Jeff Healey Band Performs Live At Lynn

By: Nicole DiNapoli

How often has Lynn seen a live band perform on the steps of the Schmidt Building? Never, until this year! Everyone was skeptical and students didn't know what to expect. However, it turned out that the Jeff Healey Concert held on March 8th was the biggest and most successful student activities event Lynn has ever seen.

Kris Burgers and John Ness had been working on the project of getting a well-known band to perform at Lynn for nearly two years. Then, during Spring Break, Student Activities solidified the contract with the Jeff Healey Band. The only obstacle Student Activities faced was publicity in only one week prior to the concert. The publicity campaign, the biggest ever for Lynn, turned out to be very creative and a great success. It was estimated that over 300 students, faculty and staff attended the concert.

At around 7:00 pm the night of the show, the lights came on and the band took the stage. The crowd was roaring and ready to go. Though the band's music was not to everyone's liking, students seemed interested to see what was going to happen. Even though students were standing rather than sitting in the provided chairs, the crowd was supportive and enjoyed the show.

Junior Gina Ottomanelli said the concert was "by far the most ground breaking and exciting program at Lynn to date. The publicity and student reception was unbelievable. This program established a tradition at Lynn where students enjoy a concert and want to be part of it. This concert was good for student morale."

Debs And Malin Named LU King And Queen

By: Kristina Lemmon
News Editor

This year the Greek Council introduced a new event to Lynn University; a campus-wide election for the LU King and Queen.

On April 4, all interested and nominated candidates turned in photos of themselves in hope of being crowned king or queen of Lynn. During Spring Fling week, all Lynn students had the opportunity to cast their votes for their favorite candidates through money donations. Buckets showcasing all the candidate's photos were on display during lunches and money (votes) were placed in the containers to help each student win the 'royalty race.'

The candidate's for LU King were: Seth Peal, Dennis Blaszko, Chris Debs and Matt Wess. The candidate's for LU Queen were: Alyson Link, Audrey Malin and Claribel Corona. The entire election and event was sponsored and run by the Greek Council. The King and Queen election raised over $150 which was donated to a local organization to help benefit 'victims of domestic violence' in the Boca Raton area. The Greeks and candidate's both agreed that this 'friendly competition' was a great incentive for raising money for charity. Tony Hamner, Greek Council president and co-chairperson of the election said, "the Greeks believed that this would be a great philanthropy event and we were excited to see so much enthusiasm and excitement for all the candidates."

The final tabulations were calculated and the king and queen were crowned at the conclusion of the Suitcase Dance. The 1996 Lynn University King and Queen are: Chris Debs and Audrey Malin. They will enjoy being LU royalty for the next year.

What's In Store For Some Of Lynn's Seniors?

By: Nicole DiNapoli

In less than two weeks, L.U.'s Class of 1996 will walking down the graduation aisle and starting a new chapter in their lives. Some seniors, like Chad Peltz and Elba Ronda, will be continuing on to graduate school, while others like Heather Cohen will be heading out into the work world. Then there are those like Anton Pastuszak who are taking their future one day at a time.

Chad Peltz, 24, a founding father of Theta Xi Fraternity, a resident assistant and a Presidential Honors student is continuing his education by coming back to Lynn for a Master's degree in Sports Recreation Management. The Senior said his primary goals for the moment are to get into the graduates program, then earn his Master's degree and taking his degree to work in sports administration at a college. Peltz also added, "I also want to own my own gym." Though Chad Peltz has a lot of work a head of him, we all know that he is the type of person that will reach his goals.

Elba Ronda, 22, is an accounting major and been involved as a member of KOR and the Cheerleading Squad. Ronda is planning to reside in Boca Raton after graduation and also obtain a Master's degree in Accounting or Finance. She is planning on attending Florida Atlantic University in hopes of completing her graduate program in a year and a half. Along with her studies, Ronda is also going to work. "If I am down here, I am going to need money to support myself. I have been applying for jobs with financial and accounting firms," said Ronda. When asked what her goals in life are right now she said, "My goal is to graduate from FAU in 1998, take my CPA, but right now, I am awaiting my test results to get into the graduate program at FAU." It appears that Elba Ronda's life is on hold for the moment, but, her plan seem to be going quite well and we all know that Elba passed her test with flying colors.

Heather Cohen, 23, will also be graduating with a Hospitality degree. She was very involved at Lynn and held many leadership positions in KOR, KLAS, SGA, and CAB. At the moment, Cohen is working at the hotel, Double Tree Suites in Boca Raton where they offered her a full time job. She started working at Double Tree back in October of 1995 as her internship. Putting in long hours and hard work got Cohen promoted to Front Desk Supervisor and a full-time job after graduation from Lynn.

Anton Pastuszak, 23, Student Government President, has a completely different outlook on his graduation. When asked what his plans were, Pastuszak honestly stated, "I have no idea what I am going to do, but the coming rains will bring a flood, and one day, I will eventually be washed into the ocean. Maybe I'll ride a bike and raise and train pet ants." Pastuszak said he just wants to enjoy the basics of life. "Wherever life takes me, so be it. Seriously, though, I want to find the meaning of life!" admitted Pastuszak. Well wherever that may be Anton, Good luck. We hope you find what you are searching for, as for all our graduates. All the best to Lynn's Class of 1996!

Spring Break In Jamaica - 'No Problem' For 18 LU Students

By: Nate Flynn
Staff Writer

On February 24, 18 Lynn University students and Student Activities Coordinator John Ness packed their spring break bags and boarded a plane to Montego Bay, Jamaica. The cost of their all-inclusive vacation was $699. This price included, airfare, hotel, transfers, a variety of watersports, and all the food and drinks they could want.

The Lynn group stayed at the Casa Blanca Beach Club, and all of the rooms had a spectacular ocean-front views. The students could not have asked for better weather: with it in the 90's and sunny everyday. The group took a one-day excursion to Negril, one of the most notable cities in Jamaica. The 'crew' enjoyed a most interesting bus ride, a fun-filled day on the famous seven-mile beach and many stories to remember from the experience.

Throughout the week, most of the students lounged at the beach and worked on their tans. Many took advantage of the crystal blue water and dove, snorkeled, swam, and enjoyed wave running, boating and water skiing. After the sun went down, you could find the students hanging out at such places as, Margarettaville, Tino's, and Sir Winston's. John Ness, organizer of the Jamaica trip, summed up the whole trip by saying, "I had a great time organizing and executing this trip. The group of students who went along incredibly well, and thoroughly enjoyed themselves. Spring Break in Montego Bay proved to be a huge success!"

Sophomore Tony Hamner said, "Being there with people I knew, all the free beverages, and that waterslide at Margarettaville was unforgettable." Senior Dennis Blaszko summed it up best by saying, "Throughout all the sun and fun in Jamaica, and all the different people we shared it with, I can say that one thing will always be remembered. It wasn't all the partying we did, but rather the friends we made and the memories we will always cherish that made this trip an adventure."
A 'Greek' Year In Review

By: Tony Hamner
Contributing Writer

What a year it has been! The end of the semester has arrived, and everybody is ready to go home, but it is not fully over for the fraternities at L.U. We have had one successful chartering when Pi Lambda Phi received their charter in March, and Theta Xi received their charter at their banquet this past weekend. Both fraternities are excited that they have received their charters and the Greek Council congratulates them both on this tremendous feat. This year 15 LU Greeks founded the Omicron Rho Chapter of the National Order Of Omega Greek Leadership Society. This distinctive Greek honor represents Greeks who excel in the areas of scholarship, leadership, involvement and dedication. Lynn University is the first Greek System to be approved as an Order chapter in only one semester. The LU Greek System was recognized nationally as they received the Programming of the Year Award from the SEIFC (Southeastern Interfraternity Council) for last year's Pedro Zamora Greek AIDS lecture. This award is great recognition for our Greek System and our school. Our Greek System beat out schools in the SEIFC including: FL, NC, SC, GA, VA, WA, LA, TN, MS, and KY. Locally, our Greek System was recognized for their organization and hosting the first annual South Florida Greek Games at Lynn. The fraternities agreed to host the games again next year and invite Greeks from the University of Miami and FAU. Also, the fraternities have adopted highways near the university, showing that they enjoy helping the Boca community. Our Greeks ended a great year with the first LU King and Queen election. They raised almost $200 which was donated to the victims of domestic violence in the Boca area and crowned Audrey Malin and Chris Debs LU royalty. The Greek System has remained involved with many activities and events throughout this year at Lynn; some of their highlights include: helping with Alcohol Awareness Week by hosting their annual Mocktail Contest, holding the second annual Fraternity Football Challenge this spring with Theta Xi winning the event for the second year in a row, assisting the SGA with the Easter Egg Hunt for local orphans, supported AIDS Awareness Day and Month with KOR in conducting a red ribbon campaign and AIDS panel discussion, assisting residence life with freshmen check in, participating in the Library Dedication and remaining visible and active in almost all of the organizations, programs and events of the Student Activities office this year. The new Greek Council took over last January and they have proven themselves with their commitment, involvement and dedication to Lynn. Our Greeks plan to remain a driving force within the LU student body and hope to plan and execute even more events and activities next year.

The Greek Council thanks all who have contributed and helped throughout the past year and wishes everyone best of luck on finals and a great and relaxing summer break!

Summer Movies Begin

With An Executive Decision

By: Pauline De La Peza

Summer has arrived and many movie-goers know what that means -- great entertainment!

Summer movie madness has begun and all flags are down. Executive Decision, a big hit for the summer of 1996, stars Steven Segal, Kurt Russell, John Leguizamo and the leading woman, Holly Berry.

The plot is outstanding and even though the action keeps you on the edge, it is not just scene on scene of senseless violence. The movie has a calculated strategy. Siskel and Ebert may or may not give it a thumbs up, but I recommend it is a must-see movie.

Theta Xi Ends Year With Many Victories

By: Mike Katzenbach
Contributing Writer

The brothers of Theta Xi Fraternity at Lynn have recently experienced many great successes and victories to end another school year on a positive note. Theta Xi defeated Pi Lambda Phi 19-18 during the annual Fraternity Football Challenge game held at the closing of Families Weekend at L.U. Many parents, friends, students, faculty and staff turned out at the game to witness the annual competition to see who would win the empty spot on the coveted FFC plaque. Theta Xi received this honor for the second consecutive year.

Theta Xi congratulates brother Dave Goldstein on officially becoming a brother of the fraternity on April 11. Goldstein missed the brother initiation last semester due to a prior commitment and finally received full brotherhood rights and membership this semester.

Finally, the brothers of Theta Xi Colony are now officially a nationally chartered Chapter of the National Fraternity of Theta Xi! The brothers received their charter during their chartering formal banquet held at the Boca Raton Holiday Inn on April 20. This Spring Formal/Founder's Day Celebration culminated the year of work, dedication, energy and effort that the entire group accomplished in order to receive their charter. As the newest and now 2nd official 'chapter' at Lynn University, Theta Xi are a dedicated and motivated group of leaders who will continue to ensure quality and success to the LU Greek System. Theta Xi ended this year with many outstanding laurels and look forward to the future and more successes and accomplishments at Lynn.

LYNN UNIVERSITY
Annual Spring Fling Draws Large Crowds

By: Caroline Bowers Staff Writer

"Spring Fling was a blast! I wish our school had more weekends like this one," said Darcy Facenda, a sophomore at Lynn. The Spring Fling weekend of April 11-14 was filled with many entertaining and fun activities and events to please the tastes of all LU students.

Spring Fling kick-off featured the return of Fun Flicks. Students accepted the opportunity to make MTV-like music videos with their friends and kept video tapes of their performances to share with others. Hundreds of students and staff enjoyed themselves as they created some video masterpieces.

Friday of Spring Fling week brought the 2nd Annual Suitcase Dance to Lynn. Students arrived at the SC Auditorium at 9:00 PM in the hopes that they would be selected to win an allexpense paid trip for two to Nassau, Bahamas. Every half hour, John Ness and Kris Burgers selected two lucky names to be placed in the semi-final round for the trip. Music, food, drinks, dancing, conversation and anxiety proved to be entertaining between the half hour announcements. At midnight, Angela Obie was selected as the winner of the Suitcase Dance. Obie and Gina Ottomanelli spent a relaxing weekend in Nassau during the weekend of April 20. The LU King and Queen were also crowned at the conclusion of the Suitcase Dance (See story on page 1)

Saturday proved to be the perfect day for the sixth annual R.A. Challenge. Nine teams 'accepted the challenge' and competed for the coveted R.A. Challenge championship. Chad Peltz and the resident assistants lead the many crazy and enjoyable sporting events that resulted in the soccer team winning the overall challenge. "I had a lot of fun even though I am not the typical sports-goer type; but the R.A. Challenge encouraged me to become the first professional slip-n-slider," admitted freshman Nicki Dana.

The weekend concluded with the first RHA/SAO sponsored BBQ and Carnival. Various games and rides such as: bungee run, human bowling, bounce boxing, Airball and the SGA jello-wrestling proved to be huge successes for all the students in attendance. Spring Fling helped to relieve some of the upcoming tension and stress that comes with finals and leaving LU for the summer.

Residence Life Review: A Year Of Change

By: Pauline De La Peza Staff Writer

Students are getting ready to pack up, ship out and call it another year. There were many changes this year in Residence Life and people have views about what residence life is all about. Since the entire Residence Life Staff was new, there were various adjustments the staff had to make. Joy Porter, a senior, said, "The new staff seemed fair, understanding and I even had a better idea of who my hall director actually was." She also said her R.A. was always there. "Bridgette is currently my R.A. and she is tremendous in the sense that I feel that I can go to her anytime with anything and she will be there."

DeHoernle R.A., Chris Debs believes that one of the biggest steps the staff have taken this year is that the hall directors this year get more involved with the lives of the students. However, Debs feels strongly that the R.A. stipend should not be pulled from the R.A.s. There is talk of pulling the R.A. stipends which they receive bi-weekly, which would mean no more paychecks. "R.A.'s should be given single rooms, or should be able to keep there stipend (salary)," said Debs.

Lauren Martiny, now an off-campus senior, expressed her views based on what she knows about the Residence Life Staff from her opinions of last year versus this year. Martiny said, "The whole set up of the staff is organized very well, yet, there is one thing that I feel would make an R.A. more approachable: I feel that R.A.'s do a great job, yet they need to be able to have more privacy; in turn, they should have individual rooms."

American College Dublin Introduces New Dean And Student Newspaper

By: Sharika Hanna-Emery
Contributing Writer

Chris Sarafian was transferred to Dublin Ireland in January where he now resides permanently. At Lynn University, Sarafian was a professor in the Hospitality Department. He now works at the American College where he holds the new title of Dean of Students. He has experienced many different changes in his recent move to Ireland. He feels that the form of interaction with students is very different than what he had experienced at Lynn.

In his new position, he is now responsible for all disciplinary actions; which tends to be the least pleasurable for him in becoming the rules enforcer. His first month was slightly difficult because he did not know any of the students at American College like he did at Lynn. Therefore, he has been making sure he gets to know them all personally. Even though he is no longer a professor, he still enjoys interaction with students. He appreciates hearing the positives and the negatives from the student body. Presently, he is in charge of residence life, security and student activities in Dublin. He now carries a beeper and is on-call 24 hours in case of any student emergencies. He does admit that he misses his students and classes from Lynn; especially the fun of giving exams and everything that goes along with teaching. He regrets that he won’t be able to attend this year’s commencement ceremony to see his prior students graduate. He wishes them all the best of luck for a successful future.

Dean Sarafian feels that Ireland is very misinterpreted by some Americans. Before moving to Dublin, many people asked him why he would move to Ireland. He feels that the misconceptions of how some people view Ireland are wrong; such as: Ireland is always ‘behind the times,’ and it’s always dark, rainy and gloomy in Ireland. He believes that studying in Dublin is an excellent opportunity for Lynn students and a great chance for them to experience a culture that is well-rounded in the arts, music, history, architecture, decor and fashion. He strongly feels that Lynn students need to take advantage of this college city and that it will prove to be an overall opportunity of a lifetime. Sarafian has heard from students that the nightlife and activities and events in and around Dublin are just as exciting and enjoyable and even more so than that in America.

Dean Sarafian continues to enjoy his new position, home and life in Dublin and hopes to improve the lives of many students who are studying in Ireland. He never knows what might happen next. He was surprised a few weeks ago when he was shopping in a convenience store and bumped into singer Michael Bolton.

Dean Sarafian is not the only person making changes at the American College Dublin. A motivated group of students will launch a new student newspaper on campus. ‘Wilde Times’, named after the famous dramatist, poet and writer, Oscar Wilde, will be printed for the first time this month in Dublin and will cover articles on interesting topics such as: sports, fashion, news, travel, health, politics, student life and more. The student-run newspaper is independent and the editor in chief is student Aran Nugent. Oscar Wilde’s childhood home, Number 1 Merrion Square, is now inhabited by students of the American College Dublin.

The first publication will include special guest writer Vincent Brown, a columnist with Ireland’s most popular daily newspaper, The Irish Times. The Wilde Times will be free to all students and hopefully a limited amount of copies will be available to the students of Lynn University soon.

The editors and staff of The Pulse student-run newspaper of Lynn wish The Wilde Times staff the best of luck with everything as they start and publish their own student newspaper at American College. We look forward to working together as we both publish the news of the students of Lynn University and American College Dublin. Please contact our staff if you need our help with anything. Cheers to The Wilde Times ahead in Dublin!

Global Week: A Celebration Of Cultures

By: Gabriela Fleitas
Student Life Editor

During the week of March 11-18, the International Student Affairs of Lynn University organized the second annual Global Week. Various performers came to Lynn, and gave the students a taste of their cultures.

The week started with Bolivia Masis, a folkloric musical ensemble performing native dance and music from the Andean regions of South America. On Tuesday, a group lead by Kiki Wainwright, which uses the sound of music of the mountain people of Haiti, performed in the Student Center Auditorium.

During the week other performances included: a lecture on the ‘Great Famine Remembered’, Hora, an Israeli dance group, and Irish dancers called ‘Echoes of Erin’. The week concluded with one of the biggest and most popular events on campus: International Day, hosted by the Multicultural Club.

Many members of the international community of Lynn University and Loggers Run Middle School participated in this event. “I was really excited and happy to see how many people participated in this event,” stated Multicultural Club VP Maria Caceres.

Students representing Mexico, Puerto Rico, Cuba, Colombia, Brazil, India, Italy, Japan, Spain, Venezuela, Panama, Nigeria and Yugoslavia participated in this successful event.

Carmen Garcia de Paredes, from Panama, stated, ”International Day was wonderful. It was the best way to explore and learn about the different cultures here at Lynn University.”

As a tradition, students and staff voted for the best country exhibit. The winners were: 1st Brazil, 2nd Nigeria, and 3rd Colombia.

Global Week celebrated the many cultures of our unique and diverse student body.
Tennis Teams Ranked First

By: Dave Geringer
Sports Information

For the first time ever, Lynn's men's and women's tennis teams have been ranked first in the nation at the same time.

The teams were ranked first in the NAJA spring rankings. It marked the first time that the L.U. men had ever been ranked first in the nation.

Individually, junior Ivan Keskinov of the men was ranked first in men's singles, freshmen Fabio Massetta was ranked 13th, junior Sascha Wullschleger 20th, and junior Brett Ormandy 34th. In doubles, Keskinov and Wullschleger were ranked first, and Massetta and Ormandy 13th.

Among women, senior Cristina Cavina was ranked fifth in singles, senior Mischa Peterova ninth, senior Petra Stankova 13th, and sophomore Ali Peshkin 18th. Stankova and Peterova are ranked second in doubles, while Cavina and Peshkin are fifth.

"We're very proud of both teams, and we're going to enjoy the fact that both our teams are ranked first," said Head Coach Mike Perez. "I just hope that we're ranked first at the end of the season. Our men have beaten three of the top five teams in both the NAIA and Division II. The women have played a limited NAIA schedule, but we played very tough opponents, and had all six players back from the team that won at nationals last year. The individual rankings are acceptable. I think that Sascha Wullschleger should be ranked higher, but he plays number three for our team, which might make people a bit reluctant to rank him as high as he should be ranked. We have four women's players in the top 18, and they're all capable of winning the national tournament," said Perez.

The Pulse staff hopes to see dual national championships from our tennis teams. BEST OF LUCK!

LU Soccer Players Honored

By: Dave Geringer
Sports Information

Lynn senior forward Hanne Nissen has recorded another first in Lynn University sports history.

Nissen was named a first team GTE/CoSIDA Academic All-American. She's the first Knight to be named to the first team, and the second Knight to be named a GTE/CoSIDA Academic All-American. (Ofir Kuchly of the men's basketball team was named a third team Academic All-American this spring.)

Nissen has a 3.89 grade point average, majoring in chemistry. She led the NAIA champion Knights with 35 goals, 29 assists and 99 points last season. Her 29 assists tied the L.U. single-season record, and her goal and point totals are the second-best single-season marks ever at Lynn.

Nissen was an NAIA and an NSCAA/Ubco All-American, and the Knights won the NAIA championship in each of her two seasons at Lynn.

The Staff and Advisors of The Pulse Newspaper would like to thank Mr. Dave Geringer from Sports Information for all his time, help and assistance with our sports sections this year. Your help is greatly appreciated!
hopes that the situation will improve the lives of all Bulgarians and that they may experience the rewards of a democratic country.

In a recent interview, Ivan highlighted Bulgaria's present situation. Bulgaria is experiencing a difficult time in its transition from socialism to an emerging democracy. Economically the country continues its painful adjustment from what the editors of U.S. News and World Report have called "the misdirected development undertaken during four decades of Communist rule." The majority of the Bulgarian people, Ivan says, are going through hardship. The cost of living is high for 80% of the population. He hopes that through this transition Bulgaria will not follow in the direction of some South American countries where there is extreme wealth or poverty with no room for middle class. For example English teachers and doctors are in the lower socioeconomic structure, which Ivan feels is very sad. He

Men's Golf Team Striving For Hole-In-One Season

By: Jon Morstein
Sports Editor

The men's golf team, coached by Eric Abreau, are presently ranked seventh in the nation. The men have had a very successful season and hope to continue their winning streak at the NAIA SE Regionals in Pensicola, Florida. If the men win at Regionals, they will head on to Nationals and strive for the national championship.

Senior Andy Farmer is the team leading scorer with a 75.0 average through 23.5 rounds totaling 1760. Other team member's averages include: Marc Grinberg 76.7 through 23.5 rounds total 1802, Hylton Heard 80.5 through 9.5 rounds total 765, Scotti Register 81.0 through 16 rounds total 1296, Chris Megiurk 81.2 through 14 rounds total 1137, Ken Starch 81.8 through 17.5 rounds total 1471, Henrick Berezin 83.2 through 7.5 rounds total 624, and Kevin Bilo 86.2 through 9 rounds total 776.

The Pulse Staff wishes the men's and women's golf teams the best of luck as they head toward national competitions!
Lack Of Student Participation Hurting LU

By: Michael McKee

Another school year has almost passed at Lynn University and summer vacation is around the corner. The university benefitted greatly from the addition of wonderfully modern library. Our sport teams produced stellar seasons winning several NAIA championships for the school. Only one thing remains to make this university a really great one. The lack of student participation in campus activities is hurting all of us at this school. There are many school clubs and organizations in which we can contribute our time and effort. All of these organizations offer great rewards for those who try them out. Many employers state the importance of seeing students' involvement in college organizations because it shows that we have many of the qualities that employers are looking for. Sadly, many of us are not refuse to join a club or organization for different reasons. It is understandable that some of us need to work in order to pay the high cost of college education. I encourage all of you to try the many clubs that Lynn offers next school year. If any of you are interested in forming a new club that you think Lynn would benefit from, contact the Student Activities office at 994-0770 X317 or X318.

Our athletic teams have done excellent over the past years, but they aren't getting the support they deserve in their home games. Many of the teams perform before small crowds. The home-court or field advantage only occurs if they have strong support.

I encourage everyone next year to participate in several campus activities and organizations and to show our appreciation for our athletic teams. Show your school spirit! Congratulations, graduating seniors on all your hard effort and dedication to Lynn! For everyone else at L.U., see you next school year and have a great summer!

Moraz Named SGA President

Courtesy of: Student Services

Kristen Moraz was voted the new Student Government Association President by an 84% margin. Moraz, the clear favorite all along, will provide a great continuity from this year to next since she currently serves as SGA Vice President.

Moraz, Lynn University's first woman president, has not developed her platform to date, but is eager to continue many of the community service projects. A very successful project was the Easter Egg Hunt for underprivileged children. Others elected were: Janine Thorpy as Treasurer, Pauline De La Peza as Secretary, and Anton Pastuszak as Public Relations Officer. Positions are still available for the Vice President/Campus Entertainment Board Chairperson, Residence Hall Association (RHA) Chairperson, and Food Service Committee Chairperson. Interested people should contact Kristen Moraz or Jim Hundrieser in Trinity Hall Offices.

One of the Florida Magazine Florida Student Leader Of The Year Awards was presented to LU Graduate Student Dan Jerusalmi this month in Tallahassee, Florida.

International Studies Adds Three Degree Programs

By: Michael McKee

This fall semester there will be a new studies program offered at Lynn University. This new program, International Studies, will be comprised of three degree programs. They are International Business, International Communications, and International Studies which is a multidisciplinary degree. All of this will be directed by Irving R. Levine, a man who has extensive experience in all of these fields. Lynn University is very fortunate to have a dean of this caliber directing Lynn University's newest program.

One of the biggest differences in this program from other degree programs offered here is the heavy emphasis on foreign languages. Levine feels very strongly about the importance of teaching foreign languages. He feels that is important especially for jobs involving the international arena for people to be multilingual.

In the future the third floor of the library will hold a studio in which students studying international communication and international studies will be able to work. "The studio will eventually have a full TV studio, radio studio, computer graphics, and anything else used in the media," said Lee Ross.

The idea for this program was conceived by President Ross (no relation to Lee Ross) when he met Levine a while back on a cruise. President Ross offered him a job as the Dean of International Studies. When Levine accepted the offer, Dr. Jennifer Braaten and Lee Ross planned the framework for these degree programs.

Lynn University will be hiring a full-time professor as well as several adjunct professors for this fall semester. The administration is expecting approximately 50 students to apply for the international studies program in the first year with the number growing with each passing year. "These degrees are great for students who haven't made up their mind on what they want to study. All of these degrees are very marketable degrees for the workplace," added Lee Ross.

The Editors and Staff of The Pulse student-run newspaper thank everyone for reading the newspaper this year! Have a great summer!
