Question Of The Day
What would you do if a tsunami hit Florida?
Reported by Alain Roche

I would climb the roof and prepare myself to surf.
Alex Masters, Graduate

I would climb the highest tree that I could find at that moment.
Ana Gomez, Sophomore

Not that much, but he definitely deserves to be in prison.
Dana Tolman, Graduate

Those things can't be predicted, so I guess if I survive I'll go back home.
Lisa D'Aleccio, Junior

I will get the hell out of here.
Stephan Lande, Sophomore

Movie Review

These boots are made for walking, and that's just what they'll do...

Right now, women all over are wearing fashions hottest accessory: high boots!

Those in the know have been sporting boots for years now; originally every one loved Ugg's, then there were rain boots, cowboys boots were in for a while and now it's all about the height of your boot.

Women are wearing these boots just above their knees.

Whether you choose to wear boots with a short skirt, a dress or tucked into your jeans, they look good on just about everyone. Designers are making them in all colors and styles: you can get them in leather, suede, or even patent-leather!

Mischa Barton

They are great because you can mix and match them with just about everything.

And considering that its been getting a bit chillier out at night, they're practical too: they help keep your legs warm!

The best part is, you can dress them up or dress them down, wear them out for a night on the town or simply to run around the corner to shop.

So I suggest you kick off your flip flops and walk yourself around the comer to shop.

Alumni Is Newest Member Of WMBB Team
Former Student Is Newest Member of Panama City's WMBB News Team
By Vanessa Ott

In recent alumni news, we are proud to announce that former student and now Reporter Shenna Foster is the newest member of Panama City's WMBB news team.

Foster was a very hard working student, graduating from Lynn Cum Laude with a degree in Communications.

She had originally studied print journalism with us and wanted to work for a newspaper. After interning at the Tampa Tribune, she decided she wanted to get into television.

Foster then interned at WPTV in West Palm Beach, and led to a job on the weekend assignment desk where she helped break some of the area's biggest news stories. She used her internship to put together a resume reel which led to several job offers, and she chose Panama City. Foster has come back to Lynn to speak about her successful career, selling stories it was not easy for her to get to where she is now. She was extremely competitive and did not give up when faced with a challenge.

Former investigative reporter and current professor Jim Brophy says, "She had a fire in her belly for reporting."

Shenna is among several graduates who have obtained a career in television, and who can all be found on the Lynn Library's "wall of fame."

She has come a long way since walking our halls, including going on to interview high profile officials such as South Carolina's Attorney General Henry McMaster and former FBI Agent Henry Wiser Jr., Rep. Jim DeMint.

Foster says, "These days, work is my life. It has been for a while. I've had some exciting assignments so far, and I've only been little under two months."

"My crowning achievement is that The Weather Channel aired one of my packages on their newest primetime show, Abrams and Better. For a reporter to have their local story go national, it's a major achievement."

Thanks to Lynn's program for valuable under or post graduate internship, Foster will make a great new edition to the WMBB.

The History Behind Founders Day
The Achievements and the Journey of Lynn University
By Samantha Murphy

Founders Day—Coffee in the Courtyard

Founders Day is an important day for the university, meant to recognize all its achievements and the journey that brought it to where it is today. Looking back at how it all began, you realize that it has come a long, long way.

The university was dubbed Marymount College in 1962, as a two-year liberal arts junior college for women. The campus was secluded on military trail, surrounded by farms and strawberry fields. There was only one dirt road leading into the campus.

"We used to joke that if a car came down the dirt road, it was probably lost," Dr. Donald E. Ross once said. After realizing that other universities like Harvard, Notre Dame, and Yale were rapidly becoming more successful and recognized, Marymount decided to admit their first male students.

By the start of the 70's, Marymount was struggling greatly. The college had amassed a 6 million dollar debt, was losing students rapidly, and had places of shutting down completely in May of 1972. Word of Marymount's troubles made way to Wilmington College's 27-year-old president, Donald E. Ross. While visiting Marymount to recruit students and purchase library holdings, he encountered several women students protesting to save their college.

Ross relayed his findings back to the board of trustees at Windingston, and convinced them to unite with Marymount and benefit both colleges.

His plan worked, and he was then named President by the new colleges board of trustees. From there, enrollment shot up to 360 happy students.

The campus was blossoming as well as, creating more activities for the students; swimming in the pool, playing tennis, throwing school dances, and going to the beach.

In 1974, the college name changed to the College of Boca Raton, which signified the commitment of change to the surrounding local area. Later that year, Ross asked insurance magnate Eugene Lynn for a $100,000 mortgage, in which he was denied.

Yet to his surprise, he received a personal check for the same amount from Lynn at Christmas-time. From there, the college truly blossomed.

Founders Day is here to recognize the incredible upringing of Lynn University, the fine learning institution that we've come to know and love.

It is a celebration of the school, its founders, and all its success. Wonderful activities were planned for the day, including coffee in the courtyard, where Kevin Ross unveiled a plaque dedicated to his parents and the founding of Marymount College. Other activities included a huge barbeque, live music, games, and every thing in between.

Everyone knows the saying "All good things must come to an end," but that saying seems to be much more prevalent when it comes to Hollywood power couples.

After seven years of marriage Ryan Phillippe and Reese Witherspoon are calling it quits.

The couple's publicist, Nan Dyer, issued a statement on Monday saying, "We are saddened to announce that Reese and Ryan have decided to formally separate."

While much of Hollywood is asking, "What went wrong?" the divorce proceedings already seem to be in motion. Witherspoon has enlisted the help of prominent celebrity divorce lawyer Robert Kaufman who has handled such high-profile breakups as Jennifer Aniston and Brad Pitt.

Although, the split seems amicable, TMZ reported that the couple apparently had no premarital agreement.

This could pose a problem because California law states that without a prenup, earnings made during the marriage are to be divided up 50/50.

Normally, this would not be a factor, but when it comes to celebrities large fortunes are at stake, and in this case Witherspoon has been banking a cool 20 million a pic while hubby Ryan Phillippe brings in a drastically smaller 2.5 million a movie.

As another day comes to an end in Hollywood, so does a romance, and the couples publicist has asked for privacy and discretion from the media during this difficult time.
Employment Tip Of The Month
How To Research A Prospective Employer
By Jeff Tokuyama

You just scheduled an interview with the Walt Disney Company regarding an open position you are interested in.

It is now time to do your due diligence. There are several avenues to conduct your research. This article will go into two of them.

Yahoo!

Using the Internet, go to Yahoo. Click on finance, and then the name of the company you are interested in.

For this example we are using The Walt Disney Company. The symbol is DIS on the New York Stock Exchange (NYSE). You can see by reviewing the trends and graphs how Disney's stock has been trading historically from one day, five years, to the life of the stock (in this case 1960).

This page contains a lot of important information for you. You can even order the company's annual report from this page. There are several topics on the left that you should view as well.

News and Information will give you headlines, current articles and press releases about the company.

Company Profile gives you a summary and a list of the top key executives.

Sector states the type of industry the company is in, number of fulltime employees and the competitors in similar industries.

Financials will allow you to look at income statements (income, revenues) over a three year period. In addition, balance sheets and cash flow statements are available for review.

Researching public companies this way will help you answer questions such as:

- Is the company financially stable and profitable?
- Are they rebounding back or recovering from a downturn?
- Are there new products or services about to be rolled out?
- Have they experienced layoffs or downsizing?
- Did the company outsource positions overseas?
- Are they currently under investigation?
- Has there been merger activity or takeovers?

Now take a look at the company's own website. You will find the web address through a Google search.

Google

Using our Disney example, the website is www.disney.go.com. Company websites will give you additional information into the company's products, services and reputation.

You will find out about other job openings, a look into the company's culture, and mission statement.

There will be additional news articles and press releases. Company websites will usually show what outreach programs or community service sponsorships they promote and are involved in.

Take the time to do your research. The Internet is a strong tool to help you gather information.

Research will help you devise excellent questions to ask during your interview. Research will help you decide whether to pursue a job opening and help you conclude if the company is right for you.

Volleyball Holds Off Surge
Nova's Late Comeback Not Enough for Knights
By Jeffrey Messman

After winning the first two games in a hard fought match, the Lynn University volleyball team held off a late come back surge to defeat visiting Nova Southeastern University 3-2 on Wednesday night.

The Knights guaranteed at least a 300 record for the season with the 30-28, 33-30, 26-30, 27-30, 15-11 victory.

The match opened with a back-and-forth affair in the first game as neither team was willing to give up the advantage. Nova took a 26-24 lead late before the Knights responded on a 5-1 capped by a Melissa Roberts service ace to retake the lead and the eventual 30-28 victory.

Game two saw a similar seesaw battle when Lynn pulled ahead 14-11 on a 7-0 run before the Sharks evening things back up at 22-22.

Trading points down the stretch, the Knights rallied down game point at 29-28 to score four of the next five points for the 30-26 win.

Both games three and four were no different than the first two, with the exception of the Sharks taking home the wins 30-26 and 30-27 respectively.

Forcing the match into a fifth set and deciding game, the Blue and White felt right at home after winning a five-gamer at Rollins College on Sunday and owning a 3-1 record in match opens on the year.

It came as no surprise that the fifth game would start evenly, with leads and momentum switching with almost every point.

Trailing 8-7 before switching sides, Lynn called a timeout after the switch and came out of the break with a new fire, rolling off five of the next six points to take a 12-9 lead.

Pulling within one at 12-11, the Sharks couldn't get any closer with the exception of the Knights' second non-losing season in program history.

Nova Southeastern falls to 11-19, 3-12 in conference.

Film Students Go To Ft. Lauderdale Film Festival

Students Get the Opportunity to Speak to Writer and Director of "Ten 'til Noon"

By Kelsey Breining

What's better than being the first to see a movie? How about actually meeting and talking to the writer and editor of the film!

Two weeks ago, the movie, "Ten 'til Noon" premiered at Fort Lauderdale's International Film Festival. Ten lucky Lynn students from John Bemardos's COM 255 class were able to attend the premier.

Not only were they able to see the film, they also got the opportunity to speak with Paul Osborne (writer/editor) and Scott Storm (Director) of this particular film.

Both men came to Lynn to talk to several of our film classes about their experience with film and editing. Students were able to preview a ten-minute clip of the movie, followed by a question and answer session with both men.

It was a very interesting and valuable experience for film students because they were able to meet someone who has been and is in the business.

John Bemardos could not overemphasize the importance of editing he said, "Editing makes you better in other areas of filmmaking; it is not just a job at the end of the movie, you can actually make or break a movie with editing.”

His hope in showing this film was to make his students more aware of just how critical the importance of editing he said, "It makes or break a movie and has been working with film and editing for many years. His hope is that this movie will receive enough attention and favorable reviews, and that it will hopefully play in theaters all over the world.

"Ten 'til Noon” is about a man, Larry Taylor, who wakes up one day and finds two strangers sitting in his bedroom.

During the opening scene Taylor is defiant when he shouted "God is great!” as the judge read the verdict.

Saddam, his half brother and another senior official in his regime were convicted and sentenced to death by the Iraqi High Tribunal.

This is one of the most highly publicized war crimes trials since the Nuremberg tribunals for members of Adolf Hitler’s Nazi regime and its slaughter of 6 million Jews in the World War II Holocaust.

The death sentences automatically go to a nine-judge appeals panel which has unlimited time to review the case. If the verdicts and sentences are upheld, the executions must be carried out within thirty days.

Saddam Hussein is found guilty of crimes against humanity for the killing of a hundred and forty eight Shiites in Tigris river, in the city of Dujail in 1982.

Saddam Sentenced to Death

By DeShanna Minuto

Saddam Hussein was convicted Sunday morning and sentenced to hang for crimes against humanity in the 1982 killings of 148 people in a single Shiite town.

The leader was trembling and defiant when he shouted "God is great!” as the judge read the verdict.

Hussein and his co-defendants will be given the right to appeal, but that is expected to take only a few weeks and to end in failure for the defendants.
Delightful Desserts
A Hospitality Student's Concoction
Taken from MyLynn
 College of Hospitality senior Monica Garbarino has launched her own line of liquor infused gourmet desserts: Cordial Connections.

At work, it dawned on her that dessert bars and cordials would make wonderful ingredients in desserts.

She spent time in her own kitchen experimenting with the ingredients until her sweet delicacies were "just right." Two of her best-sellers are Brownie Bacio and Brownie Noce.

She's sure that the knowledge she gained from her education from Lynn's College of Hospitality Management coupled with her desire will make her new business a success.

She's busy taking orders for the holidays and devising new delights.

"I have a passion for this business," she says. "I love cooking. I love decorating and, most importantly, I love making people smile."

Sushi Ray Restaurant Review
By Megan McSweeney

Sushi Ray Japanese Restaurant has been voted best sushi bar by The Best of Boca since 1991.

Sushi Ray offers a wide variety of Japanese food including intricate sushi rolls and delectable teppachi combinations.

The restaurant offers a relaxing lounge atmosphere for inside seating, or you can choose to be seated outdoors among some of Boca's finest retail shops.

Unlike most restaurants, Sushi Ray closes between meals. During weekdays from Monday to Friday, the restaurant serves lunch from 11:30am - 2:00pm and then closes.

They re-open again at 5pm to serve dinner until 10. On Fridays they stay open an hour later until 11.

As for the weekend, Sushi Ray only opens for dinner time on Saturday from 5pm - 11pm, and Sunday from 5pm - 10pm.

For lunch Sushi Ray offers a wonderful lunch box special. The special includes Crab salad, a spring roll, Shummmi, shrimp and vegetable tempura, the daily special and one-half a California roll 1/0 with fish egg.

All dinner entrees are served with a choice of miso soup or salad and steamed rice.

Some of my favorite sushi rolls are the Sapporo roll and the Dynamite Roll.

The Sapporo roll contains shrimp tempura, crab, cucumber and cream cheese rolled inside Avocado and fish for $10.50.

The Dynamite Roll is crab and cream cheese wrapped in Avocado and topped with baked chopper scallop seasoned with mayo and fish egg for $12.95; hand roll is available for $7.50.

Sushi Ray Japanese Restaurant is also available for take-out and catering. Sushi Ray isn't just great tasting, but economical too!

Whether your preference is sushi or a Japanese entrée Sushi Ray offers the very best Japanese cuisine in Boca Raton.

Argonauts Too Much
Men's Soccer Lose to West Florida

By Jeffrey Mestman

Two mistakes led to two goals and a 2-1 men's soccer loss to the University of West Florida in the NCAA Division II South Regional Finals. Lee Porter scored the lone goal for the Fighting Knights, who fall to 15-2 overall.

"Obviously we are very disappointed," said head coach Shawn Pendleton. "The second-half we bombarded them [West Florida] and didn't give them a chance until we made the mistake. At the end of the day I'm pleased with our players and pleased with their effort."

A scoreless game was broken with just four minutes remaining in the first half. West Florida won a questionable corner kick after a Tim Melia was deemed to have stepped off the back line from a cross. Felipe Lawall's ensuing corner kick was headed past a diving Melia by Cole Cenciello to give the Argonauts a 1-0 lead.

Ray Japanese Restaurant

Lynn pounded away at UWF to start the second half with Jean Alexandre and Porter getting shots off around the 18-yard box. West Florida was able to counter on one of the Knights missed shots and carried the ball down the far sideline. Keith Savage crossed a ball from the far corner through the penalty area. Melia made leaped through traffic but couldn't come up with the ball. Mason Hupp touched a pass to the far post and Jay Mainville tapped in the ball for the goal, putting UWF up 2-0 with 19 minutes remaining.

New life was breathed into the Blue and White in the 75th minute. Dwight Barnett won a penalty kick sending the ball to Porter who sent a low-hard shot to the left to cut the lead in half.

Lynn though couldn't push through for the tying goal. A free kick just outside the 18-yard box was driven into the wall and out of play as time was expiring.

Melia closed out the season allowing just eight goals, the second lowest total in program history and the lowest since 1996. Matt Nelson allowed just six goals in 1996.

Leon Jackson, Dwight Barnett,Nano Short and Melia were also named to the South Region All-Tournament team.

Lynn qualified for the NCAA Tournament for the eighth time since 1996 and qualified for the post-season for the 17th time overall.

Addicted to energy drinks? Younger and younger people are looking for that extra energy boost or buzz without knowing the consequences.

More than five hundred new energy drinks were launched around the world this year. Energy drink companies are fighting for the dollars of teenagers, with the promise of weight loss, increased endurance and legal highs. On average, there are seven to eight teaspoons of sugar in one can.

New companies join the dominate top seller Red Bull, Monster, and Rockstar which make up a 3.4 billion dollar a year industry, which grew 80 percent last year. An estimated 31 percent of U.S. teenagers say they consume energy drinks.

According to Simmons Research, that represents 7.6 million teens, a jump of around 3 million in three years.

Nutritionists warn that these drinks, full of caffeine and sugar, can hook kids on an unhealthy boost of energy ending in a cash cycle.

There are multiple sources of caffeine, making it hard to accurately state how much caffeine an energy drink contains.

Some of these drinks contain B vitamins, which can cause rapid heartbeat, numbness and tingling in the hands and feet.

"Danger only adds to the appeal," said Bryan Greenberg, a marketing consultant and an assistant professor of marketing at Elizabethtown College.
His bold lyricism and talent has released three albums after that, making him one of the most popular rappers around.

While it has only been two years since the release of The Red Light District, Ludacris has gone through some changes.

The "Release Therapy" CD was released on September 26, 2006. It is the fifth album by Ludacris.

The first single, "Money Maker," which features Pharrell, aired on the radio on July 17. It was number one on the charts of Billboard Hot 100, and the hot R&B Hip-hop songs. The song is very upbeat with cool rhythms that get you up out of your chair.

The "Release Therapy" portion of this album is where Ludacris put in his personal side, with songs such as, Runaway Love. The "Therapy" portion is comprised with cut-loose tracks like, "Woody" featuring R. Kelly and "Girls Gone Wild."

Ludacris told Billboard he wanted to make an album that gave his listeners "a release for the day," a time to escape from all the worries. The "Release Therapy" CD will relax your mind and let you be carefree.

In this new album he wants to send a different image and wants to be taken seriously.

According to an Album Review by Justin Vitty, this CD has opened a new dimension.

With all his past experiences he was able to make this CD the most entertaining and appealing to his listeners.

His bold lyricism and talent will really get you into the mood of this album.

Volleyball Returns To Winning Ways

By Jeffrey Mestmack

With a pair of victories over Flagler College and Northwood (Fla.) University, the Lynn University volleyball team returned to their winning ways and an above .500 record.

The Knights took down Flagler 3-1 in the opening of a tri-match at the de Hoernle Center before easily dispatching the Seahawks 3-0 in the third match.

Senior outside hitter Melissa Roberts led the Knights (11-10) with 33 kills and 34 digs on the evening. She notched a double-double against the Saints with 17 kills and a career-high 26 digs while adding a match-high 16 kills with eight digs against Northwood.

Also contributing to the Knight offensive success were fellow senior Larissa Witherspoon and junior Linnia Zamar.

Witherspoon match Roberts’ opening double-double with a 17 kill-25 dig performance while Zamara added 20 kills, 12 against Flagler, hitting at a scintillating .486.

Freshman setter Megan Bedner averaged 13.29 assists on the day, recording 54 against the Saints and 39 against the Seahawks. She was also aggressive with her serving, earning five service aces against Flagler.

Defensively, sophomore libero Christie Schade put together solid performances with matches of 16 and 17 digs.

She also nearly tied the three-game match record for service aces with five against Northwood.

The Knights opened the first match against Flagler with a 30-23 victory.

Lynn put a comfortable distance between themselves and the Saints with a 7-0 run to make it a 12-5 contest and hold off Flagler runs the rest of the way.

Game two against the Saints was a back-and-forth affair early, trading leads and ties until the Knights took a 25-24 lead on their third 3-0 run of the game.

Flagler kept close but never regained the lead or forced a tie as Lynn won 30-27.

Women’s Golf Victory

Team Defeats Florida Southern

By Chad Birken

Showing they belong in the same breath as the nation’s best, the second-ranked Lynn University women’s golf team defeated top-ranked Florida Southern in a playoff to capture the Nova South-eastern Fall Invitational.

The Knights finished ahead of the top-10 teams in the country and Katy McNicol won her first career tournament.

"This was a fantastic day for our team," said head coach Courtney Bbibby, whose team has won two of the three tournaments it has participated in.

McNicol led a contingent of four Knights in the top-10. The sophomore from Carnoustie, Scotland shot a two round 75 for a 36-hole career-low 149 to close out medalist honors.

Elise Brandt finished sixth individually with a 152 two day total, also a 18-hole career-best. Lynn nearly blew its three stroke lead over Florida Southern, but defeated the Moccasins in a one-hole playoff.

Lynn (607) nearly blew its three stroke lead over Florida Southern (607), but defeated the Moccasins in a one-hole playoff.

The Knights and Moccasins finished 11 shots ahead of four-time defending national champions Rollins College.

The Blue and White return to action Monday, October 30 at the SLU Fall Preview.

KFC Switching To Zero Trans Fat Oil
United States Banning Restaurants From Serving Food Containing Artificial Trans fats

by Kevin Miceli

KFC approximates that 5,500 restaurants have already switched.

President of KFC Greg Dedrick said there would be no change in the taste.

Setting the bar for other fast food chains to follow, to help keep people healthy even though its fast food.

The announcement came just ahead of a New York City Board of Health pulling for a plan to make New York the first U.S. city to ban restaurants from serving food containing artificial trans fats but not affecting grocery stores.

Today, the oil is used as a shortening in baked goods such as cookies, crackers, doughnuts, as well as deep fryers.

Invented in the early 1900s, partially hydrogenated vegetable oil was initially a healthy substitute for natural fats like butter or lard.

According to the Food and Drug Administration, artificial trans fat is so common that the average American eats 4.7 pounds of it a year.

When eaten, trans fats significantly raise the level of “bad” cholesterol, blood pressure, they clog arteries, and cause different sorts of heart diseases.

Researchers at Harvard study of public health, estimated that trans fats contribute to 30,000 U.S. deaths a year.

Humans Have Sex Pheromones Despite Skepticism
Information about Male and Female Pheromones

by Rachel Weiss

There’s something you should know about showering...it’s not hot! In fact, you could be drastically lowering your appeal to the opposite sex by taking one. However, bad odor could do some damage as well.

Animals have sex pheromones that emit unscentsed subconscious sex signals, which attract them to one another. Imagine: you walk into a room and you see this person. You feel this undeniable attraction, beyond physical, that is completely irrational.

Due to brainwashing chick flicks and our pop culture society, you start to think that maybe its fate or love at first sight. After all, what explanation could you have for developing such intense feelings so abruptly? It must be a fairy tale.

Turns out, your sudden romance is nothing but experiments have been a success. So much so, that surprisingly a huge number of things in human society, you start to think that maybe its fate or love at first sight. After all, what explanation could you have for developing such intense feelings so abruptly? It must be a fairy tale.

When getting clean in the shower you are taking off your natural pheromone. Keeping clean with deodorant clogs the pores in your sweat glands, reducing your ability to attract the opposite sex.

All while the killing the natural odor, human male and female bodies secrete that produces an intensely sexual appeal that is entirely subconscious. Pheromones are not the sole reason why your love life is the way it is. If you had a bad date, don’t blame your pheromones; it was probably something you did wrong.

Single and looking? Here are some tips for making it through the first date to the second.

Talking about future children or relationships, even if you don’t mean it, is not the best idea. It may inspire your date running.

Listen! You probably want to impress this person, so be interested in what they have to say and ask questions about them. They’ll enjoy the attention and most likely return the favor.

For guys, opening doors, including the car door for your date should happen consistently.

For girls, if a guy opens the car door for you, don’t reach over the seat and open it for him. You’ll look ridiculous, and you’ll be raising his desire to be chivalrous.

Before They Were Stars
A Brief History of McCrean's life

by Nicole Piccolo

Do you know Bert McCracken?

Lead singer and youngest member of "The Used" is doing what he loves to do, but the road there was not easy.

McCraken was born in a strict and loving Mormon family in Orem, Utah on February 25, 1982. His childhood was a good one.

Growing up, McCraken was a gymnast for seven years, played the trumpet and piano, and was surprisingly a huge fan of Michael Jackson; who is said to be one of his biggest musical influences.

Going into his teen years, he was rebellious against his Mormon religion, which eventually led to his parents kick him out. Things went down hill from there.

Bert dropped out of high school, and by the age of 17, Bert was addicted to Crystal Meth, and drinking up to two bottles of Jack Daniels daily.

It seemed all hope was gone until McCracken got a phone call from an old high school friend called Quinn Allman.

Allman and some guys were looking to start a band and needed a lead singer. The group immediately clicked and The Used was born.

The band helped Bert with his drug addiction to get him back on track.

Since they formed in 2000, the band has released two albums and is releasing a third one in early 2007.

“I have to realize that every mistake I make is part of me. I try to take the experience and turn it into a positive thing.” - Bert McCracken
In their final tune-up before the beginning of the regular season, the Lynn University men’s basketball team defeated NCAA division one foe Bethune-Cookman College 73-67 in exhibition play.

After consecutive baskets by Schur, the Knights spread their lead to nine at 22-13 on a Smith three-pointer. Bethune-Cookman would begin to battle back on the free throw line, scoring four of their next six points from the charity stripe to pull within four.

Both teams would manage just one field goal down the stretch, the final by Kirkwood with 1:50 remaining to allow the Knights to roll into the break with a 36-29 lead.

The Knights wouldnt take their first lead until just 2:32 remained in the game, pushing ahead 64-63 behind a 9-0 run to spark a raucous crowd.

Cohn would quiet things less than 30 seconds later with a big-time trifecta to force a Wildcat timeout before hitting another huge trey with just over a minute to play to allow the Knights to hold off their hosts for the win.

The Knights kicks off the regular season next weekend as they travel for a competitive road stretch against Christian Brothers University and North Alabama on Nov. 15th and 17th respectively.

Lynn’s home opener will be Tuesday, Nov. 21st against Puerto Rico-Cayey at the de Hoernle Center.

One Person’s Junk Becomes Another’s Music
Recycled Percussion Comes to Campus

The group, comprised of three drummers and a DJ, is on their national "Rock Your Junk Tour." Using instruments such as recycled trash cans, ladders, buckets and even the kitchen sink (literally), Recycled Percussion’s show is a high-energy mix of African, Latin and American rock and hip hop rhythms.

They brought the terms "Power-Percussion" and "Junk Rock" from underground to mainstream music. None of the drummers’ kits include a traditional drum; rather they are composed of plastic buckets and other items that most people consider trash.

"Remarkable hard-rock drumming led by the world’s "fastest extreme drummer" Justin Spencer; and intoxicating hip-hop funk grooves spun by turntablism "DJ Pharaoh" create music that is sophisticated and technical in construction, mesmerizing in execution, and a fist-pumping thrill to experience."

The buzz about Recycled Percussion is already making waves across campus. The student center is appropriately accessorized with duct tape music. It’s kind of like trash to some people. It’s kind of like fake to others. It’s kind of like fake to all.

The Real Magic Mirror
New Touch Screen Mirror by Phillips

Mirror Mirror on the wall, who is the smartest of them all? "Please just take a seat for I fear you will take a great fall, I am the smartest of them all!"

Lane attempt at poetry, possibly but the newly designed Touch screen mirror which Philips amazingly brought to life is indeed beyond just looking at a panel of glass.

Philips, the great company which murdered the VHS and brought to life the DVD has once again changed the way we live our everyday lives, while incorporating the newest technological advances.

Philips now takes our ordinary mirror which is a basic necessity to everyday life, and incorporates our more 21st century needs for an all in one magic mirror.

The "new" will feature a complete surface touchscreen which does more than just replace the "post-it." The idea is simple, a basic way to communicate with family or friends not only through writing notes in the form of text, but also picture and video clip.

There’s no way of escaping, no more excuses, imagine posting a video reminder via your cell phone to instantly be posted on your hall way mirror for whom ever it might be for.

And talk about easy to use, this mirror is so simple by means of communication it could easily replace even your great great grandparents.

A simple but genius platform allows you to store digital pictures of whomever you choose, where just a touch instantly illuminates the digital face of the mirror for an immediate view of all your contacts.

Furthermore, this magic little mirror also was made with the ability to receive and display both SMS and MMS messages transparently across, which can be activated both by proximity to the mirror and by immediate delivery.

So mirror mirror on the wall, you are indeed the smartest of them all.
Exploring Hospitality
What You Need to Know About the Major
By Eric Weiss

When you think of hospitality the state of Florida comes to mind. Our warm weather brings all types of travelers from the north, and even other countries, down for vacation. This means the resorts and hotels in the area are bustling with guests for many weeks during the winter season. Lynn University has a lot to offer when it comes to students studying the field of Hospitality management.

A senior at Lynn in the hospitality college agrees, “There are a lot of classes to choose from and the teachers are knowledgeable preparing me for my future.” The college of hospitality management provides students with the capability to go far in the state of Florida. This unique college offers a variety of specializations in hospitality administration, fulfilling all students’ capabilities.

Hospitality as a major has grown a lot at Lynn. After completing this program you will receive a BSHM degree that will provide a student the awareness, understanding, and confidence to practice the amazing skill of hospitality. Hospitality is a major that provides quality hospitality management services in an ethical, competent, equality-focused and cost-effective manner.

Laurel, a hospitality senior who is graduating in December, feels “Hospitality at Lynn has a great foundational program that has given me a good idea of what I should expect in the industry and my future”. Hospitality is a major that provides quality hospitality management services in an ethical, competent, equality-focused and cost-effective manner.

The Gauge Mecha 1 BMF watch from Avant-Garde Mecha, claims it is the world's first concept watch, which is very good looking but weird. This strange and large watch looks like something straight out of a science fiction movie from the 1950s. It has a vertical minute meter instead of a minute hand that can be somewhat of a small and hard-to-read hour hand. It also has a small window to show a 24-hour dial.

The face is made from stainless steel and glass, and is not your typical round shape; it’s more of a rectangle. The watch is available with two options. You can get a 24 mm genuine leather hornback croco strap, or a water resistant BUND style wrist band.

The cost of this strange watch is just about $2,300, depending on where you get your information. The company has not yet set a date for production but hope is not lost.

If you would like to have more information on the watch you can go to their website at: http://www. azimuthwatch.com/main.asp

Two Lynn University volleyball players earned All-Sunshine State Conference honors for the 2006 season, as announced by the conference office Thursday. She became just the third player to reach 1,000 kills and the second to 1,000 digs for the Blue and White.

Bedner becomes the second straight Knight to pick up All-Freshman honors. She amassed 1,213 assists in the year, narrowly missing the single season mark by 50.

With three seasons of eligibility remaining, she is on pace to shatter the career record which now stands at 2,113.

The Fighting Knights posted one of the best seasons in program history in 2006. Lynn saw just their second winning season ever 15-13 with a school best 8-8 in SSC play.

With the eight conference wins is the best ever for the Knights, topping the previous mark of five.

The First Speaker of the Dively Lecture Series:

The Road to Innovation

By Samantha Murphy

Here at Lynn, various guest speakers often present us with the opportunity to go to informative and inspirational lectures.

This year, a series of speakers have been lined up, in what is being called “The Dively Frontiers in Globalization Luncheon Lecture Series.”

The three chosen speakers are innovator Tom Kelley, CNN’s Soledad O’Brien, and adviser David Gergen. All of them have interesting stories to tell, long lists of accomplishments, and have been given the chance to speak at Lynn. So far, one of them has spoken.

Tom Kelley spoke this week, giving a lecture that was inspirational to all. He is famous for his book, “The Ten Faces of Innovation,” among many other things.

The ten faces can be defined as “roles that people can play in an organization to foster innovation and new ideas while offering an effective counter to naysayers.”

The most popular faces of innovation, are “The Anthropologist,” “The Cross-Pollinator,” and “The Hurdler.” If you did not have a ticket to attend the luncheon, you’re probably wondering what they mean.

“The Anthropologist,” is never standing still. It is always adventuring out into the world to see how people interact with services, products, experiences, and others to brainstorm new innovations.

They tend to see things differently than others, and can sort through situations in a new light. Next is “The Cross-Pollinator.” This face makes connections and associations between unrelated ideas and brings it to the surface. This kind of innovator is often open-minded and has a tendency to think in metaphors.

Lastly is “The Hurdler.” This person is known for tackling problems that haven’t been solved before. This person isn’t aggressive when solving the problem, yet takes it nice and easy, with plenty of determination.

The goal is to take problems and resolve them successfully. The other steps are similar to the Pollinator and Hurdler, in that they are all different ways that people innovate. There is a face for everyone! Tom Kelley himself is a great innovator, and has become very successful through his books, lectures, and just about everything in between.

So be sure to pick up a copy of his book. Don’t forget to get your tickets in advance for the other great speakers that are headed to Lynn in the coming months.
Before Stardom
Angelina Jolie
By Nicole Piccolo
On June 4th 1975 Angelina Jolie Voight was born in Los Angeles. Her name meant Pretty Little Angel.

Her parents, Jon Voight and Marcheline Bertrand, were both actors. By the age of two her parents had split and Angelina, along with her brother James, had moved to the East Coast with their mother to the Palisades, New York.

Angelina grew up a happy kid who loved to play dress up, collect lizards and snakes, and enjoyed performing and making people laugh. By the age of 5 she had already had a part in a film her father had starred in, "Lookin' to Get Out".

Jolie
At the age of 11 the family moved back to L.A. She had enrolled in Lee Strasberg Theater Institute where she trained in acting for two years. Eventually dropping out, Angelina went through a stage of depression. She rebelled by moving into an existence of fast living with her punk boyfriend.

By 16 the relationship ended and she moved back in with her mother and went back to theater.

She finally landed a career in modeling and appeared in some music videos. In 1993 her movie career really began, landing a part in "Cyborg 2."

In 1995 her movie career really began. After countless hours of practice, preparation, and anticipation, the Lynn University men's basketball finally opens the 2006-07 season with a challenging road trip this week.

The Knights travel to take on Christian Brothers University in the opener on Wednesday before going up against North Alabama on Friday.

"Overall, this trip will be difficult," Head Coach Scott McMillan said.

All five returners logged quality minutes against the Wildcats as Cohn, Schur, and Smith all scored in double-figures. The Knights are that will try to score 100 points every game.

McMillan said, "Both these teams should be great tests for us defensively," McMillan said.

Bionic Dolphin Making Big Waves
Creatures Being Replicated as Vehicles to Fly Underwater
By Eric Weiss

Living in Florida, dolphins represent our sports teams, and are creatures that inhabit our waters.

Now, these creatures are being replicated as vehicles used to "fly" underwater, or just travel on the waters surface.

The creator of this invention, Thomas Rowe, has been working on the "bionic dolphin" since 1988. He hopes this will be used in the future as a rescue apparatus for people stuck in harsh waters.

With gas prices on the rise, leisurely activities such as going boating can get expensive. This new aquatic dolphin can travel about 300 miles without needing to be refueled. A corvette engine is used allowing the vehicle to travel at speeds up to 55 mph on the waters surface.

Due to the intense speed, a seat belt, much like found in a race car, was installed for passengers to wear. Rowe said, "There's going to be a lot of utility found in this besides having a good time."

Some see the dolphin as a water taxi to get to, and from islands, or wherever you may need to go traveling by water. However, in the need of a rescue vehicle to escape the next big hurricane, the dolphin can be at your rescue.

The vehicle can withstand winds up to 200 mph, and extremely horrendous conditions.

Since this is a new product, it is awaiting approval in order to be put on the consumers market.

When the dolphin does become available, it is going to be very costly, around $300,000. Rowe hopes for lower costs such as $120,000 for a two-seater.

TV Shows Preview
What's New on TV this Month?
By Samantha Murphy

As some of you may know, November is sweeps month for all the TV networks.

They pull out the super-intense episodes of their most popular shows, put the shows on hiatus until February, and plug in new shows to take over until the regulars come back on.

The networks test out shows, look at the ratings, and either keep them or toss them out. Some shows have already been axed and thrown out, for example, FOX'S "The Rich List" and "Happy Hour", who's rating were not substantial enough to keep them on.

However, there is hope for some other shows. ABC will be airing its newest addition, "Day Break" on November 15. It seems promising, with Taye Diggs as its main cast member.

Detective Brett Hopper (Diggs) has a terrible day. He's been accused of shooting state attorney Alberto Garza. He'll go to court and offer a solid alibi, but nobody believes him. After some heavy thinking, he realizes he's been framed, so he tries to run.

The twist: when he wakes up, it's the same day again. Each day he tries to do something differently, to make the situation right, and to find out who's framing him. You're probably thinking, how does he do that?

Well, luckily for Hopper, he remembers everything he did the day before that was unsuccessful, so he'll never repeat his mistakes.

This is an action packed show, and it airs today on ABC at 9pm. ABC seems to be the leading network in sweeps this month; they've got a whole new slew of shows coming soon: "Big Day," "The Knights of Prosperity," and more.

So be sure to tune into your favorite networks over the new few weeks to watch the premieres of some potentially great new shows!
I know it's too early to start preparing for it, but that doesn't mean I can't get excited about the announcement of South Florida's largest music festival. On November 15th this year's line up will be revealed and shortly thereafter on November 18th tickets for the festival will go on sale.

Like always Langerado just happens to be at the end of our spring break March 9th through March 11th just giving us students enough time to get back down to Florida for a great way to end spring break.

This will be my third Langerado Festival and each year they seem to get better and better.

The first Langerado was held at Ft. Lauderdale Stadium with 3,000 in attendance.

The headliners were Moe, Medeski Martin and Wood, and G Love and Special Sauce to help name a few of the bands to play.

Moving to Markham Park in Sunrise gave the festival what it needed, nice big open spaces, and three stages for bands and fans to spread out and have some fun.

With over 10,000 people showing up they knew they had something good going.

Last year with over 12,000 people and over 30 bands, Langerado had some of the top musicians in the business at its largest venue 5 staged party. I can't wait to see what happens this year.

Today the music lineup will be revealed, so go to langerado.com and check it out!

The band has sold 240,000 CDs; 6 times more albums than their last album.

According to an interview with MTV, the "The Black Parade" was chosen to be the title of the album because the songs were more personal and felt more powerful to the band. "The album is a celebration of love and death and destruction," said Producer Rob Cavallo.

Moving to Markham Park in Sunrise gave the festival what it needed, nice big open spaces, and three stages for bands and fans to spread out and have some fun.

With over 10,000 people showing up they knew they had something good going.

Last year with over 12,000 people and over 30 bands, Langerado had some of the top musicians in the business at its largest venue 5 staged party. I can't wait to see what happens this year.

Today the music lineup will be revealed, so go to langerado.com and check it out!

K-Fed Up!
Britney Spears and Kevin Federline File for Divorce

By Ashley Duckrey

This week has been an all together disaster for Mrs. Britney Spears & Kevin Federline.

Not only did his debut CD "Playing with Fire" come in at a dismal #151 on the Billboard Charts selling only 6,000 copies, but he was also served with divorce papers.

Federline's meal ticket misses filed the papers on Tuesday citing the all too common irreconcilable differences.

The papers also stated that Spears will fight for full custody of the couple's two children.

According to entertainment website TMZ sources say highest divorce lawyer Laura Wasser drafted an air-tight prenuptial agreement before the couple married.

Federline's only chance of cashing in is by mounting an ugly custody fight, trying to force a more lucrative settlement.

Just as the gossip columns predicted Federline indeed filed his own set of papers in court stating that he would seek full custody of the couple's two children, and would only allow visitation rights to his soon to be ex-wife.

The documents also said that he's looking to get full spousal support from Spears.

Federline

With all the drama that is surrounding the couple, Britney seems to be somewhat unaffected and rather joyful at the present time.

The paparazzi snapped Spears looking happy and thin over the weekend as she joined friends for dinner in New York City.

US Weekly reported Spears has lost all of her baby weight, and is now on a strict work out regimen to get her pre-baby body back.

Success Story
Former Tennis Player Successful After Graduating Lynn
By Chris Childers
Since the age of two, Jan has excelled at sports. As a child in the Czech Republic, he started as a swimmer and later took up an interest in tennis.

Jan found that he was a natural with a tennis racquet. And it has been his calling card ever since.

But he now has a great career opportunity as a result of the combination of his sport and his business acumen.

Since the age of 15, Jan knew he wanted a career in the business world. He was successful in passing rigorous tests for a specialized high school program in the Czech Republic and then had an opportunity to come to the US to teach tennis.

Jan's prowess in tennis enabled him to get a position during the summers as an Assistant Pro at a private club, where he taught tennis to the rich and famous in Southampton, NY.

He later served as a marketing assistant intern at the same tennis center.

Later, Jan was recruited by Lynn tennis coach Mike Perez to join the men's team here with a full scholarship to pursue a bachelor's degree in business.

Another team member from the Czech Republic had urged Perez to consider recruiting Jan because she knew of his abilities.

At Lynn, Jan was selected as the MVP (Most Valuable Player) on the Men's Tennis Team in 2004, and several times he was named for the first team of the Sunshine State Conference.

Jan helped the team reach the finals in the national championship and he and his partner were the #1 doubles team in the nation.

In planning for his career in business, Jan came to the Career Center to get contacts for possible internships in the field of financial advising, and he met with three local companies.

He settled on an internship with Merrill Lynch, and completed a very successful semester with them last year.

Jan's internship was so successful that he got a full-time job offer as Financial Advisor in the Global Private Client Department at Merrill Lynch to start once he graduates with his MBA in May, 2007.

Furthermore, he is an international student and at the company it was not usual to sponsor such students for jobs.

But they were so impressed with Jan that they decided to offer him sponsorship for his work visa.

The possibilities are endless for students who pursue their dream and work hard.

The Career Center is available to assist those who are looking for help with developing their career plan including working on resumes, interviewing skills, internships.

Ed Hardy
Men's Fashion
By Kelsey Breining
Are you afraid to get a tattoo, but love the whole idea?

Well nowadays everyone from celebrities to people here at Lynn are rocking tattoos, so let's talk about tattooing.

Ed Hardy Hat
The designer 'Ed Hardy' (a tattoo artist) came up with the clever idea of putting his tattoo designs onto hats and then eventually clothing.

With his wide variety of designs he has made himself one of the top fashion designers for both men and women.

We all saw the whole Ed Hardy "truckers" that play a huge role in both men and women's fashion; but now men everywhere are wearing "truckers"-t-shirts.

What makes these shirts so appealing is not only their use of color and rhinestones but their interesting designs but their use of color and rhinestones that appear on the shirt.

Ed Hardy Shirt

Men all over are sporting these shirts, not just to look cool but for shopping but the shirts look nice enough to wear out at night.

Not only are these t-shirts appealing to the eye, they are also very comfortable and look great with a pair of jeans and sneakers.

So if you're a bit hesitant to go out and get that tattoo you've been thinking about for a while - then pick up something at Ed Hardy and rock a tattoo on your clothing!

Student Profile
Alexandra Schunk
By Alain Roche
Alexandra Schunk is an international student from Eggolsheim, Germany, who is currently a junior majoring in Hospitality Management at Lynn and is a member of the tennis team.

Schunk went to North Central Texas College for her freshman year, but didn't want to stay there and then decided to transfer to Lynn.

After placing second in singles at the NJCAA National Tournament, she received All-America honors.

Schunk has been at Lynn for two years now and feels that the "athletics here at Lynn are great, especially the people who work at the athletics department."

"They do a really amazing job. They care about the athletes and try everything to make them perform at their best."

Schunk has been playing tennis for fourteen years and she has experienced some challenges.

She has faced these challenges by learning to develop her own personality and handle different situations and opponents.

"You learn the ability to adapt to different situations and react accordingly," said Schunk.

Playing tennis definitely helped her to become who she is now. Schunk says, "You learn to make decisions for yourself and live independently."

She also believes that tennis makes you a team player, and being a team player helps you care more about other people.

Schunk's goals for the future are to graduate from Lynn successfully, win Nationals, and live a good happy life.

New Program to Help Raise Money for AIDS Awareness
By Ashley Duckey

In 2005, 2.4 million adults and children died of AIDS in Sub-Saharan Africa.

While these statistics are startling there is a way you can help! The (RED) program was developed by Bono and Bobby Shriver, Chairman of DATA to raise awareness and money for the Global Fund by teaming up with the world’s most iconic brands to produce (RED) branded products.

The products offered are cell phones, credit cards, T-shirts, sneakers, watches, and iPods.

If you buy a (RED) product or sign up for a (RED) service, at no cost to you, the company from which you buy it will give some of its profits to purchase and distribute anti-retroviral medicine for people who need it in Africa.

The (RED) campaign is making a big difference and the money donated is getting to the affected areas in need.

In just three weeks, the (RED) campaign raised enough money for more than 15 million pregnant women in Africa to get treatment to prevent the transmission of HIV to their unborn children.

As this holiday season approaches purchase a gift that gives back, think (RED)!

The money helps women and children affected by HIV/AIDS in Africa.

The (RED) Manifesto states as first world consumers, we have tremendous power.

What we collectively choose to buy, or not to buy, can change the course of life and history on this planet.

This campaign has enlisted the help of Motorola, Emporio Armani, I-Pod, American Express, Converse, and Gap, just to name a few.

A percentage of each product sold is given to the Global Fund.

Hollywood’s Latest Box Office Hero
Romanians Saying Borat Misled them
By Vanessa Ott

The movie, “Borat: Cultural Learnings of America for Make Benefit Glorious Nation of Kazakhstan,” debuted last weekend as the No. 1 film in North America, grossing more than $26 million in U.S. ticket sales.

The story line is driven by a series of improvised encounters with lives of Middle Eastern people who become Cohen’s unsuspecting foils while taking part in what they thought was a real documentary.

Offended Romanian villagers are now threatening to sue the producers of Sacha Baron Cohen’s movie, “Borat,” for paying them a pittance to put farm animals in their homes.

Romanians are now saying “Borat” misled them. “We thought they came here to help us — not mock us,” said one of the villagers while sweeping a manure-stained street lined with shabby homes of crumbling brick and corrugated iron sheeting.

Locals offended by the film have accused the producers of paying them just $3.30-$5.50, misleading the village into thinking the movie would be a helpful and educational documentary, while tricking impressionable peasants into improperly portraying their country.

While some people from Glod, the city in Romania where some of these parts were filmed, said they did not mind the movie because they are miserable and have nothing, which brought them entertainment.

The film is causing turmoil in the states as well. Two fraternity brothers from South Carolina have sued the studio and producers for fraud, saying that filmmakers duped them into signing a contract and appearing in the movie after taking them out to help “loosen up,” or get too drunk to use their judgment.

They were shown guzzling alcohol and making racist remarks in the “Borat” film, and have filed a law suit stating that the producers promised it would never be shown in the United States.

The lawsuit, which does not identify the plaintiffs, was filed to protect themselves from any additional and unnecessary embarrassment, and have asked to be removed from the film.

Fifteen Rules to Live By
By Megan McSweeney

It can be a hectic confusing world we live in, but there are a lot of rules to help you succeed at whatever you choose to do:

1-Eat well and sleep enough
2-Acknowledge your strengths and weaknesses
3-Seek out criticism - and listen
4-Always be prepared
5-Be honest with yourself and others
6-Don’t agonize—organize—just take action
7-Never, never give up
8-Help others
9-Manage your time or be managed
10-Believe in yourself
11-Don’t find fault—find a solution
12-Develop a positive “ill make it happen” attitude
13-Good decisions—good results; poor decisions—poor results
14-Eliminate excuses and take responsibility

Helping Out Over Thanksgiving
Donating Food and Money to the People Who Need It
By Samantha Murphy

Thanksgiving is a wonderful holiday celebrated by many people. It is a time to be with loved ones and think about all of your blessings and how lucky you are.

However, a lot of people take for granted how privileged they are. A lot of people don’t realize that even though most of our holidays will be cheerful and plentiful, there are thousands of people all over that are barely surviving.

Thanksgiving should be a time for all to be happy and healthy. There are plenty of ways to help donate food and money to the people who need it, so maybe for once, they can have a nice holiday too.

If you want to start small, try finding local food/can drives, because around this time of year, they can be found at tons of different stores. Publix annually supports the “Food For All” campaign, which is a program of the Food Industry Crusade Against Hunger.

In 2004, donations made by employees and customers of Publix raised over $1.5 million dollars! So, over Thanksgiving, when you are picking up groceries, think about the less fortunate people in the world that can’t afford to buy food, and donate a few dollars. Every bit helps.

“Food For Life Network,” which is the only organization in the Metro Dade County dedicates all their effort and earnings toward finding those less fortunate that suffer from HIV/AIDS. Believe it or not, HIV/AIDS is developing into a huge problem in the Miami area. This organization is a branch of their major group, “Care Resource.” In light of that, Care Resource is hosting a White Party, which will be an elegant fund raiser for their cause.

It is being held at the Vizcaya Museum and Gardens in Miami, on November 25. Tickets are on sale already, so for more information, go to whiteparty.org.

It is really important to think of others over the holidays. We are very fortunate and should all try and brighten up someone’s holiday. You really can make a difference.

National American Indian Heritage Month

Is Thanksgiving a Celebration or a Grievance?
By Laura Vann

November is recognized as National American Indian Heritage Month in the United States where we have the opportunity to celebrate the history, art and tradition of the original inhabitants of our country.

In 1916, New York acknowledged the first “American Indian Day,” and in 1990, President George Bush declared the first American Indian Heritage Month. The purpose of National American Indian Heritage Month is to honor and recognize the original peoples of the United States, including their contributions to our past and to our future.

In 1996, President William Clinton proclaimed, “Throughout our history, American Indian people have been an integral part of the American character. Against the odds, America’s first peoples have endured, and they remain a vital cultural, political, social, and moral presence.”

Tribal America has brought to this great country certain values and ideas that have become ingrained in the American spirit: the knowledge that humans can thrive and prosper without destroying the natural environment; the understanding that people from very different backgrounds, cultures, religions, and traditions can come together to build a great country; and the awareness that diversity can be a source of strength rather than division.”

During Thanksgiving, families celebrate the peaceful meal shared between the two opposite cultures – Pilgrims and Indians. In 1620 the Pilgrims came to Plymouth Rock, Mass. on the Mayflower. The Indians taught the Pilgrims how to survive and grow food in the new world. The following year, the Pilgrims and Indians enjoyed a bountiful feast together.

However, this peaceful celebration did not last. Within fifty years, the Indians were no longer free, and the Pilgrims had colonized the land. In turn bringing diseases that killed 10 to 30 million natives.

For some Native Americans, Thanksgiving is no cause for celebration, but it is a day to remember their ancestors that died and survived.

Test Scores Are Low
Urban Students Fail Test
By Desharna Minnuto

Children in major US cities perform worse on science tests given in inner-city areas, as the amount of middle school, than other students in different parts of the country.

For the first time, ten urban school districts volunteered to take tests to have their scores compared to public school students nationwide.

Fourth graders in nine out of ten city districts had lower average scores than students attending public schools nationwide.

One exception occurred in Austin, Texas where they performed at the national average. The science scores are from the 2005 National Assessment of Educational Progress, which is a test given nationwide periodically on a range of subjects.

This test is viewed as one of the best ways to compare students' achievements across district and state lines.

Besides Austin, the urban districts that participated were Atlanta, Boston, Charlotte, N.C., Chicago, Cleveland, Houston, Los Angeles, New York, and San Diego.

The number of minorities enrolled in these districts is disproportionate to most other areas as the amount of children with limited English ability, and low-income families are scarce.

Keeping this in mind, the results showed that minorities attending these city schools often performed similarly to students with the same backgrounds in the national sample.

The Topics covered on these tests include: chemistry, biology, physics, and earth science.

The new scores prove that there is much needed room for improvement for a range of urban districts as well as most of the nations schools.
The album was released on Oct 24, co-produced by legendary producer Ray Charles, and Raphael Saadiq. During an interview with MTV, Legend said that the album would contain his favorite song that he wrote, entitled “Again.” Legend actually came up with the idea for the song while sitting on a subway. The song was also the inspiration for the album’s title.

The album covers a range of different genres from soul to hip-hop, to classic pop to alternative. Legend actually said, “It’s not dramatically different, but I think people will see it as a growth and an extension for me. It’s a richer sound. The performance is undeniably entertaining and intriguing.”

“The Maybach line of cars has a long history of greatness. William Maybach, the founder of the company, had started out doing work developing some of the first cars for Mercedes in 1910. After his work with Mercedes, Maybach started producing cars with his son, Karl, in the early 1920s. Some of the things he produced were a motorcycle wire-wheel car, and a belt driven car. Not only did the Maybachs develop the first piano car, but also the one that was ahead of its time.

After the 1920s this line of cars dropped because of the Great Depression. However, Karl tried to keep his father’s dream going, but his attempt was not much of a success.

However, back in 2003 Mercedes brought the Maybach line back to life. Currently, Maybach has three different models; 57, 62, and 77s.

The cars that they have out now, exhibit the utmost luxury and comfort in the industry that could make one feel like a king.

The interior of the car may be one of its most impressive things with its two reclining back seats and two separate televisions. The interior is made of fine leather; suede and wood wraps around the dash, doors, and moldings of the car.

The price of the car reflects its hard crafted beauty and prestige. The cost is about $335,250; the “57s” are about $369,750; and last but not least, the “62” costs $385,250.

Maybach has let out some new plans for a new sports car, but they are not sure when they are going to start producing it. When they do, you can certainly expect great things.

The Maybach 57 model is available starting at $335,250; the “57s” are about $369,750; and last but not least, the “62” costs $385,250.

Christian Brothers managed to cut the CBU lead to just seven on a jumper by Smith, and a free throw by Luke Postorino, but couldn’t get further than that. Lynn continued their road trek as they took on North Alabama on Friday.

The Knights return to the friendly confines of the de Hoernle Center next week as they host Puerto Rico-Cayey and Puerto Rico-Mayaguez on Tuesday and Wednesday.

Porter, the final first team selection, led all defenders in the Sunshine State Conference with five goals and 13 points and was part of a defense which allowed 0.58 goals per game.

Wallace closes out his career with 99 points, the fourth most in program history. He scored seven goals and tallied four assists for 18 points.

Viguez had a solid year in the midfield with four goals and five assists for 13 points while Rimmer helped anchor the central defense for Lynn. Barnett was LU’s top scoring threat as he led the team in goals (12), assists (6) and points (30) in his first year with the Fighting Knights.

Lynn ended its season with a 2-1 defeat against West Florida in the NCAA Division II South Regional Finals.

Academic Adventure Preview
Mexican Celebration of Music and Food
By David Jaffic

Academic Adventure Day is this Wednesday, November 29. The focus of activities will be in the Lynn Dining Hall (cafeteria), the lobby outside the Dining Hall, and the building's courtyard.

All freshmen, FYE mentors and helpers are invited to a Mexican-Mayan celebration of music and food at 11:15. There will be a Mariachi band strolling through the Dining Hall, lobby, and courtyard, video displays of Academic Adventure posters, Mayan videos recently broadcast by ABC, opportunities for students to pose for Mayan cut-out photos, and of course, lunch!

Too Embarrassed To Exercise?
Fear of Going to the Gym
By Kelsey Breining

Has there ever been a time when you don't want to go to the gym for fear of having to stare into all of those mirrors?

Now let's be honest, the thought has crossed your mind - right?

And who hasn't experienced a time when you feel like the "fat" one at the gym?

But do people actually have a fear of going to the gym?

Some women and men, literally won't go into the gym for fear of feeling fat.

Seems ironic, you go to the gym to feel good about yourself, not the opposite!

However, there are women all around the world that are overweight and are way too embarrassed to be seen at the gym.

They don't want to be around all those thin, younger people that are working out; especially since some of them don't know exactly how to work the equipment.

Not only will they show you how to work the equipment correctly, they can also show you a good initial workout.

Today many gyms have nutritionists on hand to help you develop an overall health program including diet.

So if you are really serious about exercising and losing weight, then I suggest you put down those potato chips, get off the couch and head to the gym, no matter how "fat" you may feel!

Powering Your iPod On Planes

Planes Will Allow the Charging and Viewing of iPods on Seat-backs

By Beatriz Lewis

Air France, Continental Airlines, Delta Air Lines, KLM, Emirates and United Airlines will begin offering their passengers iPod seat connections.

They will be able to power and charge iPods during flight and allow the video content on the devices to be viewed on seat-back displays.

The service will begin in the middle of next year.

Although it is too early for decision, "All airlines are looking to upgrade their entertainment systems, especially for longer distance flights," said Ray Neidl, senior airline analyst at Calyon Securities.

United said that the deal is part of its new plan to upgrade international first- and business-class travel.

"There is significant value in offering a superior in-flight entertainment experience to our first and business-class customers during their international flights," said Grahan Atkinson, executive vice president and chief customer officer.

Apple is also working with Panasonic Avionics Corporation to bring even more leading airlines in-flight iPod connectivity in the future.

As of now, Apple has sold nearly 70 million iPods and more than 1.3 billion songs through its iTunes music store.

Apple introduced new versions of the device, including a new video iPod and iPod Shuffle.

With the Microsoft Zune already on the market, this news will only increase the rival with the Apple i-Pod.

The only down-side is that it's going to be hard for other music players to have their kit integrated into the plane and airlines won't be making money out of charging for films.

Cell Phone Buzz

No More Drunk Dialing

By Lia Jahnke

When the very first cell phone was created, it was large and heavy, and was mostly designed only to make phone calls.

Cell phones have come a long way since then with features including taking pictures, movies, watching live TV, and surfing the web.

What else could a person possibly want in their cell phone?

Well, another feature is being introduced to cell phones, a sobriety test. On the way is a cell phone that has a built in breathalyzer.

Of all the features introduced over the years, this one could be the one to save lives.

Nowadays, people feel naked without their cell phone and bring it with them wherever they go.

This means a night out drinking, a person will most likely have their cell phone with them (granted they haven't lost it) and will hopefully make them realize when they are in no condition to get behind the wheel.

After drinking through a night a person may have impaired judgment and still believe that they are sober enough to drive, when realistically, they aren't.

Perhaps if they see their blood alcohol level they will think twice before risking their own life and the life of others.

The breathalyzer isn't the only feature this cell phone will offer that is new to consumers. If you have had too much to drink it will display a swerving car hitting cones.

The cell phone can also be set so that if you blow over a .08 the cell phone will not allow you to call your ex-boyfriends or ex-girlfriends. It also offers plug in adaptors for your phone.

A Player's Diary

Inside The Game

By Jose Saca

This week, the coach and I had a talk, and he told me that I had a great swing and a lot of potential.

On Friday, we had a class and he told me that my short game is poor and that I need to fix that problem. The coach said he was going to make me hit the ball low for consistent yardage to the hole.

We went to the golf course to practice inside 100 yards. I was having problems getting the exact distance to the hole. He showed me how the club has to be after impact, and it helped. So later that day, I started to hit solid shots.

He saw what I was doing and said that I am a good potential player because I have the ability to learn quickly.

The breathalyzer isn't the only feature this cell phone will offer that is new to consumers. If you have had too much to drink it will display a swerving car hitting cones.

The cell phone can also be set so that if you blow over a .08 the cell phone will not allow you to call your ex-boyfriends or ex-girlfriends. It also offers plug in adaptors for your phone.

A Player's Diary

Inside The Game

By Jose Saca

This week, the coach and I had a talk, and he told me that I had a great swing and a lot of potential.

On Friday, we had a class and he told me that my short game is poor and that I need to fix that problem. The coach said he was going to make me hit the ball low for consistent yardage to the hole.

We went to the golf course to practice inside 100 yards. I was having problems getting the exact distance to the hole. He showed me how the club has to be after impact, and it helped. So later that day, I started to hit solid shots.

He saw what I was doing and said that I am a good potential player because I have the ability to learn quickly.

A perfect start to the season ended Saturday night as the Lynn University women's basketball team fell 90-40 to no.6 Washburn.

Sarah Mahan led the Fighting Knights with 13 points but the Lady Blues proved to be too much by holding LU to 23.4% shooting from the field. Lynn falls to 3-1 overall.

Lynn opened the game with a 7-2 run and held the lead for the first 3 and a half minutes with five points by Allegra Armstrong.

Mahan led the Fighting Knights in scoring for the third time in four games while Armstrong led the team in rebounds, with seven, for the third consecutive contest.

The Blue and White return to action Saturday, December 2 at 5:30 pm to face Florida Southern in their home and Sunshine State Conference opener.

This place serves a shrimp?

Real, ever since shrimp come off the menu, seafood restaurants are known to serve it.

It's crazy, I can't eat an adorable, helpless shrimp.

But this place looks delicious.

Academic Adventure Day A Success

Creatures Being Replicated as Vehicles to Fly Underwater

By Eric Weiss

Academic Adventure is a tradition founded in 2003.

It is a wonderful time for the new students here at Lynn, in which they cruise into the Caribbean with the intention of learning in a fun and different environment.

This year, the students seem to be more involved than ever, after introducing Academic Adventure Passports.

The students need to get their passport stamped a certain amount of times at different events, including all of the fun activities that took place in the cafeteria on Wednesday.

Since the cruise is going to Mexico, the cafeteria and surrounding areas were bustling with Mexican spirit.

Outside in the courtyard, a Mariachi band played, while everyone snacked away at the chips and salsa table.

But that wasn’t all - there were tons of other neat things happening inside.

There were some computers set up with cameras, so that you could have your picture taken, and have your face placed in a picture of a Mayan person.

Best of all, you can have it printed out for a souvenir. What a great thing to bring home to Mom and Dad.

Inside the very crowded cafeteria, there was another fun Mariachi band, playing everyone’s favorite tunes, like the Mexican Hat Dance.

Students were getting their passports stamped at the entrance, then running off to explore all the exciting activities.

There were fun and creative Academic Adventure posters hung all over, featuring drawings and writings made by all of the FYE classes.

And to top it off, there was a big picture and video slideshow, featuring recent clips in the news about Mexico.

Everyone seems to be very excited for their cruise, which begins January 8 and returns to Lynn January 13. Some changes have been made for this year’s adventure, and this time the students will be floating on the modern MV Explorer, which is a ship used specifically for the ever-so-popular Semester at Sea program.

The ship is very wired for learning, featuring classrooms, computer labs, a library, and lots of other cool things. It looks like it will be a very fun time!

But until then, students will continue learning about what’s to come in the future, and thanks to Academic Adventure day, everyone seems to be getting more pumped for their trip.

¡Olé!
Finals are right around the corner! For most students, with finals comes the stress of preparing and getting through this chaotic time.

Finals can quite possibly be the most stressful part of a student’s school year. Believe it or not, there are many ways to greatly reduce the amount of stress you have to go through.

Following just a few tips and some advice can help you get through it a little bit easier.

One factor that makes it such a hard time is the amount of things you have to complete, especially if one has procrastinated all semester, you need to get things done in a short amount of time.

One thing you may want to consider before resorting to chewing on your nails and pulling out your hair is outlining a list of things that you need to do.

This will give you a sense of control over what needs to be done. This list should have the most important assignments at the top and lead to the less important one on the bottom.

Another alternative, is to exercise. Exercising gives the sense of accomplishment and will increase the endorphin flow in your brain which will most likely put you in a good mood. About three days a week, and twenty to forty-five minutes, will greatly increase your sense of confidence and well being.

An easy way to relieve stress is hanging out with your buddies. Be careful though, hanging out with them until 2 a.m, and going to school the next morning with a massive headache is quite the contrary of what you are trying to achieve.

The easiest time to think clearly is when you are relaxed. Make sure you are eating right and drinking loads of water. Junk food will not help you concentrate.

Eating right will also reduce the chances for a headache or nausea. Take one step at a time, and stay calm, you will get through your week of finals just fine.

Among all of the new artists that have released their albums this year, Jay-Z is the newest member. Jay-Z released his newest album, "Kingdom Come", on Nov 21. This signifies the end of his retirement from 2003, where the title came from the CD comics’ series where Superman returns from self exile, to a dangerous and crazy world.

Jay-Z wanted to expand his music to all demographics, and prove that he still is a major part of hip-hop. He enjoys listening to hip-hop even though he has said to be "retired."

"People who grew up listening to hip-hop, we still love hip-hop when we’re 30 or 40", said Jay-Z. According to Jay-Z, this album was his biggest challenge. "It was very important that I made a record reflective of who I am in my life."

"Too many people, when they get to 30 years old, they still try and make records for like, 15-year-olds, and that makes the genre so small and narrow," says Jay-Z.

JAY-Z is ready to connect more with the listeners and is not only interested in recording music that will play on the dance floors. He wants to show various aspects of hip-hop and that means making emotional tracks and making adult records as well.

The first single off this album is called "Show Me What You Got". The song is very upbeat, with snare drums and an organ, who could imagine hip-hop could be so much fun.

In the track, "Lost One", Jay-Z talks about his relationship with girlfriend of five years Beyonce Knowles, the split from Damon Dash and the death of his nephew. In this song, he does a great job at conveying the message he is trying to share with his audience.

Lynne University has entered into a partnership with Stretch Internet to provide live internet video streams for select men’s and women’s basketball games as well as the Sunshine State Conference Basketball Tournament.

Lynn is already one of seven schools in the SSC to provide audio broadcasts via the internet through Stretch and will be the second institution to utilize live video productions.

"This is just another way for fans to feel apart of Lynn University and its athletic programs," said athletic director Kristen Moraz.

"With the addition of video, fans can get closer to the action and never miss a beat."

The Knights will air its first broadcast on Saturday, December 2 for the women’s and men’s basketball SSC opener against Florida Southern.

Fans can access the games by logging on to www.lynn.edu/athletics and clicking on the "live audio" link. From there fans will have the choice to purchase the video feed or listen to the game for free.

Lynn will also provide free video coverage for the first round through the semifinals of the SSC tournament beginning February 8-March 4.
