Women's Soccer Claims Knightly Honor = National Champions For 2nd Straight Year

The Lady Knights won their second consecutive NAIA national soccer championship on November 25 in Rome, Ga. It was a sparkling end to the women's soccer team who showed their determination to go beyond the obstacles they encountered to claim the national crown. For much of the season, the women's soccer team was plagued by injuries. But in many ways all of the problems during the season made the championship even more gratifying to the players and to the head coach, Jim Blankenship who has led the Lady Knights to three national titles in a span of only four years. "This team will go down without a doubt as one of the most satisfying teams for me to coach. It was a team that met a lot of challenges. So many times during the season we had so much adversity, injuries, and obstacles in front of us that any less of a group could have used it as an excuse to say this is why we didn't play well. The team never dropped their standards for the team's performance and that is what makes this team so special," said an upbeat Blankenship.

The national tournament began on November 20 with nine teams vying for the national title. After winning four games in the tournament, Lynn University emerged as the victor. A big motivating factor for the team was the number 3 seed that they received in the tournament. "The players took it personally. We used that as a motivating factor to make us practice. The reaction of our team was absolutely phenomenal. We played as well as we could have played under the circumstances," stated Blankenship. Blankenship also said that the Lady Knights played two or three of the best teams early in the tournament which was an advantage because it allowed his team to defeat these teams while they were fresh and focused. Blankenship was concerned on whether his players, several who played while injured, would be able to play all four games. The Lady Knights soon proved the seed makers for the tournament wrong. In the championship game, the Lady Knights dominated the soccer team from Lindenwood College and beat them soundly with a 4-1 victory. Lene Terp earned the Most Valuable Player distinction. Hanne Nissen was named the Offensive All-Tournament Player. Four of Lynn's women soccer players made it to the all-tournament team: Hanne Nissen, Cindy Marcial, Lene Terp, and Nicki Sellas. The Lady Knights ended their soccer season with a record of 23 wins, only one loss, and one tie. When asked if this championship was more satisfying than last year, Coach Blankenship stated that each championship has its special moment. But he acknowledges that this was probably more pleasing than last year because of the obstacles that his team had to overcome to get this championship. "This team was mentally and spiritually so strong," declared Blankenship.

This season was Lynn University's soccer team's last year in the NAIA. They will be competing in Division II. Blankenship is excited about the opportunities in playing in a new division and for the chance to win a Division II title. He also feels confident that his team will succeed in Division II as they have done in the NAIA. This year the Lady Knights are graduating four players which is smaller than usual but these four will be missed for their leadership and experience which were so crucial in the team's strive for the national championships. These four are Hanne Nissen, Cindy Marcial, Linnea Sivets, and Saskia Emmery.

Congratulations to these four and to the rest of the Lady Knights in winning the championship and completing a two-peat! Is a three-peat coming next year?!? Next time you see one of the Lady Knights soccer players, give them their hard earned kudos!

Cleveland's Possible Move

By: Jon Morstein
Sports Editor

Are the Cleveland Browns moving to Baltimore? Art Modell, the Browns owner signed a thirty year contract with Baltimore. Baltimore would guarantee Mr. Modell fifty million dollars, just to move the team. The other details have not really been made public, but the offer probably is reasonable. Mr. Modell claims he is twenty million dollars in debt and can't afford keeping the team in Cleveland unless a new stadium would be provided.

Cleveland personnel claimed the Browns are still under contract until 1998. The fans are fighting to keep the team in Cleveland. The other owners in the league have to vote on the issue. There has to be a 2/3 vote in favor of the move. If the move is denied, Mr. Modell will sue the NFL for violating the antitrust law. This would probably favor Mr. Modell, so the owners are somewhat forced to approve it.

There are so many great memories in Cleveland, including the Browns and Steelers rivalry. The Baltimore Colts never should have left Baltimore. The team moved in the middle of a 1984 snow storm. Between Cleveland and Baltimore, Hall of Famers come to mind like Jim Brown and Johnny Unitas. Neither of these city's should have lost their teams, but money is what counts in today's market. As it stands now, some people believe Baltimore will get the team. The next few weeks will involve intense negotiating and some long stressful days. This is a toss up between Cleveland staying or Baltimore's 11 year wait for a franchise.

Men's Basketball

Working Toward Winning Season

By: Jon Morstein

The Lynn University Men's Basketball Team have started the season 3-1. The National Tournament their in, is one of the hardest in the country. Jeff Price, the team's head coach says, "We have a lot of new faces this year, but I feel we're very talented. Both the players and coaches have to adjust to each other."

Demetris Montgomery has come a long way from last year. He has improved dramatically. "The win over Florida Southern was big and gave our team a big boost. The team has to develop chemistry, but the team is deeper than last year," says coach Price.

The men have already competed against American Eagle, Miami AAU, Florida Southern, and Florida Tech. The Pepsi Invitational, hosted by Lynn, will bring in teams from Bentley, Bowie State, and St. Anselm's to compete January 5-6, 1996.
Lynn Sets For New Women's Volleyball Team

By: Velda Albuquerque
Editor-In-Chief

Starting Fall 1996, Lynn University will have its first women's volleyball team. Richard Cote, coach for the Men's American Volleyball team, will train the Lynn's Women Volleyball.

Cote has been a volleyball player since the age of 12. Originally from New England, he went to Boston College for a double major in Political Science and Psychology while playing volleyball. Following, he went to Europe on a Full-Bright Scholarship that allowed him to play volleyball for three years while studying International Business, Marketing and Sports Science throughout Europe. Back in the United States, he worked for Nike for a number of years as a marketing manager. In the U.S., Cote played for the Men's National Volleyball Team for three years, and then became coach for the same. Today, he still coaches them from time to time, video scouting for new potential players.

Lynn felt a need for a Women's Volleyball team, so Dick Young, Athletic's Director, sat with coach Cote, and started talking about getting a women's volleyball team started at Lynn. Fall 1996 was picked as the starting semester, and students interested in trying out for the team started practicing.

The volleyball court will be a major project for the Spring. The de Hoernle Sports and Cultural Center's basketball court will be adapted to become a volleyball court as well. The construction involved will take place during the beginning of the Spring semester, and is expected to be completed by the end of the basketball season.

The students interested have been practicing in the Community Center in Deerfield Beach, every Tuesday through Thursday, from 3pm to 5:30pm, until the court is ready in the Spring. Then all the practices will be held in the gym. "For the next semester we are hoping to get a larger group of existing students here at Lynn, and some athletes who are playing other sports, to join the practices," stated coach Cote.

The interest group forming the team will be playing other Universities in the Spring. For the Fall, with a defined and ready to go team, Lynn will be facing 20 to 26 matches during its first volleyball season. The season begins on the first week of September, and ends in the first week of December. The team will be back on training in August to prepare for the season. When asked about a possible men's volleyball team, coach Cote answered, "The University is in a position where they are committed to developing women's athletics first, for the next several years, then perhaps after that. Men's volleyball would be a low priority, as much as I would love to see it." In collegiate level NCAA sports, men require more money, time and effort, therefore women's athletics has been receiving more focus from colleges and universities.

Coach Cote welcomes all students interested in trying out for the women's volleyball team to join the practices. He is looking forward to the Spring semester, while searching for students around the United States and overseas as well.

Very motivated with this challenge, coach Cote doesn't think about going back to playing. "No, not at this stage. To me coaching is far more interesting than playing. There is so much teaching involved, between teaching and motivation; and watching athletes develop is far more rewarding than playing," said coach Cote.

Be prepared, because in the Fall of 1996, the Knights will be spiking!!!

Multicultural Corner

This month's Multicultural Corner features students from the Lynn University English Language Center, Emmanuelle Philibert (Intensive English Studies), and Marisa Chauvet (International Diploma Program).

Emmanuelle Philibert comes from Monaco, a principality on the Mediterranean coast, bordering the South East of France. (Monaco is ruled by kingship, Prince Rainier).

It has its own laws, taxes and its native language is French. It is a beautiful place with special sites to visit, such as: The Palace, the Monaco Casino, the Jacques Cousteau Museum and Couture Row, to name just a few.

Favorite foods of this region are, yam, rice, beans with sauce, grillot, banana pese and mais moulu. The national sport is soccer. Younger children enjoy marbles, later they are taught basketball, and volleyball in school.

Maris enjoys the art of dance. She began dance instruction at the age of five, training in ballet and jazz, and has been teaching both for three years in Haiti. Her future goals are to work in the family business or own a hotel.

Marisa Chauvet (IDP) comes from Port-Au-Prince, Haiti, located in the West Indies, which occupies the western part of the island, Hispaniola. Native languages of the country are Creole and French. Ninety percent of the population speaks Creole, and ten percent speak French.

Special sites to visit are, Citadelle and Sans Souci located in Cape Haitian, the northern part of the island. Citadelle is a monument to the memory of Henri Christophe, a military and political leader (1767-1820), who fought for Haitian independence. Sans Souci was his palace.

Lynn Admissions Have Their Own Ambassadors
By: Caroline Bowers
Staff Writer

Lynn Student Admissions Ambassadors (L.S.A.A.) are the new student representatives of Lynn University’s Admissions Department. Toni Tomassi is the advisor of this new organization and has prepared many activities for the six representatives to accomplish. Some activities include, giving tours to perspective students and their families, giving local high schools Lynn University information, and helping out with many other aspects in Admissions.

The L.S.A.A. representatives are Caroline Bowers, Darcy Facenda, Chad Peltz, Dennis Blaszko, Tony Hamner, and Erin McDermott. These students were selected by the Admissions office to start the new organization. Next semester the Admissions office is looking for more students to join this prestigious organization. If anyone is interested in joining, stop by admissions and ask for Toni Tomassi or call her at (407) 994-0770 extension 157.

Two Student Organizations Build Relations While Having Fun
By: Daniel Jerusalmy

On October 24, two of Lynn University’s groups joined forces and put together one of the nicest programs of the semester.

The Hillel and the Newman clubs went bowling together. Twenty students representing both groups shared four lanes and bowled for over two hours. The school provided a van and the necessary finances for this event. At the end, there were no winners or losers, but twenty happy people who had an amazing time. It was such a successful program that we decided to do this again in a near future.

In times where war, crime and violence are frequently the main focus in the news, it is nice to show the world that different groups can and should be working together. We, at Lynn University, are doing just that.

Computer Viruses Take Over Lynn
By: Velda Albuquerque
Editor In Chief

Lynn University has an Information Service Department which consists of three computer analysts that supervise all computers on campus. “We support the campus computer wise,” points out Ron Jones, MIS-Computer Systems Analyst. They are responsible for 24 computers in the Ritter building, 15 in the Library lab, and the ones scattered throughout the campus.

“What we have been finding for the last year, and it keeps getting worse, are viruses on computers,” says Jones. As an International University, with a diversified student body from all parts of the world, Lynn’s computers have been exposed to a variety of viruses. “We have been spending probably 60 to 70% of our time right now, trying to get viruses off computers,” states Jones.

Only this week two students already stopped by the I.S. office for help because they had viruses in their computers which wiped out their entire data. There is an antivirus computer located in the Library building, that is accessible to clean diskettes, check them for viruses, and clean them off if they have them. Just because you put your diskette through the scanner, it doesn’t mean you don’t have a virus in the diskette. The virus may come up later, or a particular software can’t find it at that moment. New viruses show up every day, so the best that can be done is trying to update the anti-virus programs always.

If the people using the computers would check them prior to loading them to the computer, this problem wouldn’t have reached such proportions. “If people paid attention in front of their computers, and followed the screen; if it said it had a virus, it asks you to remove it or not. Right now the computer labs are coming up slow. People are complaining it takes long to start the computers. It is taking that long now because our system is checking for thousands and thousands of viruses,” explains Jones.

Windows 95 will not be placed in the computers for now. “It is not proving itself.

There are still a lot of problems with it. People see on television and news what they want to see, they don’t look behind the picture,” explains Jones. “If we can get the campus cleaned up, 100% clean, we can probably cut back up the checking and speed the machines up.”

For the Spring more computers are expected for the labs. I.S. suggests for students to use separate diskettes for their personal computers and the computer labs to avoid viruses, if they don’t use the anti-virus computer. To check the computer takes only a few minutes and saves a lot of problems. Also, if you have a computer at home, they suggest you do a ‘grandfather backup’ of your complete system and set it aside. Every month or so you do a system change back up that backs up everything that has been changed. It rotates it on a regular basis and you are on the safe side in case a virus wipes out your data.

“Students need to start paying attention. The computers will control the world. Now, you either do like you are doing right now, let the computers control you or you can control the computer. They really need to pay more attention and quit sharing diskettes,” states Jones.

Election Update

As the primaries are growing closer, the candidates are out campaigning in full force. As for President Bill Clinton, it is apparent that he needs to take action in order to get back into the good graces of the American people. Perhaps the President and his advisers feel that his November 27th televised address concerning the White House’s decision to send troops to stop the fighting in Bosnia will boost his popularity.

As for Senator Robert Dole, the front-runner for the Republican ticket, he is doing quite well. A main concern, however, is the Senator’s age. Being sixty-two, his age does not make Dole appear youthful, but a plus exhibiting a sign of experience and wisdom. It’s important to keep in mind the long-term health of a President. For example, former President Ronald Reagan, during his second term, was already showing early symptoms of Alzheimer’s Disease before leaving office.

If these two shall run against each other in ’96 then it will be a tough battle. The young against the old; the teacher takes on the student. At least that’s how many American’s see it.
Hillel Hosts Memorial For Rabin
By: Caroline Bowers

On November 9, 1995 our Hillel Club put together a ceremony to honor Prime Minister Yitzhac Rabin. The ceremony was very beautiful and many attended the event. It took place on the patio of the Lynn Student Center. Many students spoke at the event to share their love and honor for the Prime Minister.

Daniel Jerusalmi, President of the Hillel Club, spoke about the life of Yitzhac Rabin. "Yitzhac Rabin was the first Prime Minister born in Israel. March 1, 1922 marked the birth date of this remarkable person who has helped Israel reach its independence in 1948 and later become one of the most developed nations in this world," said Jerusalmi.

Jerusalmi had the privilege to attend two conferences in which Yitzhac Rabin was the featured speaker. Two of Rabin's main concerns had always been the young generation and the future of Israel. Now that he has passed on, everyone must follow his philosophy and continue to work towards peace among all people. "Prime Minister Rabin, believed in peace very strongly, he was willing to give his own life so that Israel could live in peace.

Consul General of Israel Ruharria Hermon, who worked very close with the Prime Minister spoke and told us her experiences with Rabin. During the ceremony the people who attended all lit candles in memory of the Prime Minister. After a prayer was said they all were put on the candles on a tray which illuminated the area even during the day. Although this was a time of sadness, the ceremony was important, influential and impactful.

Jumping Out Of A Plane Serves As A Great Release For Lynn University
By: Audrey M. Malin

The usual things a college student might do on a Sunday afternoon would consist of sleeping in, going to the beach, or cheering on their favorite football team in the NFL. Well, not one particular group of L.U. students we saw racing out of the parking lot early one Sunday in late October. Where were they going? This group of students drove straight to Air Adventures to experience a day of skydiving.

Air Adventures is located in Clewiston, Florida, off the coast of Lake Okeechobee. What you do is, call ahead, show up and attend a short video/instruction seminar, and you're off - flying high! How high? These students dove at approximately 12,572 feet. When asked why anyone would take a risk that is known to be the fourth deadliest job in the world, Greg Belkin responds "I wanted to feel the rush again, of my body moving at 127 miles an hour; it's cool." Greg has jumped in the past, but not everyone who jumped that day has. These who did not, felt reassured to find that they each dove with two chutes, as well as being hooked to a professional diver. They had a blast. Many members of Theta Xi Fraternity jumped together and took brotherhood to a 'higher level.' The greatest tip of advice these divers had for anyone interested is, just relax and enjoy the ride!

But, students weren't the only members from Lynn who took the plunge with Air Adventures. John Ness, Coordinator of Greek Life, jumped with his roommate and four of their friends on December 2. When asked about the jump Ness ecstatically replied, "The free fall was an incredible feeling and we didn't want the jump to end. Being able to jump with my roommates and friends meant a lot ... I need to go back and do it again real soon."

The two fraternities are in the process of planning a Greek Jump in late January or early February.

Too Many False Alarms!
By: Nicole DiNapoli
News Editor

On November 7th, around 10PM, the de Hoernle fire alarm was purposely set off. Since there was a staff meeting scheduled on that Tuesday, the Residence Life staff members were able to handle the problem. This had become a serious situation since it was the third false alarm in one month.

When the alarm went off on the second floor of the de Hoernle D-Wing, 20 to 25 gallons of water were released. The de Hoernle Residence Director Matt Webb and the Residence Assistant Chris Debs were responsible for the care and safety of the students and had to make sure that all the men were out of the building. Stacy Gray, the Residence Hall Director of Wixted was at the scene and said, "It was fortunate that all of us were on campus to help out when the incident occurred, or things wouldn't have gone so smoothly."

Webb and Debs immediately noticed that there was no fire so they quickly called the Boca Raton Fire Department who gave them permission for the alarm and sprinkler system to be turned off.

When the Fire Department arrived, it was discovered that a paper like article was purposely put under the heat sensor to set off the sprinklers. While the Fire Department investigated the dorm for further clues, students were kept outside for more than two hours. The students were clearly annoyed because this was the second false alarm in two days. The day before left inches of unwanted water soaking rugs and creating a mess.

Lieutenant Bruce Angrier, who was also at the scene the night of November 7th, said that the matter is being investigated by the Boca Raton Police Department, fire department and Lynn Administration. There is a list of suspects, but because the case is in process of a full investigation Lieutenant Angrier couldn't give out any further information.

When asked what he thought of the matter, Webb responded by saying, "I hope they find the person responsible and close the matter. This is a felony in the eyes of the law, so this person could be charged and could possibly go to prison - which is sad." This is Webb's first job as an R.D. and when asked how he likes his position, Webb responded, "It's been pretty demanding - I hope this is the last time that this type of prank will occur."

The Pulse
Theresa Xi Initiates Again And Finishes Another Successful Semester

By: Michael Katzenbach
Contributing Writer

On November 11, Theta Xi initiated their associate members. Last year, the founding associate members got initiated here at Lynn University, but this year the associate members traveled to Florida Institute of Technology's chapter for their initiation. Everybody, including brothers, went to the initiation and took their own cars. The drive itself took about three hours depending on how fast one drove. Once everyone got there, we all got dressed for the ceremony because of the fact that it was too long of a drive to sit in a car wearing suits and ties. The initiation ceremony went extremely well and afterwards, the F.I.T. brothers took a group photo of all brothers in attendance. Finally, towards the early hours of the morning, everybody split up and some went home and some decided to stay at F.I.T. Theta Xi pulled in 11 associate members that night to get initiated.

Initiation of their first associate member class ended a very successful and productive semester for the brotherhood of Theta Xi. The brothers accomplished many things as they continue to strengthen and build their Fraternity such as: boasting the highest Greek grades, winning all the events during Game Show Week, winning the comedy portion of the LU Talent Show, gaining more than half of the executive board positions on the Greek Council, executing an entertaining halloween social at Nipper's, jumping out of a plane together with Air Adventures and sending the highest attendance to the Greek Leadership Day at Barry University. The brothers of Theta Xi continue to prove their need and presence at Lynn in all that they do and accomplish. The brotherhood looks forward to their chartering next semester and plans to remain a driving force in the LU community and Greek System.

R.A. Profile:
J.J. & Gina
Up Close

By: Pauline De La Peza
Staff Writer

R.A.'s are interesting students that have a little more to them than at times are willing to admit. Taking an up close look at R.A.'s can be a rather interesting experience. JuJuan Blunt, a 22 year old second semester junior, and a returning R.A., is one with many different views. J.J. is an R.A. for the first floor of Lynn, that comes from Portsmouth, Virginia.

According to J.J., he first became interested in becoming an R.A. because his sister was a great influence, being that she was an R.A. the year before. J.J. also took into consideration the fact that along with the responsibility came many great benefits. He also mentioned, "I felt that the opportunities were good, I would get to know more people, and I am an easy going guy, so I would be good for the job." Being an R.A. means getting involved with many activities and involves a great deal. The one thing that J.J. feels he has benefitted from the most from being an R.A. is the opportunity to work together with people from all over the world. He really enjoys getting to know people and he appreciates the chance to get to work with a variety of individuals.

J.J.'s fun, easy going, and great attitude are characteristics that will continue to be a great influence on his residents and those that come into contact with him.

Gina Ottomanelli is a Junior and also a returning R.A. who comes to us from Clearwater, Florida. She is 21 years old and is majoring in fashion. Gina is another very interesting R.A. to get to know, and she is responsible for the 20s wing of Wixted Hall.

She is a very active and well rounded student; not only is she an R.A. but also, a cheerleader, which gives her that little extra school spirit that helps with her job. Gina enjoys getting to know others, as well as working with other people. The aspect of being an R.A. that really keeps her going is the fact that, "Being an R.A. is in a sense like a family within itself," Ottomanelli said.

Her tremendous desire to bring happiness to her residents is perhaps the most essential aspect which serves as the one main motivation. Her positive outlook, spunk, and motivation is what keeps her residents motivated and involved. Gina proved that she is an excellent role model and R.A. when she received the Outstanding R.A. Program Award last year at the end of the year awards reception.

AHHHH Finals Exams!!

By: Caroline Bowers
Staff Writer

Well everyone it is that time when everyone is stressing out over final exams. Exams are in a few days and I am sure many students are going to be cramming. Stressing over exams is not too healthy, so here are some ideas to help you overcome this overwhelming feeling you are experiencing:

1) Study for all the toughest subjects first.
2) Budget your time. Make a schedule so you can see how your study time will be used.
3) Take brakes. Your brain needs a brake every once and a while.
4) Do not go out the night before your exams.
5) Eat. Food gives energy.
6) Go to your teachers if help is needed with something. Do not go the day before your exams with tons of questions.
7) Have study groups. It helps when to have others to help if you get stuck.
8) Exercise to help relieve tension.
9) Scream!!!
10) Throw your hands up and say OH WELL!

Good luck to all during exams and have a good winter break!
The Turkey Trail Trot runners leave the finish line. The event raised over $4,000 for two different causes.

The Third Annual Turkey Trail Trot Raises $4,000

By: Pauline De La Peza
Staff Writer

On November 14, 1995 Lynn University held the third annual Turkey Trail Trot, thanks to the small group communication class. The Turkey Trail Trot is a 5K fun run/walk that is put on by a small class of usually about fifteen people to accomplish various goals. Of these goals to reach, there are a few that are the most important. Primarily, the Turkey Trail Trot is an event that helps the individuals in the class develop the ability to work closely together as a team. Yet, the biggest goal to reach was to raise money. Each year a charity is chosen, and all the money that is raised is given to the charity as a contribution from the class and from the University.

This year the 5K run/walk went as scheduled, and was extremely successful, with over 350 registered, and over 150 participants on race day!

The Third Annual Trot was able to raise over $4,000! After expenditures, the funds were able to be broken down. This year the small group communications class choose to donate funds to two charities: The Haven, and WLYN. The Haven will be receiving over $2,000 and WLYN will be receiving about $700. In all, the Third Annual Turkey Trail Trot was an outstanding event with an even greater outcome. Thus, the Trot ran rather smoothly thanks to the great support from all those here at Lynn University, and from all those in the community that participated.

College Is Not A Spectator Sport:
Spring of '96

By: Claribel Corona
Lifestyles Editor

It's hard to believe that 1995 is almost gone and the fall semester has come to a close. But in reality, there's only a few weeks left before the holiday break. While people are thinking about finishing up classes and going back home, in some cases, "not much thought is being put into next semester," as said by Angela Obie (Trinity first floor R.A., finishing up her Office of Residence Life surveys). Many people have not pre-registered for the Spring semester due to uncertainties of their return. If you have not pre-registered and do not plan to before the semester's over you might just end up with classes that you may not want or need. Keep in mind that the following classes are full:

* Anatomy
* Photography
* Computer sections are closed (only 2 are open)
* Most English classes are full (especially English 102)
* Front Office Operations
* Hospitality
* Customer Service

Classes are filling up quickly, so get out there and register! (The Registrar's Office is waiting)

As far as Spring activities and events sponsored by Student Activities, these are some of the things on the agenda:

* Spring Break in JAMAICA (Montego Bay)
  It's a complete package including round trip airfare, hotel accommodations, and unlimited food and drinks. See John Ness for details.

* In January there will be a Gambling Week which will include: Night At The Races, A Discovery Cruise, and a Casino Night.
  * On January 30th the 2nd floor of Student Center will become an open bar for Seniors. This will be the "Senior '96 Days To Graduation" theme day. Special yearbook sales will be offered, a senior raffle for a color TV, and a senior class poll will be completed.
  * In March our annual "International Week" will take place. (the events have not yet been finalized).
  * In April- Spring Fling will open up with "SHUT UP AND DANCE" which will be sponsored by the Greeks. All organizations compete against each other for prizes in a dance/lip synch competition. There will also be L.U. King & Queen elections. That week will continue with The Suitcase Dance, the R.A. Challenge, and ending with a BBQ at the pool.
  * The year will end with the Leadership and Awards Reception in late April.
   Before this Fall semester ends, don't forget to register! Have a great holiday, enjoy your break and be safe.

Is Fun On Your List? Then Don't Miss The KOR Holiday Gala

By: Audrey Malin
Staff Writer

Have you made your list, and have you checked it twice? Is fun on your list? If so, you need to check out the Holiday Gala, one of the biggest events that will take place at Lynn University this year. This semi-formal event is sponsored by the Knights of the Roundtable, and takes place on December 9, 1995 at 8 PM.

The night will begin with a limousine escort to the Boca Embassy Suites hotel. Upon arriving, you will receive a lavish dinner, followed by dancing to the hottest tunes by an excellent DJ. There will also be a cash bar. This event allows you to bring your semester to a close, while sharing a special holiday spirit with your friends. Don't miss out on this special evening. Tickets are $20 for one, or $30 for two. These can be purchased from any KOR member. Enjoy the Holiday Gala and a night out in Boca!
Student Opinion Poll

Christian Meier
Freshman - Communications
"I would change the parking lot regulation. I would have it so that freshmen and sophomores could park anywhere."

Lee Chatman
Senior - History
"It would be the attitudes of the students. More for a learning environment, for expansion and conversation."

If You Could Change Anything About Our Campus What Would It Be?

Debora Williams
Junior - Sports and Recreation
"I would change the curfew time. Instead of having it until 1am on weekdays, I would change it to 3am for every day. Also, the fire alarm doors should be turned on later. We should have more security, who should come faster to check when the alarms go off. The alarm takes forever to be turned off, and no one shows up."

Gene Hackman, all do a superb acting job in this movie. Although this will probably not be another Pulp Fiction for Travolta, his character especially was the major attraction of the movie. I would recommend that whenever you are in the mood for a good laugh, get yourself to the movie theater and see this movie.

Ace Ventura: When Nature Calls

"Ace Ventura: When Nature Calls," stars everyone's favorite funny man, Jim Carrey. In the sequel, Ace Ventura, our great pet detective is again trying to find a lost animal. However, this time the rare creature belongs to a jungle tribe. While Ventura is searching the jungle for the animal he once again finds himself in bizarre, crazy situations.

As I expected, the sequel has the same story line and plot as the original, but that doesn't mean the movie is not worth seeing. Jim Carrey portrays Ace Ventura as someone who is completely out of control, just like his hair. In fact, the detective's hair is styled higher than in the last movie. His
