Celebrate Black History Month This February
A Time to Recognize the Accomplishments of African Americans Throughout History
By Tudurisio Tesapie

Initially known as "Negro History Month" when it was first recognized in 1926, Black History Month is the one month on the calendar that is dedicated to the celebration of Africans who have had a significant impact in American history.

This month was designated to highlight the awareness and the study of black history in the United States.

The founder, or father, of Black History Month is Dr. Carter G. Woodson, a former coal miner whose parents were former slaves.

Woodson enrolled himself in high school at age 20 and completed his diploma two years later. He then went on to Harvard University to obtain his PhD.

While at Harvard, Woodson was disappointed to learn that his fellow black Americans were given no place in the history books.

Inspired, Woodson set up the Association for the Study of Afro-American History in 1915 in an effort to bring attention to the contributions of black people in American history.

Today, it is hoped that Black History Month is still used as a time in all Americans' lives to explore and learn about the great contributions made by African Americans.

Look out for more information about important figures in African American history in the iPulse throughout the month of February.

BIG SUNGLASSES

The current trend in sunglasses among celebrities is the bigger the better. The stars are wearing the "Bug Eye" glasses everywhere.

Many Lynn girls are now sporting these stylish shades.

GUCCI HANDBAGS

Stars can always be seen wearing Gucci handbags, but this season they are going all out. Lindsay Lohan and Jessica Alba, among other A-list celebrities, have been photographed sporting several Gucci bags recently.

The girls at Lynn have hopped on this bandwagon, and Gucci bags can be seen all over campus.

JACK ROGERS SHOES

Jack Rogers sandals are the new craze at Lynn. The sandals average at $100, and they come in a wide variety of colors and styles. They come with or without heels.

Gotta Have Great Gadgets

Are you sick of being late to class all the time due to those low speed limits and pesky FHP troopers?

Now you can make that 10:00 am class with no problem thanks to Escort's new Passport 8500.

This highly-rated radar detector includes such features as 360 degree detection on all radar bands (including the hard-to-detect Super-wide KA band), reprogrammable software to upload the newest radar and laser speed gun info, and a high-resolution LCD screen.

Have too much stuff plugged into that cigarette lighter already? The 8500 requires too much power to go wireless, but Escort does offer a high-powered cordless detector as well called the Solo 52.

The SoloS2 model uses AA batteries and offers the longest detection range available in a cordless unit.

Both models are invisible to the V2 "radar detector detector," but if you do happen to get pulled over by the brown, you can quickly unclip the SoloS2 from its windshield mount with the "quick release" feature.

Both the Passport 8500 ($299-$339) and Solo 52 ($329) are available from Escort's online website escotrader.com.

An Aeronautic Aloha
Hawaiian Study Tour For Aviation Students

Jeff Johnson, dean for the School of Aeronautics, and Lynette Johnson, project manager, took 14 students on a study tour of the Hawaiian Islands (Oahu and the Big Island).

The students learned about Polynesian culture and history, U.S. military impact and presence, the major industries of the Hawaiian Islands and the factors that affect the most geographically isolated area in the world.

In Oahu they visited Waikiki Beach, Hickam Air Force Base, the USS Arizona Memorial, USS Missouri battle ship, Dole Plantation, beaches of the North Shore, and the Polynesian Cultural Center where they attended an authentic hula.

On the Big Island they continued their studies by touring a coffee plantation, the Volcano Winery and a volcanic black sand beach.

Major highlights of the trip were hiking and camping on an active volcano in the Volcanoes National Park, witnessing lava flowing down the mountain into the sea from the world’s most active volcano, and climbing into a caldera and walking through an old lava tube.

Students went up to the summit of a dormant volcano, Mauna Kea, which is the highest island mountain on the planet where they saw spectacular views and the world’s largest astronomical observatory.

They also rode horseback through a lush rainforest studded with waterfalls and body surfed on one of the Travel Channels’ Top 10 voted Best Beaches.

Critical Conference Action
Hayes to Provide Leadership for Men’s Basketball
By Sara Quatrocky

Senior Marcus Hayes knows that keeping the No. 1 spot in the SSC league is harder than earning it.

The men enter the week feeling the heat as the Knights travel to Florida Tech today before hosting Rollins College on Saturday.

“After winning conference last season and being at the top for a majority of the time this season, we know that we are going to get everyone’s best basketball,” Hayes said.

“Playing Rollins is always tough,” Hayes says. “The last time out against them we did a great job of finding the open player and Sheldon took care of business around the basket.”

The Knights have four players averaging double-figures as Sheldon Edwards, senior James Cage and junior Andrew Smith all put up just over 13 points.

Edwards is also tops in the conference and 12th in the nation. With 9.6 rebounds per game, while also holding the highest field goal percentage in the league at 56.6 percent.

“We have so many players on this team can explode offensively and usually our momentum comes from defensive stops or creating turnovers,” Hayes said.

“This week, with Rollins coming to town, we all have to step it up a notch so that we can prove we belong at the top.”

Sweets And Treats For Your Sweetie
How To Give Great Valentine’s Day Gifts On A Budget
By Brittany Balowas

It’s that time of year again. Phil the Groundhog has seen his shadow, and winter will continue. For some, this usherers in a continued season of shoveling snow and attempting to keep warm.

For others, this is just another reason to cuddle with that special someone. And what better day to spend with that someone than Valentine’s Day?

Valentine’s Day is the one day a year designated to show your loved one how much you care. But for many, the heart is bigger than the wallet.

Here are a few ways to show that special person how much you care while only spending how much you have.

Show them that you love them. But show them for less! Here’s how to do it:

Most flower delivery services are extremely overpriced, but some run deals for this special day under $19.99.

A whole basket of cookies in a decorative arrangement will cost you somewhere in the ballpark of $35 - $65.

If you’re interested in an option a little less extravagant, FloralAmbiance.com has a specialty cookie kabob that will only cost you $8.50.

Finally, if sending a Valentine’s Day gift is too much, try preparing a romantic home cooked dinner for two.

Visit www.recipelink.com/cupid.html, to find great recipes for a complete romantic dinner from appetizers to the main dish and even dozens of delicious desserts to make.

This February 14, make your declaration of love without worrying about putting a dent in your wallet.

By using these great gift ideas, you will surely bring a smile to your loved one, and hopefully one to yourself as well.

Everyone deserves a little something special on Valentine’s Day, so make this year memorable for you and for your special sweetheart.*

Pirates Party On

Yesterday Lynn was invaded by pirates, and it was fantastic. After all, what is the one group of people that knows how to party harder than Lynn kids? Pirates, of course.

Captain Jack & Aubry Beckham

The pirates performed piratical prose in the form of pirate period music. Students were able to see the performance, and, shiver me timbers, a pirate ship, in the courtyard.

This visit from pirates left this writer wanting only one thing: more pirates. But where can one find pirates around Florida?

Spring Season Starts
Golf Team Plays Winter Invite
By Chad Beattie

The men's golf team opened the spring season with a sixth place finish out of 19 teams at the Titan Winter Invite hosted by Brevard Community College.

Hoyt McGarity tied for 10th individually, his third top-10 finish out of four tournaments.

McGarity was one of only two members of LU to shoot at least one round of par or better; firing rounds of 70-74-74 for a two-day score of 218.

"We have a lot of guys who can go yard on this team," said head coach Rudy Garbalosa, "but we have to be careful that we do not live and die by the long ball. We need to continue to be aggressive."

LU is 14-39 all time against UT and 8-23 under Garbalosa. The Knights were shut out in four of the six games played last season against the Spartans.

"It's true we haven't had much success against Tampa, but this is a new year and we have a talented team that I believe is capable of competing with the best," Coach Garbalosa said.

Players Nicolas Boisvert, Felix Martinez, Jimmy Bacon, George Brandner, and Nick Brown hit home runs in the team's three games.

The Knights season is 2-1 overall right now, and the battle with the Spartans will begin tomorrow."

Girls & Sports
A Comic by Justin Borus and Andrew Feinstein

"Girls & Sports" is a satirical comic strip that parodies the narrative and stereotypes surrounding women's sports. The strip often features humorous and exaggerated scenarios, such as "Just So You Know: I Don't Kiss on the First Date," or "If I Can't Be the One You Kiss on the First Date, I'll Be the One You Kiss..." It challenges conventional gender roles and expectations in sports and relationships. The strip is known for its razor-sharp wit and its depiction of the complexities of modern relationships and sports.
Combating Contemporary Genocide: The Time Is Now

Hundreds Of Thousands Dying In Sudan, Where Is The Reaction?

By Jenna Zakany

Jerry Fowler, Staff Director of the Committee on Conscience at the United States Holocaust Memorial Museum, recently came to Lynn as a Scholar in Residence.

On Tuesday he spoke about the role of Holocaust remembrance in combating contemporary genocide, and he recently spoke with the iPulse on this topic.

Fowler believes that by remembering what happened during the Holocaust, and then applying it to current and contemporary acts of genocide, it can give people a sense of moral choice.

He stated during his lecture on Tuesday that, "In the space between we can happen and what will happen is where we are."

Human choice is what makes a difference. Fowler believes that what happened once can happen again, but it doesn't have to happen again.

During the Holocaust, approximately six million Jews were killed by the Nazi regime and its collaborators.

Bystanders are those who witnessed the event and did nothing.

Have we made any progress since the Holocaust? We say "Never again!" when we think of situations like the Holocaust and the genocide in Rwanda, but is that phrase a reality?

Fowler believes that while we still have a long way to go, we are currently "failing less."

And what of the genocide that is occurring now, in our lifetime? How can a country like Sudan where genocide has "historically and systematically devasted the existence of groups that are ethnically, culturally, and 'racially,' different than the elite group that holds power" not have been noticed and stop?

The largest numerical group of individuals during the Holocaust was bystanders.

Over 1.5 million people have been driven from their homes, and approximately 400,000 people have been murdered over the last two years, and the situation is not ceasing.

What can be done, both globally and individually, to stop the genocide in Sudan?

Greater and more urgent steps need to be taken on a global level with governments such as the United States and those governments represented in the United Nations.

Eliminating the problem in Sudan needs to have a higher US priority, which will lead to an increased global priority, Fowler explains.

On a more personal level, citizens who are concerned should start pressuring media outlets for increased coverage.

"Citizens can influence what media covers," Fowler states. The coverage of genocide will increase if there is a demand.

How you can help:
- Put pressure on the media and government.
- Start community efforts. Begin with small groups and expand to greater/larger groups.
- Students play an important role. Begin a delegation on campus, or contact local religious or educational institutions.

Get involved:
Visit activist web sites and contact local human rights groups to get involved.

Student In The Spotlight
Carolina Suarez, Lynn University Sophomore
By Tudaduo Tabope

Carolina Suarez is a 20-year-old sophomore who is studying International Communications here at Lynn.

Suarez is from Mexico, but has lived in the United States for nearly five years.

Suarez has a passion for art. She says, “In any moment that I can, I’m always drawing something.”

Her favored form of self-expression is the art of sculpture. Other hobbies of Suarez are horseback riding, and painting.

Suarez states that the proudest moment in her life is her mother’s survival of breast cancer.

This moment affected her life in a tremendous way, and Suarez says that she is now trying to live life differently.

“I’m trying to be more relaxed and live for the moment,” states Suarez.

Over the winter break, Suarez was able to go back to Mexico and visit with her mother.

Suarez’ goals for 2006 are to “get good grades, go backpacking around Europe for the summer, move to Spain, and buy a Vespa.”

The Radica 20Q ball is a small, computerized toy that guesses what object the user is thinking of in twenty questions or less.

“I know what you are thinking...” It ushers as users try to stump this seemingly magic 20Q ball.

Here’s how it works: The user thinks of an object, and then the ball goes to work, asking twenty “yes or no” questions. The user can answer “yes,” “no,” “sometimes,” or “unknown.”

Nine times out of ten, the ball guesses the correct answer.

The Radica 20Q ball is a great x-s-m-p-l-e of how far computerized artificial intelligence has come along.

Ben, an astrophysicist from Harvard, thought that he could stump the ball by selecting “outer space” as his object. The ball wowed him when it got the correct answer, especially since one of the questions the ball asked was, “Does it weight more than a duck?”

Anyone thinking that this computerized ball must surely have voice recognition software is incorrect. The ball simply knows all the right questions to ask!

While this ball may not make your life any easier, it will surely provide entertainment, a way to pass the time, and something to impress friends with.

The Radica 20Q ball is available at major toy retailers and Walgreens for $15.+

Men’s Golf Takes Second Place
The Hunt For The Matlock Classic Title
By Chad Beattie

A 14-stroke improvement from the first to second round has Lynn University men’s golf team in second place and in the hunt for the Matlock Classic title.

Keir McNicoll and Gavin Dear are in the top-six as the Fighting Knights head into the final day only 10-strokes behind the leader on the 7,065-yard par 72 course.

McNicoll had a nine-stroke improvement in the second round to shoot a season-low 69. His two round 147 puts him six strokes behind the individual leader.

The Fighting Knights found their stroke on the next 18 holes though, firing the third lowest team round, 292, to jump six spots.

Boisvert attended Horizon Josnesse High School and then moved on to play for Roger Ward at Northeastern Oklahoma. His freshman year he was selected as Second Team All-Region.

His sophomore year at Northwestern Oklahoma he batted .327 with a team leading 70 RBI and six home runs, 63 runs scored, 17 stolen bases and a .438 on-base percentage.

Boisvert was again named Second Team All-Region and was selected to the Regional All-Tournament First Team.

The Late James Langston Hughes: 1902-1967
Renaissance Man And Celebrated Literary Artist
By Tradescio Telape

James Langston Hughes is remembered as Black history Month as one of America’s great Renaissance men.

Hughes wrote novels, short stories, poems and plays. His artistic works were extremely important in the Harlem Renaissance of the 1920’s, and his literary works of art continue to be equally as important today in the 21st century.

Langston Hughes was born on February 1, 1902 in Joplin, Missouri. His parents were divorced when he was young, so his grandmother raised him until he was thirteen and moved to Lincoln, Illinois.

It was while living in Illinois that Hughes started writing poetry. In his writing, Hughes wrote about the people and places that he knew; he was a well-traveled man, having been as far as Africa and Europe in his youth.

He gained inspiration from the “low-down folks,” the poor people who had a strong sense of emotion and pride.

Hughes had a strong sense of racial pride, and in his works he celebrated African American culture, humor, and spirituality. He promoted equality and condemned racism and injustice.

The literary works of Langston Hughes had a great influence on the African American artistic movement of the 1930’s that celebrated black life and culture.

Famous writings by Langston Hughes include the poem “The Negro Speaks of Rivers,” the play Mule Bone and award winning novel Not Without Laughter, among many others.

These works have inspired people yesterday, they inspire people today, and they will, hopefully, continue to inspire people in the future.*

CD Review
Mary J Blige
By Jade Berez

“The Breakthrough” is the newest release from Mary J. Blige. This album discloses a more secure and positive “hip-hop soul queen.”

This diva proves she deserves her title, blending a powerful combination of soul and hip-hop throughout the entire CD.

The album shows that Blige is at a more contended point in her life, with such tracks as “I Found My Everything,” and the powerfully affectionate “Be Without You.”

“The Breakthrough” includes collaborations with U2 superstar Bono, and brilliant jazz singer Nina Simone. Jay-Z and Will I Am from the Black Eyed Peas also appear on “The Breakthrough.”

The track “Can’t Hide From Love” featuring Jay-Z is a calming look at just how far this diva has come since her early projects in the 1990s.*

What's Hot: The Nightlife
By Kaitlyn Hughes

The nightlife is what the students at Lynn crave, and the party lasts all night long.

The effects of the long nights are seen on the faces and in the mannerisms students every day.

The entertainment and activities derived from South Florida's after hours are a trend that many students at Lynn are basking in their entire social outings on.

Students at Lynn have overtaken the clubs that are the heart and soul of Miami and South Florida culture. At clubs such as Mansion, Amika, and Club Space, the students of Lynn happily crowd the dance floor.

In Fort Lauderdale, students can't get enough of Club Revolution.

Revolution features the hottest concerts and the music that makes this generation spring on the nightlife.

In South Florida, the music and dancing never ends, and the students at Lynn love to spend their nights out partying and listening to the hottest bands, hip hop, and techno around.

The softball team will take on Palm Beach Atlantic Saturday.

Last season the Knights played in two games, ending results were a split. The Knights now look to extend their All-Time series results with the Sailfish, which is currently 12-2, while also keeping their winning streak going.

The Blue and White look to be strong contenders this season, led by junior shagger Christina Rolla and sophomore pitcher Rachel Foster. Foster was the No. 1 pitcher in both games against the Sailfish last season.

Florida Southern has won only once in seven games since defeating Lynn 67-64 at Jenkins Field House. The Mocs are 15-4 all-time against the Fighting Knights and have not lost to Lynn since Feb. 2, 2002.

"Right now this team is trying to get better and better before we hit the conference tournament," said DeCosta, who has defeated every team in the SSC except for Florida Southern.

"We're taking the rest of this season game-by-game so we can go into the tournament on a high note and hopefully do some damage."

Eager In The End

Men's Basketball Struggles
By Sara Quatrocky

Eager in first place in the Sunshine State Conference after a 68-66 heartbreaking loss to Rollins this past Saturday night, the Lynn men's basketball team is eager to get back on the court and fight their way back on top.

The men hosted Florida Southern on Wednesday night in their final home game of the season with Senior Night festivities before tip-off.

"We know that we now have to come out and prove that we want to be back on top," said senior Sheldon Edwards.

Lynn will battle Florida Southern in the 23rd all-time meeting between the two schools as the Knights will look to improve on their 6-15 all-time record against the Mocs.

The Knights carry the No.1 scoring offense into the SSC match.

On Saturday Lynn will travel to Saint Leo for a tangle with the Lions.*

This shoe is a breakthrough in footwear technology. Adidas has utilized computer micro-processors that are linked up to a small motor to constantly adjust the shoes' cushioning and response to the pavement as the wearer is walking or running.

When living in South Florida, it's hard to ignore the toned "beach bodies" in basically any venture outdoors (or in).

Students in colleges all across the country are faced with the "ideal body," and the struggle to achieve it. Lynn students are no different.

"Diet talk" is the craze in girls' gossip sessions, and talk about weight lifting and staying in shape can be found in the conversations between male students on campus.

The fear of gaining the "Freshman 15" is on most minds, and diet myths and fads are all around the school.

It is important not to get carried away with this "beach body" trend. Lynn offers many ways to stay healthy without overworking or starving oneself.

Various dining options at Christine's and the cafeteria are "health food friendly," and the newly renovated gym offers a way to stay in shape.

Dragana Ilic can also extend her individual winning streak to 30 matches.

The Knights need Gedvile Norkute to have another solid performance at the no.1 singles position due to Weltz's injury. Norkute came from a set down to defeat Meri Goli of Florida Southern 6-1, 6-1, 10-3 and help her team to a 9-0 sweep.

Multicultural Day Celebrated at Lynn University
A Celebration Of The Many Cultures And Countries On Campus
By Ashley Roberts and Tuduato Tebape

Students and faculty came together as Lynn celebrated its second annual Multicultural Day last Thursday.

Multicultural Day is a day dedicated to the celebration of the different cultures represented on campus. Currently at Lynn there are students from over 50 countries, and this day was a chance to learn more about these cultures.

Students used information, maps, artifacts, national dress, and instruments of their countries and cultures to inform other students about their home countries.

Latin Grammy-nominated band Locos Por Juana performed, and the school's catering service prepared meals of the Caribbean, South Africa, and more.

Multicultural Day was a success this year, and will hopefully continue to be a success in years to come.

Students shared their thoughts about this event:

"I think it is lovely! It's great to see people coming together and celebrating their culture." -Kevin Sloss, USA

"Multiculturalism defines our existence!" -Haimy Abebe, Ethiopia

"We are very proud to fully represent our continent, Africa." -Bernard Condomi, Democratic Republic of Congo

"Great cultures, colors, food, and fun. Just great!" -David, Nigeria

"It is a magnificent world and today it showed." -Wilson, Nigeria

For more information about Multicultural Day, visit my.lynn.edu. For more information on Locos Por Juana, visit www.locosporjuana.net.

Ian’s Game Pick
Kingdom Hearts
By Ian Nahama

An unlikely pair leads to a wonderful result. Disney and Square have joined together to make Kingdom Hearts, a charming and enchanting story told through third-person action RPG.

The crazy for Motorola’s RAZR phone is in full-swing, and everyone seems to have one. Now Motorola has come out with the new “hot phone.”

For something different and original, check out Motorola’s new PEBL V6. It’s a flip phone that is as smooth as the RAZR is sharp. Consumers who have T-Mobile or a SIM card can use this hot new phone.

The PEBL has no sharp edges, and looks similar to a black river when it is closed. With a simple touch, the PEBL can smoothly flip itself open to reveal its laser-cut keypad and full-color screen.

Features of the Motorola PEBL include Motospeak, a voice recognition software that allows users to command nearly every operation of the phone with voice, a digital still shot camera and a video camera that shoots in mp3g format, and the venerable Bluetooth technology to provide for easier and safer driving.

The PEBL is currently available at T-Mobile and online cell phone retailers.

The staircase in the library is part of many students’ daily journeys, and for others, it is used perhaps once or twice a year around research and examination time.

The voices of well-known characters are dead-on, and throughout the game dozens of familiar Disney and Square characters make cameos.

The music meshes perfectly with the game and gives a new take on Disney classics. There are over 40 hours of game play.

The one and only flaw I found is that the camera is a little off set and confusing at times.

At first glance, this game seems targeted towards youngsters, but that isn’t the case. It's a game for anyone who likes an adventure with an engaging cast. Overall this game has a great lasting effect and can be found anywhere games are sold for less than $20.

Fans of the game have a reason to rejoice, with Kingdom Hearts 2 coming out in March.

Knights Roll Over Rollers
Women's Tennis Victories
By Sara Quatrocky

The No. 5 women's tennis team has been rolling since this beginning of the 2006 season with four-straight blistering victories.

The Knights (4-0, 2-0) have also gotten off to a hot start in the Sunshine State Conference with back-to-back victories over Florida Southern and Rollins.

"Obviously all of our matches are important, but his week we should really focus on playing at the next level of intensity," head coach Mike Perez said.

"We have been able to get by our opponents fairly easy so far, but we've faced with some challenges in both Florida Gulf Coast and Eckerd."

Showing herself as the definition of rolling, senior Dagnano Illic has won 30-consecutive singles matches, including four this season.

Playing at the top three singles lineup positions this season, sophomore Gedvile Norkute has been consistent in her Lynn debut for Coach Perez, recording a 4-0 singles record.

Teaming up with sophomores Vici Welz and Katie Kilbanoff-Demeroski in doubles action, Norkute as not allowed a doubles opponent to more that two games in a set all season long.*

Unable To Upend
Women's Basketball Falls 72-59
By Chad Beattie & David Hunter

The women's basketball team played Florida Gulf Coast last night, and I was fortunate enough to be in attendance.

Megan Osmer recorded her seventh double-double of the season and blocked a career-high four shots.

There was alot of excitement in the air. The Knights came in at a struggling 10 and 15 record, while their competition came in at 24 and 1.

Osmer started off the game on fire, scoring the team's first seven points en route to a 7-2 lead.

The Knights built a nine point lead when Cherise George scored on a lay-up and fade-away jump shot.

At halftime, the Knights were up 38 to 35. However, the second half proved tougher than the first for the girls. Both the offense and the defense struggled throughout the quarters.

The ladies built up a six point lead courtesy of an Allegre Armstrong three-pointer but it wasn't enough to beat Florida Gulf Coast.

The shots were not sinking, and the girls were beat up on the boards. The ladies tried to hold on, but the game slipped away in a 72 to 59 loss.*

Knights Nipped In Ninth
Baseball Team Loses 6-5
By Chad Beattie

The men's baseball game against Florida Tech had all the right ingredients for another ninth inning comeback, but the Panthers staved off the Knights to win 6-5 Tuesday afternoon.

Bobby Scott finished the day 2-for-4 with a run scored as Lynn falls to 6-3 overall.

"Today we had some tired bats," said head coach Rudy Garbulosa.

"I think our team was a little weary after playing in Tennessee and immediately traveling here. Now we look forward to coming home for a little while."

Ninth inning standout Craig Sheets started the bottom half of the ninth and immediately got the Panthers to ground out to short.

The Knights opened the game with a 1-0 lead after Boisvert scored courtesy of an error and passed ball.

Matt Baker threw seven innings and allowed six hits, five runs, three earned runs, and struck out two.

Lynn returns to action Saturday at 2 pm when it hosts Mercyhurst College.*

Gotta Have Great Gadgets
By Brett Samuels

The hectic and crazed 2005 holiday season is over, and now it is finally possible to go out and get Microsoft’s new game system, the XBOX 360.

The new XBOX 360 is the first gaming system of its kind to be released. It is a new generation high-definition system, and Sony and Nintendo are now attempting to keep up with this advanced technology.

The improvements that Microsoft made with this new version of the XBOX are amazing. It has three high-speed processors, and more RAM than most computers.

The system can connect to the Internet wirelessly, allowing players to network and play each other across town, country, or even the globe.

Because the XBOX 360 is a product of Microsoft, it has the capability to interface with computers that use Windows games, which adds a great deal of gamers to the mix.

Even though the XBOX 360 has only been available for four months, there are many games to choose from, and more being released weekly.

Sony’s recent announcement that its PlayStation 3 will be delayed leaves the XBOX 360 as the premium choice for any gamer, and makes it the only high-definition game platform available until the next holiday season.

Currently the XBOX 360 is available at electronics retailers and starts at $579.

A Woman President?
Judy Woodruff Speaks
By Jenna Zakany

Broadcast journalist Judy Woodruff spoke yesterday as a part of the university’s Diversity Frontiers in Globalization Luncheon Lecture series. Before she gave her lecture, students had an exclusive opportunity to hear her speak.

Woodruff stated that polls show that America is ready for its first woman president. She spoke about the great deal of achievements women have experienced over the last few decades.

Sixty years ago, Eleanor Roosevelt stated that America was not ready for a woman president. Woodruff stated that women have come a long way since then, but still have a long way to go.

The public seems to be warming up to the idea of a woman president. This is shown in the popular television drama “Commander In Chief” starring Geena Davis.

Woodruff, who has come a long way since her early days as a weather girl, gave two lectures and an interview on Lynn Campus yesterday. Dean Jaffe and Joe Carey presented Ms. Woodruff to audiences of students, faculty, and guests.

In an interview with student reporter Mike Griffith, Woodruff said that she believes that American troops will not be in Iraq forever, and the focus should be on getting them out.

She stated that the American people are now beginning to question what they are getting out of this situation, and if the fighting in Iraq is “really making the US safer.”

Woodruff spoke to an eager group of listeners and brought many current issues and subjects to life. Those who wish to see more of Woodruff should tune into CNN.

Team Eagerly Eyes Eckerd
Men’s Basketball Seeks No. 1 Spot
By Sara Quatrocky

The men’s basketball team heads to Eckerd College on Saturday in its final regular season game.

The NSSC’s top team, Eckerd College, is 20-4 this season after a loss at Nova Southeastern. The Turtles are currently ranked 10th in the NCAA Division II South Region. The Knights need to win three of their five remaining regular season games to clinch the South Sunshine State Conference championship.

The NSSC’s top-15 club needs three wins to clinch the NSSC title as well. Columnist, Scott McMullen, said, “We need to focus on first getting the job done at Eckerd and then we can worry about the rest of the pieces falling into place,” head coach Scott McMullen said.

In Eckerd, the Knights will face one of their most even opponents throughout the last couple of years.

Lynn, owning the top scoring offense in the league at 76.6 points per game, will match up against Eckerd’s tough defense which allows just 63.4 points per game.

Back up the No. 1 scoring offense, Lynn has four players averaging at least 12 points per

Tennis Teams Travel
Regional Action Ahead
By Sara Quatrocky

Lynn University senior Jan Macko and Dragana Ilic were named the Men’s and Women’s Tennis Players of the Week in the Sunshine State Conference.

Macko helped the Fighting Knights win their SSC opener against Florida Southern at the fourth singles position.

Recently Ilic extended her singles match winning streak to 30 consecutive victories.

On the men’s side, Macko’s victory over Florida Southern at the fourth singles position was the deciding factor in the Knights’ opening 6-3 conference victory.

“Getting past Florida Southern was obviously a goal of ours because we have set winning the SSC title as our number one initiative this season,” Macko said.

The men’s and women’s teams both travel to Florida Gulf Coast University on Thursday for a regional battle. Both matches are slated to begin at 10:00 am in Ft. Myers.

The Legacy of Jackie Robinson: 1919-1972
Well-Rounded Athlete, Well-Rounded Person
By Taddeus Terupe

Jack Roosevelt Robinson was born in Cairo, Georgia on January 31, 1919. His parents raised him in Pasadena, California, where he attended school until high school level.

It was while he attended UCLA that Jackie Robinson was recognized amongst his peers and in the community as being a fine all-around athlete. He played football, baseball, basketball, and track, although he is remembered for his professional baseball career.

Because of the Jim Crow policies, African Americans were not allowed to participate in organized baseball until 1945. Jackie Robinson, along with Brooklyn Dodgers owner and manager Branch Rickey, helped to change this policy forever.

Rickey contracted Robinson out of the Kansas City Negro League, and brought him into Major League baseball. Robinson was the first African American to ever play in Major League baseball.

In his career, Jackie Robinson was awarded the Rookie of the Year award in 1947, Most Valuable Player in 1949, and was elected into the Baseball Hall of Fame in 1962. Robinson had an arm in politics as well, and was appointed "Special Assistant of Community Affairs" by Governor Rockefeller, and campaigned on behalf of Vice President Hubert Humphrey.

Rickey contracted Robinson out of the Kansas City Negro League, and brought him into Major League baseball. Robinson was the first African American to ever play in Major League baseball.

A unique feature about this hat is the color webbed strap that runs around the brim, which adds a distinctive touch to the overall look.

Guys all over New England have been spotted wearing this brand, and the trend is now making its way to Florida.
