinny dipping, or be provocative and dance naked under the moon. Go to a busy street and people watch, let others amuse you for a while. Most importantly, surround yourself with people you like. You must learn to improvise when you feel you have little. Dig deep, decide what is really important to you, and strive for it. Life is too short and the world is too big for anyone to feel limited because of a lack of inspiration and imagination.

Good Luck,
Sensible Sara

Dear Sara and Sidney,

The only thing I understand about men is 99.9% of them are lowlifes. Why when I find someone I care about he winds up in the 99.9% range? At first, it is beautiful: they take you for a romantic dinner, then a bottle of wine, and then to the beach. You fall in love, and it was just a hoax. Why do men do things and say things that they do not mean? I can't deal with the mind games they play. I am convinced there is no one out there for me. Just tell me why men are heartless, and why they think with their hormones.

Sarcastic
Forever Lonely

Dear Sara and Sidney,

The first thing you need to do is stop segregating the sexes. Start accepting the fact that we are all people and we are all male or female living in this crazy mixed up world together. Secondly, stop referring to yourself as "forever lonely"; that is not so. There are millions of people... those who love you, and those who love you; start to recognize your inner self, your special qualities that please you, and share them with whomever you choose. If you learn to love who you are, and smile at yourself, everyone else, including the guys you want, will smile back. Men are not heartless, many people are just insecure and feel the need to hurt others to boost and feed their own egos. If you find yourself with people who can't appreciate you, than it is their loss. You must understand and always remember that you are beautiful, healthy and capable of giving and receiving love. I promise that as long as you stay healthy and secure you will find someone just for you.

Good Luck,
Sensible Sara

Which Ribs Rate Best?

By: Lawren Leo

After a long, hard day of working on a tan and riding the waves you can work up a savage appetite. Luckily, we're in Southern Florida, and barbecued ribs are a local specialty. The only dilemma is where to find the best. In response to this, the Knight-life staff held a rib tasting contest between three restaurants: Tom's Place, Bone's Family Barbeque and The Original Tom Jr.'s Rib Heaven.

The panel of nineteen judges consisted of students, faculty, and members of the Knight-life staff. Each person rated the babyback ribs according to aroma and overall taste. The judges considered how spicy, smoked, sour or sweet the ribs were. The final results showed the Original Tom Jr.'s Rib Heaven as the clear winner-receiving ten excellent votes. General consensus was that Tom's sauce had a strong, smoky flavor with a medium sweet but spicy undertone.

In a telephone interview following the contest, I asked the owner, Tom Wright Jr., what was in his winning sauce. Being a secret recipe, passed down through the family he could only reveal part of the contents. He said, "...apple cider vinegar, white vinegar, ketchup, spices, garlic, mustard and a natural hickory smoke base."

Although Tom Jr. is run on a carry-out basis, they also offer a relaxed, outdoor picnic area. The business is conducted in a comfortable, down-home atmosphere perfect for the soul food menu.

The next time you're craving barbecue ribs, head on out to The Original Tom Jr.'s Rib Heaven located at 1211 South Dixie Highway in Delray. Don't worry about bringing a lot of money. A full dinner of babyback ribs is priced at $10.95 plus tax.
